"Harding students are different. You smile and look at me like you like me, I like you," says John Finley Williamson. He is the internationally famous choral conductor. Dr. Williamson is at Harding this week to direct a choral deck with vocal students here. He is the co-founder with her husband of the Westminister Choir College.

Dr. Williamson also says that music is powerful, but simply to open up our minds to the music in the air is incorrect when you can hear "music for breathing." He says, "It's only steaming the air for your neighborhood."

Dr. Williamson, who is a musicologist and composer, was under Herbert Greene and Howard, in the Westminster Choir, which he directed, is a leading international concert attraction with Warwick, and Buck, and the choristers. It has appeared before U. S. Presidents and has made a good tour of Europe in 1962.

Thoughts For Today

By Dhanarat Yongvanichjit

On our earth planet, there exists human beings of different appearances. Ordinarily, they are subdivided into the following groups — namely, Caucasian, Mongolian and Negro.

Their physical differences have never been an issue for people. What matters is the behavior in each. Such a conclusion is derived, according to sociologist Arnold W. Green.

New Division of Humans

Perhaps one may arrive at a conclusion that no one is any different from the others, according to those who sing in it, they are performing like they never have before.

At Harding College and the internationally-famed Westminster Choir, Dr. Williamson has a list of accolades and honors too long to fit in this editorial section. But more important, his enthusiasm to be a true student is something that he can pass on to others.

Nobler Some College Students For Nobler Purposes for Education

It seems that the student body is constantly engaged in a battle of wits. Everyday in the classroom his mind is forced to be open to all phases of learning; science, math, literature, history, religion, philosophy . . . .

Some students are hours cramming his brain full of facts so that when the hour comes he will have an understanding of several different factors.

Unfortunately, some students become so engrossed in the battle that they overlook an important fact that they forget the real values and purposes of an education.

Purposes of Education

Education is an effective instrument if a person trains himself well. It may be a matter of dates, concepts and theories or becoming outstanding in his field and doesn’t take time to broaden his understanding of mankind. Education does not serve its true purpose when one still feels alienated toward persons of other races, religions and cultures. Education can become costly when, with his mind as concentrated on learning, the person ignores performing little kindness for others.

And, can the college student call himself an asset to the human race if he thinks of education only as a means to a future career — or the proof of his superiority to other people.

It seems that many persons seek an education for reasons of inner security. There is no security in education when it means constantly competing and striving for grades, to monopolize or add to every conversation, assuming an arrogant walk and voice tone and adding to one’s vocabulary.

A large supply of those who believe in the value of a college education for all students.

Some College Students For Nobler Purposes for Education

I hold that the United Nations, as organized under the San Francisco Charter, United Nations is readily capable of maintaining world freedom.

The United Nations General U. Thant has said:

"It is axiomatic to the United Nations must develop to assume a wider role not only in its own affairs but also in the affairs of other sovereign states. If we believe in the future, it must assume some of the responsibilities of a state."

Mr. Thant suggests, to submit our servitude to the United Nations General U. Thant.

"Let us go as far as the peril of national security and the risk of inevitable world tyrants.

UN Universalism

I hold an opinion on the fact that the United Nations is understood as the common denominator to all democratic bodies and governments. It easily solves all problems that exist.

The United Nations is undoubtedly a charter that pays no respect to the fundamental safety of the Organization of United Nations. The people of 54 small nations, numbering 2.2 billion, have 54 votes in the United Nations General Assembly, whereas the 180 million people of the United States have 180 votes.

The United Nations government is insane, but the countries who join it to co-operate in any way are unwise. They are both evil and immoral.

They cannot exist side by side with us as a permanent member of the United Nations. We are not to be taken as voices to "vote" any definitive decisions of the United Nations that restorers world peace and freedom. To permit Russia to have such a veto power concerning the use of UN troops is like permitting Jack the Ripper to have a vote on the local police commission.

Bureaucratic Corruption

Non-representative rule breeds corruption. If a tyrannical worldwide government is to be established, then our "world organization" must be under a strictly powerful state which, like the American Constitution, is firmly based on a fundamental belief in God and democracy, to preserve not only peace but also freedom. And this principle must provide for the selection of delegates directly from the public, not through any undemocratic dictatorship. And, unimportant if we need an organization, any well-meaning governmental body. One world government must only lead to more wars and destruction.

The United Nations government is insane, but the countries who join it to co-operate in any way are unwise. They are both evil and immoral.

This fact finds it easy to use the U. N. military. It has come up with no better solution of world peace.

It is my thesis that although the United Nations has a better name for all the world, it is still the selection of delegates directly from the public. We must agree that such a beast is less peace than the beast of all.

The United Nations government is not the organization that the United Nations has made its share of mistakes, as have all other attempts at international co-operations. The government of the United States of America has made mistakes too, but shall be comparable to the United Nations. The United States has the amazing ability to live through these mistakes, as have all other attempts at international co-operations. Harding Helps Bible Majors

By Clark Johnson

Harding offers needy Bible majors and preaching students the opportunity to complete their academic education here.

In this area there are many preaching opportunities. Each Sunday over a hundred Harding students preach in surrounding congregations. This helps them finance their educational expenses. They also acquire practical experience in the field.

In addition to these and other work opportunities, Harding offers scholarship and loan funds based on a flexible policy and administered with respect to need. In addition to the general funds there are seven funds initiated specifically for the use of Bible majors.

Each year the Gospel Broadcast Scholarship provides a Bible student full tuition and fees for four years. It begins with the junior year and terminates with the completion of the Master of Religious Education degree. The other scholarship is the Mrs. Pauline Law Scholarship fund of $2,600.00. The interest from which is used.

Matt Stansbury is placed on loan funds. Since money can be withdrawn during the summer months, Matt will preach during the summer months, the loan program provides the most efficient use of the idle money.

Fourteen Bible Majors to Graduate from Harding At Close of Semester

This year Harding graduates fourteen Bible majors, part of a dedicated group who serve as the backbone of the campus's religious program.

At the end of four years of study during which time they gain a deep insight into Biblical teachings, the students enter various parts of the country and sometimes go abroad with the purpose of strengthening the church.

Harding students who choose the ministry as their life's profession were prompted by a variety of reasons. Almost all of them now preach on Sundays or congregations throughout Arkansas or in surrounding states.

SMELSER, from Wayman, Mich., says he wants to preach because he enjoys working with people. Smelser currently preaches at Big Pore. He is attending high school at Great Lakes Christian College in Ontario, Canada, and spent one year in Mexico in 1963.

At the age of 12, MARVIN SANTOS, participated in public worship for the first time by being led in prayer in church one Sunday. Now finding himself in the preaching ministry, Richert explains, "One phase of church leading has to be another prep, he now preaches at five different congregations, one of them being his home church in Moody."

PAT McGEE, from Wichita, Kan., plans to move to New York this Summer. He is currently involved in the church in his native state. "I plan to preach in various parts of the United States, and work with the church in New York City."

JERE YATES, another student, is from Memphis, Tenn. Jim has returned from Europe and is currently considering a position teaching English in Canada.

SAM MIAO, preaches in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, plans to go to Jamaica next year. He preaches in various places including Singapore during the summer months. After graduating, Miao hopes to secure a position at the new Christian college to be built in Malaysia.

A Bible class teacher in his home town, church in Mount Pleasant, Tex., sparked the desire to preach to FRANK VYVER. "I want to preach in fulfillment of the duty of spreading the Word which Christ left to Christians," Vyver states.

SAM TUMBLESTON preaches in Washington, Ark., and has a definite plan to do mission work in Africa. He is a native of Northfield, Wash.

The influence of his parents and a close preacher friend made CLARENCE SANDERS decide to enter the ministry. Next year he plans to attend the Graduate School of Bible at Abilene Christian College. He has been told that he may have the opportunity to do work in Northwest.

A newcomer at Harding this spring is CHARLES Lyons, a native of Neosho, Mo., who has been asked to come to Harding during his junior year to teach English to high school students.

Because the church is weak in the North, CHARLES LYONS, who has been with the church the last three years at Freed-Hardeman. Lyons is from Neosho, Mo., and has preached twice a week in Arkansas. He plans to do work in New York some time in 1965.

Representatives Coming To Interview Seniors

Three public school representatives will be on campus next week to interview students interested in teaching positions in various parts of the country. Accordin to Mrs. Mildred McCoy, Placement office secretary, "we are very interested in teaching in that area.

Wendell Bloom, who teaches in Westminster, Del., will be on campus today through Saturday to interview those interested in teaching in that area. Mrs. McCoy will arrange appointments.

William L. Allison, superintendent of schools at Cape Girardeau, Mo., will be in the placement office Feb. 11, after 1 p.m. and may be contacted through our office at 321 W. Court Square.

Don Humphries, preacher at First Baptist, L.A.N.G.L.E., Searcy, Arkansas, will be here that day. He is interested in getting Christian teachers to move to the Great Bend area.

Seventy-five per cent of the men interviewed said they thought women wear their skirts too short. The remaining men were too unsure of their exceptions.

The desirable length ranged from Floor length to above the knee. The majority considered above the knee as becoming.

The men supported their theory that when a man said that tall and heavy female students were more likely to be in trouble.

"Tall girls" should be heartened by the answers received to the question that was discussed at length. "If you dated a girl as tall or taller than you, would you mind if she wore heels?"

Eight-five per cent replied that they would not mind at all. The others said that they would definitely feel inferior and would probably not even date a female taller than they were.

More than half of the girls interviewed agreed that they are bad for their knees. They would not mind at all. The others replied that they would not mind at all.
