Minister
Broad Street Church of Christ
155 East Broad Street
Cookeville, Tennessee

Dear Brother Chalk:

Thank you for your letter of September 9 with the information I had requested.

Two posters each have been mailed to the churches listed on the sheet you sent me, and I hope you have already received the package of twenty that were mailed to the Broad Street church. We wrote each of the congregations asking their cooperation in posting the placards at the front and rear of the church buildings. We also sent posters to principals of the Putnam County high schools, asking them to place them on their bulletin boards.

Enclosed are copies of news stories and radio information sent to the two newspapers and the local radio station.

I have tried to make it clear in all of the information that Lipscomb rather than the church is sponsoring the lecture.

Hope your meeting in Celina was successful.

Best wishes,

Dear Mr. Mott:

September 16, 1960

Our president, Dr. Athens Clay Pullias, will be presented by Lipscomb in an illustrated lecture at the Broad Street Church of Christ on Thursday, September 29.

The lecture will include 350 color slides taken by Dr. Pullias and his wife and son, Clay, Jr., on a nine weeks' tour of Europe and the Middle East in the summer of 1959. This tour included great world cities of Europe and the Bible lands, and ended in Athens, Greece, where Dr. Pullias' grandfather was born. One of his objectives on the trip was to look up any members of the family that might still be in the vicinity, but he did not find any of them in the areas he visited.

The lecture is free to the public, but we are explaining in all of our publicity that those who wish to do so will be given opportunity to make voluntary contributions to the work at David Lipscomb College.

Lipscomb opened its fall term this week with a four-day orientation program for freshmen. To date 551 first-year students have already reported. We are expecting around 1300 students in the four college classes and already have about 700 enrolled in high school and elementary school. Enrollment last year was the largest to date, including 1182 in the college, and 494 in the freshman college class. The overall total was 1901.

I am sure you will want to give the lecture in spot announcements during the coming two weeks which will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Eunice B. Bradley

David Lipscomb College, Nashville, is presenting its president, Dr. Athens Clay Pullias, at the Broad Street Church of Christ Thursday, September twenty-ninth, in an illustrated lecture, "Far Horizons." The program will begin at seven-thirty p.m. and will include about three hundred and fifty color slides of scenes taken by Mr. Pullias in fourteen countries of Europe and the Middle East.

With Mrs. Pullias and their son, A. C. Pullias, Jr., Pullias spent nearly nine weeks last summer touring the great centers of Europe and the Middle East. He and his family in appreciation of his twenty-five years of service to Christian education at Lipscomb.

Since his return, Mr. Pullias has given the lecture in many cities and towns throughout Tennessee and other states, and at a number of different places in Nashville.

Vice-President Willard Collins of Lipscomb has announced that no admission will be charged for the lecture, which is open to the public. Pullias was appointed president of Lipscomb in 1918, and prior to that time had served as instructor in sociology and Bible, head of the Bible Department, assistant to the president, and director of the Lipscomb Extension to make voluntary contributions to David Lipscomb College.

Program through which Lipscomb was expanded to senior college status in 1918.

He has preached for churches of Christ since 1926, and from 1931 until 1938, when he became president of the college was minister of the Charlotte Avenue Church of Christ, one of Nashville's largest congregations. He has spoken often in schools and churches of Putnam County, and last June was the commencement speaker for Tennessee Polytechnic Institute.

Lipscomb has announced that no admission will be charged for the lecture, which the public is invited. However, friends of Christian education who wish to invest in young people at Lipscomb will be given opportunity to make voluntary contributions to the college.

With Mrs. Pullias and their son, A. C. Pullias, Jr., Pullias spent nearly nine weeks last summer touring 14 countries of Europe and the Middle East on a trip given by friends of the family in appreciation of his 25 years of service to Christian education at Lipscomb.

"Far Horizons" is based on this trip, including about 350 color slides of scenes in the Bible lands and old-world cities of Asia, Africa, and Europe. The lecture has been presented in many communities throughout Tennessee, as well as in other states, and on the Lipscomb campus. During the 1960 Summer Lecture Series at Lipscomb, Pullias showed slides from his collection of approximately 1300 made on the trip, in four successive lectures.

Pullias was appointed president of Lipscomb in 1946, and prior to that time had served as instructor in sociology and Bible, head of the Bible department, assistant to the president, and director of the Lipscomb Expansion Program through which Lipscomb was expanded to senior college status in 1948.
