5000 Attend Lectureship

Christian Workshop Set For August 7-9; First Annual Meeting

Every year more visitors come, one time to Harding's catching fire, another time to catch fire again, to see and hear about any other event. And next year the crowds are expected to be greater than ever.

In November all records for attendance at the annual Lectureship were broken when more than 5000 persons attended the four-day meeting, which came to a climax Thanksgiving Day. Harding kicked off the annual meeting when President H. E. Patterson welcomed the 5000 visitors served at the annual dinner. And for the first time at Harding the meetings were held in two auditoriums we r e u s e d together as the main auditorium. During the four-day meeting, which was designated to carry out the general theme of the meetings, (see leaders and Danger of the Church) all nearly 5000 people participated in the program.

Eve ryone was welcome, and those who were expected to attend included Rex Johnston of Pepperdine, Carl Greene, President of Michigan Christian College, R. W. L. Ironside of Houston, Pat. and Glenn Leves, minister of the Bible Church, and almost everyone in the state who was expected to attend. Judge McCartney, other speakers were both in the College faculty and others, as well as the main auditorium of the Administration Building.

Visitors from around the state and from other states were expected to officially open the building. The visit was the first of the students to move in at the beginning of school.

Harding's Alumni Field, rated among the finest athletic fields in the AAC is the latest addition on campus for athletics. Included in the area are a center track, football field, field house, baseball diamond, press box, and an enclosed lighted football field.

50000 Volumes

A visitor to the campus also noted immediately the American Studies Building, built in 1953, the American Christian Workers' Workshop, the science and mathematics library, the 60,000 volume library, and the original campus when Harding moved from 1931. In all, over a dozen buildings have taken place on the campus.

Harding's scenery is definitely changing, and with increased enrollment in the next academic year, the skyline changes to a new campus.

In the evening the Department of Communications is scheduled to perform an adaptation of the musical "The King and I."

Bible Studied Every Term

Every full-time student at Harding is enrolled in at least one Bible course each semester. Courses are available to provide a biblical and historical development and grow in detail and complexity as the student advances in years.

Freshmen begin with a survey of the Old Testament in the fall, followed by a New Testament survey in the spring. These classes are designed to give an understanding of the Bible and lay the foundation for a spiritually fortified life in the spring.

Second-year work consists of a careful study of the life and teachings of Christ in the fall and the church and the Christian life in the spring.

These basic freshman and sophomore courses, required of all students working toward degrees, are a rare bargain in the field of education. Each of the four required courses gives five semester hours of credit toward the cost of the one semester of credit given.

SPECIAL ISSUE

While the regular Bison staff were enjoying the holidays at home and working on the Spring semester, the Publications office completed this issue in the absence of the Bison. It will be mailed in prospectives to all students and friends.

Next week's issue will feature a picture of Harding campus life. The Publications Office offers special thanks to regular staff members who helped with this edition.

P.E. Meetings Train Christian Workers

Monday night's Personal Evangelism meetings, conducted by Andy T. Ritchie, assistant professor of Bible, directs the group in spontaneous meetings and study sessions today many missionaries and Christian workers throughout the world to their own personal evangelism experiences.

Almost every one of my teachers mentioned daily that we should attend college, even if we could go only for one year. My appetite was whetted for a taste of the college life I had always dreamed of.

I collected a library of bulletins from schools over the nation. Finally, I decided to go to a nearby college where I could find what I thought about them. When I met my roommate and next door neighbors and found that they too felt as I did about a num­ ber of things in life — they also wanted a tall, dark and handsome boy like me — I began to be at peace with college life changed rapidly. When I met my roommate and next door neighbors and found that they too felt as I did about a num­ ber of things in life — they also wanted a tall, dark and handsome boy like me — I began to be at peace.

To me, learning to view other people's philo­ sophies of life is the most appealing aspect of my college experience.

My appetite for learning was never satisfied in one semester, so after a year more I learned the more I learned.

Then when I saw opportunities open to me in serving man, I began thinking about the chances for God. Couldn't I be used by the Lord in more ways than one? I began to talk about the possibility of going on to Christian college. They pointed out that a Christian college can give you such a much better education makes better.

I must confess, however, that my mind changed rapidly. But my views of college changed rapidly. Almost every one of my teachers mentioned...

Bison, Annual Take Honors

Harding's student publications received the highest honors in state and national competition again this year. The Student Advocate, an All-American newspaper for the 10th time in 18 years, produces a more worthwhile paper than its competitors.

The Pet Pea has been in national competition since 1953 and in the last few years has won the highest rating given by the Associated Collegiate Press. During the 1961-62 Bisons, the editors, under George E. Bridge, published the college's newspaper in a more readable form.

Four students attended the Associated Collegiate Press convention, which was held in St. Louis. At the convention, three students won first place and one other, second place, for their work in the college's newspapers.

The 1961-62 Bisons, edited by George E. Bridge, published an editorial on the United States' decision to enter into the atomic bomb test ban. The editorial is a plea for the United States not to be the first to break the ban, and it states that the U.S. should strive to maintain a peaceful and prosperous world.

Students participating in interscholastic sports were honored with awards at the annual banquet. The awards were presented to the students who demonstrated the highest level of performance in their respective sports.

Sponsors for the annual banquet included the Student Council, the Student Senate, and the administration. The program for the evening included a keynote address by Dr. Richard A. Wellborn, president of the college, and a speech by Dr. Charles H. Currey, provost of the college.

3 Women Become "Queen for a Day" In Year's Festivities

Every year three women become "queen for a day," ranging over annual festivities connected with homecoming in May and Pet Pea day.

Homecoming, the first queen event, takes place in the autumn prior to the homecoming formal games. One of the three candidates,蓉d grid squad is awarded queen, the others are named as runners-up.

One of the candidates is selected by the ladies of the Student Association and the others are named by the judges. The queen is chosen from the candidates who are judged on their appearance, scholastic achievement, and character.

The homecoming queen is crowned during the parade on horseback, followed by the band and many floats. The queen is accompanied by two of her attendants, who are selected by the Student Association from the group of transfer students present.

The first queen event of the year is the homecoming parade, which is followed by the homecoming dance. The homecoming dance is a formal dance, and the queen is crowned during the dance.

33 Clubs Offer Social Training For Every Harding Student

The Harding College Placement Bureau, headed by Dr. W. L. Ross, offers a variety of services to students who are looking for full-time employment or part-time employment. The bureau offers career counseling and job placement assistance.

The bureau also offers a variety of workshops and seminars to help students develop their job search skills. The bureau's workshops and seminars cover topics such as resume writing, interviewing, and job search strategies.

The bureau is located in the Career Development Center, which is located on the second floor of the Administration Building. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and is closed on weekends.

Lyceum Series Begins
Top Professional Acts

The Harding College Lyceum series has been noted historically and mind reader to the Harding campus Jan. 12-Frank Folgar, who has made outstanding appearances at Harding before.

Professionals and Students
Two companies of actors and two music combos, with three student productions for the Lyceum series this year. The first professional performance begins Oct. 20 with Natalie Bobrinskey, lyric soprano from the Metropolitan Opera Company. Following her, Nov. 17 were Fer­ ranza and Fecoria, the duo-form­ ation of "hendrix," and theme from "The American" who performed before a full house.

"Richard III" is scheduled for performance Dec. 9 by the Play­ ing Corp. and the Beiles and Beaux. The playing of "Richard III" will be followed by the performance of the musical "Pippin" on Dec. 17.

Campus Productions
Harding's drama organization, the Campus Players, Harding's drama organization, this semester.

The first production was "A Knave of Hearts," a satire about a woman's college under the direction of Norris Tebo, a composer from Boston. The comedy centers around a small­ size snake-charcer, Frumic Mec­ tatic, who breaks into the main line of a charm school and is mistaken for a new teach­ er.

"Land Rats" were built by John Canzelli, freshman from Fort Smith, Miss., Bob Bosanac, junior from Rippled Thun., and Norma Sanders, sophomore from Fort Smith.

Elise Allen. "Pam's The Opera of Amor Bastille in Cayenne, French Guiana, and Rogers' and Hammer­ stein's "The King and I" are scheduled for Dec. 1 and April appearance of the season with the Harding College's Belles and Beaux and the Harding College's Beaux and the Harding College's Beaux and the Harding College's Belles and Beaux.

The Harding College Opera has been called "one of the finest of the state dramas in the Amer­ ican school system," and Sallie Bell and Patrics have been on the scene every Friday for the past ten years.

Among the casts of the plays are the actors from the Davis and Devine plays, which are accompanied by the Beiles and Beaux and the Harding College's Beaux and the Harding College's Belles and Beaux, respectively.

The first play of the season was "One Act Plays," which has won all requirements for the Harding College's Beaux and the Harding College's Beaux and the Harding College's Belles and Beaux.

Facilities Worked Constantly

Harding's intricate intramural athletic program is the product of over 20 years of development, and since Carl Beck, intramural athletic director, came to Harding in 1939, new records in the program's growth are set each year. This year, as in the past, over 1200 men will participate in the program. And the growth this year before the cancellation in the athletic picture by the national Intramural Association. He will present his objectives for the year to the students, and Beck is to serve as counselor in Graduate Hall and assists Beck in keeping these students interested in the intramural athletics.

"This is true in softball, flag football and volleyball," says Beck. "But this is exactly what Beck said last year of the program, and the crowds and cheering at the final inning of a softball game or the last cold quarter of flag ball prove his statement."

Intramural competition often rivals intercollegiate enthusiasm, especially when clubs meet. The division of major and minor intramural sports has helped Beck solve his problems. This year an intramural competition was held west of the Mississippi, in which 30 men students just holding their breath to prove his statement.

For the first time in the program last year the record for the 120-yard dash was broken. Vanderpool set two in 1958: 10.800 sec and three and one-half complete trips through the difficult pent horn. Division "A" meet was held in 1956. Major and Minor Leagues Team competitions are divided into two leagues. The quality of play and boycotts of games are expected. Beck devotes as much time and energy to these clubs as he does to the 125 men entered basketball, a record number of participants as last year.

James Jackson

At the end of the year 15 men with the most points are given awards on Senior Citizen Day. Sweaters are given men who already have won a jacket. During the year little "Oscar" are awarded teams and individuals for their victories.

Few records stand more than three years, but these marks seem to be gaining a permanent spot on the board. Vocal Vanderpool set two in 1958: 10.300 sec and three and one-half complete trips through the difficult pent horn. Division "A" meet was held in 1956. Major and Minor Leagues Team competitions are divided into two leagues. The quality of play and boycotts of games are expected. Major and Minor Leagues Team competitions are divided into two leagues. The quality of play and boycotts of games are expected. Beck devotes as much time and energy to these clubs as he does to the 125 men entered basketball, a record number of participants as last year.

"Club interest is at an all-time high this year," says Beck. "This is true in softball, flag football and volleyball." But this is exactly what Beck said last year of the program, and the crowds and cheering at the final inning of a softball game or the last cold quarter of flag ball prove his statement."

Bob Tobin, former director of athletic programs for Harding in 1957 when the college was facing the problems of the depression. He cut out inter-collegiate athletics and began developing intramural activity in 1959 in order to benefit the students and keep them interested in the other sports activities.

"This year, as in the past, over 1200 men will participate in the program. And the growth this year before the cancellation in the athletic picture by the national Intramural Association. 2-2 Mark By Cagers Set in AIC Race

An early-season look at the Bisons' basketball team that exhibits moments of urgency, but so far has lacked a single victory, pushing them into a consistently threatening conference.

By now standing 2-2 in AIC play and 2 for 4 for the season, Steve Smith of the Bisons finds himself in a more than a little more of a hurry, as his team gives a look at just how much of a threat they can be.

Thanksgiving afternoon opened the season when Harding defeated Lindsey Methodist University 94-66 on 2000 persons. Larry Brethauer of the Bisons led the grind for both of those games, scoring a total of 24 points and 24 for the season.

Two days later the Bisons took on the University of Arkansas at Monticello, 77-60. Steve Smith of the Bisons picked up 23 points and 20 for the season.

But the Bisons went cold down in the Bisons' homecoming victory over the Mountaineers, 14-10. Harding got fourth in the All-AIC race making the first two game still
