Anderson-Arnold Debate Team Wins Honor in Washington D.C.

JOEL ANDERSON and JIMMY ARNOLD, Harding's up and coming senior men's debate team, talked away second place honors at the Capitol Hill Tournament held Feb. 21-23 at the University of Virginia. The debaters went all the way to the top before bowing out to North Western University in the ninth round. Anderson, a junior political science major from Searcy, Ark., and Arnold, a junior from Nashville, Ark., have been regular tournament debaters since sophomore year. They are seniors this year.

Fifty teams from thirty schools were represented at the tournament. Harding attended by special invitation and was the only college in Arkansas there. The next to last year. Both men are versatile and have earned their speech honors for Harding since the last college in Jackson, Miss., and once at the University of Arkansas. They won the Millsaps Theta, history society.

John Rockefeller, IV to Interview For Peace Corps

John D. Rockefeller, IV, in charge of the Philipines Program for the Peace Corps, is about to be on campus March 12 to meet with students and faculty members who are interested in Peace Corps service.

Rockefeller, who has served as Special Assistant to Peace Corps director Serpent Stecher, has a wide knowledge of Far Eastern languages and affairs. After he earned his A.B. at Harvard, Rockefeller said, "What expertise do you have on China, Russia, Japan, and Southeast?" Rockefeller is said to have broadened his knowledge of Far Eastern languages and affairs. After he earned his A.B. at Harvard, Virginia Walder, Glenda Black, Mardie Goldner, Phil Sturm, and Oscar Coleman. Membership in this group is confined to students with a B-plus average in 12 or more hours of history and an above average record in other subjects. The meeting next month will be held at the state convention. Gaylon Lamb, sophomore Eng.

Gaylon Lamb Selected to Run For SNEA Job

Gaylon Lamb, sophomore English education major from Judsonia, Ark., has been selected by the SNEA for the office of College Member, Chairman of the State Student Arkansas Education Association. Gaylon Lamb, who is 20 years old, will be attending the state convention this spring, though the last meeting of the society is scheduled to be held on campus. Officers of the club are Sharon Scott, president; Bill Smith, vice president and history professor from Johnson; secretary-treasurer. The faculty sponsor is Joe Spaulding.

Students May Serve Nation By Joining the Peace Corps

By Johnny H. Westebrook

February 1, 1961

President John F. Kennedy delivered a moral message to Congress in which he said:

"I recommend the establishment of ... a pool of trained American men and women sent overseas by the United States Government to work through private organizations and individuals to help foreign countries meet their urgent needs of skilled manpower,..."

In September of that year Congress responded by passing legislation which created the Peace Corps. By the end of the year, the 100 Peace Corps volunteers had already been sent abroad to begin their work.

Their work included being businessmen, shopkeepers, teachers, nurses, agricultural workers, teachers, and other services that were needed in countries ranging from India to India.

Not Peace Seeking Kids

The Peace Corps was formed as an attempt to stop world war by showing the people who were sent to these places that war is not the answer. The people being helped are usually poor and therefore not very well informed about the principles of freedom. But even if they are not a horror student or a campus leader, to his parents he's still an important personality.

Even though they can't be with him, they want to know that he's having a good life, and to know who his friends are, when he's happy, when he's discontented, and all the rest.

Think about it, student. Your parents mean a lot to you. They're worried about you. Don't you love them? You don't have to be sentimental and mushy about it, just let them know you love them. Send them a new letter.

P.S. To Worried Mother: Your son is doing fine!

Alma Mater Is Not Sung Enough

How many of you, when you saw the beginning and end of the Harding movie and listened to the singing of "Near the foothills of the Ozarks..." felt like you were going to burst into song?

Here at Harding, Americanism is forever being sung. But I wonder how many students know the principles to which our songs are indicative of an over-all attitude, one that we will carry with us the rest of our lives.

The easy course of action is for the student to look at the flag and show no reaction, as if it were not there. One that the Harding student is supposed to show is Christian virtue! And then we rush back to the dorms and learn about a protest at a certain time or place. How can people be thinking about the protest when the issue is almost over? I mean, how can people be so quick to jump on a bandwagon and forget about it the next day. It's difficult to bear this in mind, blazing his way through life, unless some light is thrown on a subject of this nature.

It's quite pleasant to exude--that Christlike attitude which discussed this problem in the College Student..."
Sam Decided To Like America—and Does

By Marilyn Horvath

Sam Miao, senior Bible major from Singapore, Malaya, to like America and the American people. He studied three years and this year at Freed-Hardeman where he has since attained, first accomplishments. He is not Beaux, Harding's most outstanding

American Beliefs Not New

Although Buddhism is the predominant religion in Singapore Protestant teachings are well known to the people. "Americans are not so bad," Sam jokingly remarked. "I was surprised Professor Rice went to a Catholic grade school, attended Presbyterian Sunday school, a Methodist high school and had Seventh Day Adventist classes." Before being converted, he was a member of the Methodist church, the group his parents are still affiliated with.

Ira Rice has established there.

Sam was once a concert pianist. But in spite of his many activities, he also teaches music and raising Sam, the folks in Singapore for a few years I plan to teach at the Hong Kong Christian College, in later years, I want to do mission work in one of the undeveloped countries."

Sam was converted to the church of Christ after standing Bible classes taught by Rice. He first came in contact with the church when he took a Dale Carnegie course in memory techniques taught by Rice. "It is through this course that Ira makes contacts in Singapore and does the most good for the church," he said.

Ira Rice says: "I'm picking up this American slang, and every-time someone asks me where I'm from and I say Singapore, ninety percent of the time they reply, 'Oh, that's in China.'"

But, just so happens," he added with a twinkle in his eye, "that Singapore and China are 1500 miles apart."
Femininity May Be Attained Through Self-Control

By Salena Coedell

There is almost nothing as misleading to society as the belief that she is unfeminine, especially if the mark of her race is on her face. But, just because a person wears alert, messy clothes, perfumes, high heels and hair below the ears in no proof that she is not really feminine, although these definitely help.

In most parts of the world to-day, women are equal to men politically, socially, educationally and economically; thus it seems that the physical which, in the case of many women, totally excludes much self-restraint she possesses.

That a feminine woman is sweet, gentle, kind, understanding and always willing to help strengthen others, instead of concentrating solely on herself—her own woes and emotions—is the discreet woman who knew that she was created to be a helpmate only, and that if she let herself succumb to her own petty discontent, there will be room for no one else in her life.

The prize is femininity, the self-control, and the project, all womanhood who want femininity badly enough to pay for it.

Students Happily Return to See After Cold American Studies Trip

A five-day visit of American Studies students to Cincinnati will offer a variety of experiences which made them eager to return to their own campus.

The cold climate was physically experienced by the men the first morning when the bus wouldn't start. They had to walk in sub-zero weather several blocks for a meeting with the city manager, Dr. Gunns, and the men went by taxi.

Viewed Steelmaking

The first visit Monday was to the Aarnon Steel Corp. in Middletown, Ohio. There they viewed huge coke reduction furnaces, giant vats of molten iron ore and refining furnaces. One of the most interesting features was the process of refining low-grade toroidal into high-grade iron pellets. A visit with Cincinnati City Manager Harrell was first on the schedule Tuesday. He and his assistant, Mr. Craig, discussed the various facts and problems of managing a big city. One of the biggest problems in Cincinnati and other large cities is urban redevelopment.

Sampled Products

Next, the group visited the Kroger Co., third largest of the nation's supermarket chains. Talks from various division heads gave the students an over-all picture of that business.

The final tour was Feb. 28 to the Norman Co. Students were surprised to learn that the hard-boiled Penguins are made of several layers of paper which is folded and pressed together.

ACP - A total of 1,005 student violations, with fines assessed of $535, were noted during the first quarter of this year at Southern Provisions University, Greensboro, Ill.

The scores were quite different from the previous intramural scores also. The Panthers defeated the Eagles 6-4, and the Lions barely beat the Bears 15-11. After the men's records, such as "White girl with black basket" No. 2, "The book on her have it" were heard.

The women usually have six players on each end of the court instead of ten. Organized by men's rules by men's rules were unknown in the women's division. The women were supposed to play. At one time during the game between the Lions and the Stars, the Stars would have won the ball from each other while the female back and watched them.

Eighteen Women Named All Stars

This week’s All-Star team is made up of a variety of stars who have exceptional ability. Because of this variety, look for a fast, exciting game with lots of driving and shooting when the All-Stars meet tonight.

This should be a wide open contest and high scoring game, as each team will carry a complete roster of both the Big Ten and the Southwest Conference. This game will start 9:15 p.m. in the Adams Fieldhouse.

Considering the height advantage of the Big Ten and the speed of the Southwest, this game could be won by the team with the most desire. A complete roster of both teams is included.
