By Pai Caraway

During the visit of John D. Rockefeller to the Harding Col- lege campus, I was embarrassed. Although I did not at all suspect, the discourteous treatment he received from a certain faction of the student body, some members of the newly-organized club OCAPA.

I say that I was not surprised because previous to Rockefeller's visit, certain members of the group had signed a petition asking that he not be permitted to come and talk to the students about the Peace Corps.

The petition states, "We respectfully submit the location of college space for a Peace Corps Living Officer to interview students. This statement is ridiculous, Mr. Rockefeller. We are students who plan to join the Peace Corps, but to present to the students a knowledge of the functions, purposes and achievements of the Peace Corps.

The petition is first of all rational. It states, "We respectfully object to the use of our petition for the promotion of the Kennedy administration's programs."

What, may I ask, does our tuition have to do with Mr. Rocke- feller's visit? Harding College did not pay him to appear.

THE PETITION states, "We respectfully demand the favorable publicity given the liberal Rockefeller under the respected name of Harding College." First I question an objection to the "favorable publicity" given Mr. Rockefeller. The Moses did public- ities well his visit yet that seems to be the primary source of publicity.

There were a few announcements of interest that took place about the Peace Corps at a meeting in the Auditorium. The Peace Corps was the place. Harding essentially did not "roll out the red carpet" to him as he has often done of other villains of less political significance. Second, I object to the bearding of Rockefeller as a liberal. This term has no meaning at all, it connotes many meanings of meaning.

Are Russians Ahead of the U. S.

A question that seems to be on everyone's mind these days is "Are the Russians ahead of the United States and are they likely to fulfill their threats in the near future?"

During the depression of 1905, it was believed by most sources, except President Eisenhower, that the U.S. was weaker than Russia in military power and route of economic growth.

Although it would be extremely difficult to compare the growth of the U.S. and Russia, there are some new facts which tend to make the experts believe that the Russians could surpass the U.S. in military power and route of economic growth.

Secondly, of 4 new countries which have been established from old colonial empires, China, India, Korea and Vietnam, China and India are in the same political condition, being Communist, Cuba is an exception to the general condition and the condition is multiplied among the Communists because it is so close to them. Reds Don't Keep Promises Communists have failed to live up to their promises of a short-cut to economic progress and these countries are beginning to see that this cannot be accomplished under totalitarianism.

The widening division between Russia and Red China is a weakening factor in the Communist dream. Because Khrushchev's leadership is being challenged, he has to watch his step. There is no longer a unified Communist movement.

Though we have a definite lead in military power, the U.S. still has the power to expose his weaknesses. We cannot be foolish enough to think ourselves invincible.

THE PETITION states, "The Christian ideals which we have been taught to espouse for far too long mean compromising of principles for personal gain, recompense, paid or implied, necessary or otherwise as evil. What, I wonder, are the Christian ideals of the Peace Corps?"

One of the major objections given to the Peace Corps because he believes that the people of that country and other lands is not a function of government but rather of the individual. But since individuals can only serve out this function, then who will?

If I thought my government could help others, then why should I not help them. Then the signs of this petition have right to look at Christian ideals when they seem to have lost those ideals entirely enter our ears and pass on unchecked?

Harding Freshmen Visit Childhaven; Decide ‘Orphans’ Lead Normal Lives

Jim Warsham

Two Harding students recently spent a week-end at Childhaven, Oklahoma’s Home for Orphans, and came away bearing the title of “Honorary Orphans.”

Bill Dye and Ray Murray, representatives of the honor, explained later that this significant because it points out the healthy attitude that children in the home have regarding themselves. The children presented each of the men with a certificate they had made themselves.

“Poor little Orphans”

“Most people think that a ‘homeless’ child feels sorry for himself, but this isn’t true at all. The children at Childhaven feel that they are part of one big family. The only difference,” Ray said, “is that the tie that holds them together is stronger than the one which exists or doesn’t exist in many families today.”

Religion Emphasized

Religion is emphasized and the children grow to understand the truthfulness of the saying, “The family that prays together stays together.” Bible study is the rule instead of the exception in the children’s schedule. Sundays, on an early age, are encouraged to present a weekly service.

Bill and Ray wondered about the group of orphans who observed that it was administered simply and the purpose was to teach self discipline.

Human Personality Determined by Body Structure

Psychologists tell us that there are basically three fundamental types of human personalities and that these types are determined primarily by three fundamental types of body structure. Though each of these three physiques, endomorphic, mesomorphic, and ectomorphic, entails its own particular temperament, behavior, desires, pleasures, and goals, no person belongs exclusively to any one of the three types. It follows then that the average person is a combination of all three forms, for he learns predominantly toward one. Almost everyone is a friend of a friend, at one time or another. The same goes for his type. So he should be able to answer his own question.

An endomorphic digestive viscera are massive and highly developed, while his bones and muscles are relatively weak. This digestive tract is king over all his actions, and the approval of his appetite constitutes the individual's primary purpose in life. The endomorph is always relaxed and complacent. He loves comfort and quiet. He is at ease because he has no work to do and no work to do because he has no work to do. He is fearless and predictable. In other words, one never knows what to expect from him.

A mesomorphic individual resorts to violent action when troubled and is afraid of being laughed at. He is a fighter. The mesomorph, the second type, is the one that has the power of domination.

The third type, the ectomorph, is aggressive in almost every phase of life. He is built for action and strength and speed. He is energetic and loves physical adventure and adventure. Most fighters are of this nature, as they hunger for the excitement of the chase and the success of their domination.

Mesomorphic has Courage

Other characteristics of the ectomorph are courage, psychological callousness, nonchalance, and aloofness. They comprise an ectomorphic individual's resort to violence, which is oriented toward the goals and activities of youth. And lastly, the ectomorph usually has a fragile, rather delicate body, with long slender, poorly developed outside world a fact which they usually have a fragile, rather delicate body, with long slender, poorly developed bones and muscles. He is not only physically weak, but also weak in his mental and emotional reactions. He is subject to insomnia and chronic fatigue.

The ectomorph is the essence of restraint, inhibitions on himself, or in social behavior. He is appreciative, pessimistic, and self-conscious, and he loves privacy. Indeed, the ectomorph turns to the outside world, when he is disturbed and finds great comfort in being alone. He usually looks younger than his actual age, despite the fact that he suffers from insomnia and chronic fatigue.

An interesting fact about the ectomorph is that a variety of this particular type is his unpredictability. In other words, one never knows what to expect from him. The ectomorph is primarily motivated by goals in later life.

Bus Breaks Down on Chorus Trip; Members Spend Night Along Road

By Judy Evans

Early morning hours, a series of buses and unusual situations marked the A Cappella's week end trip to Montgomery, Ala.

The chorus members left Searcy at 5 a.m. March 7 in a crowded, uncomfortable charter bus to get to Bessemer City, La., by noon when they changed buses with the academy chorus.

The A Cappella members, Director Ken Davis and "Uncle Greg" Rhodes wound up spending the night by the side of the road when the Harding bus suffered a breakdown.

Joint Doesn't Function

A universal joint, not functioning properly, delayed the chorus for six hours Thursday night and Friday morning from 6:30 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. at an Alabama point 35 miles out of Meridian, Miss.

At 3:30 a.m., the bus started rolling again, at least until 4 a.m. when the joint dropped out on the pavement scattering pieces here and there. A wrecker was summoned to tow Harding's vehicle to Bessemer, Ala., where the sleepy eyed, weary passengers got off the bus to get food.

Jim Bansley and Joe Yates tried their hand at being waiters when several students arrived at the Jett Drive Inn to find only the cook on duty. They waited on customers and helped to supply them with food. "Uncle Greg" later decided to head for the nearest town and order a quarter tip for a dime cup of coffee.

A Trailways bus from Montgomery came for the group and they arrived there at 9 a.m. approximately nine hours late.

Use Alabama Bus

After a short rest period, the chorus went to Alabama Christian College for lunch and adopted their bus for transportation.

The Belles and Beaux gave a program at the Alabama State Capitol, followed by an evening program at the Calumet by the A Cappella. The Alabama Christian College Chorus joined the Harding group for presentation of three numbers.

Benson Honorary Citizen

Dr. Benson, the featured speaker at the Alabama Christian College lectures, was made an honorary citizen of Montgomery by Mayor Jack James. Benson's lecture, "Education and America's Future," was preceded by remarks from Alabama's Governor Wallace.

A Morning, another Trailways bus took the chorus to East Delta High School in Mississippi for another Belles and Beaux program.

Uncle Greg and the bus were "rigs for sure open" Sunday morning when they transported the students to Memphis for church services at Snowden Avenue.

Four days and five buses later, the chorus returned to decks, cafeteria food and dormitory rules with relief and hopes of getting a decent night's sleep.

Bison Staff Members To Visit Ark. Democrat

This Tuesday, members of the Harding press club will experience a repeat performance of a pre-March 7 event.

Approximately 16 students plan to observe firsthand the operation of a newspaper. Maurice Moore, state editor, recently informed Russell Simmons, club sponsor, that the Democrat staff is prepared for the students' visit and has already assigned them to reporters.

Students who made the trip last year were involved in numerous experiments. One got inside the middle of a kidnapping and another sat in on an interview with Governor Faubus.

Coach John Prock is counting on Johnny Jones, sophomore forward, Chester Clark, junior middle distance man, Wendall Harrison, senior guard, and Jerry Mote and even smaller Dave Oege, a small man's night, as little Jerry Mote who poured in 30 points. He is a quarter end half mile man and coach Prock says "he is the best Harding has ever had."

Two transfer students appear good prospects to give the Bison renewed lift. They are Bob Cato, a junior who transferred here from Lubbock Christian College and Gerald Clark, transfer from Fried-Freeman.

Camp is a shot poster and has a throw of 46 feet 8 inches already this season this at the Memphis indoor meet. This was better than the record there, but he only came in fourth. It is also better than the ACC record. Clark is a middle distance man and can also broad jump.

Rogers, Patton Honored

ALL AIC TEAM

Bison basketballers Vernon Rogers and Ernie Patton have been named to the 1963 All-AIC squad.

Holding captain Rogers, a 6'7" junior from Little Rock, made the team while Patton, a senior discus thrower from Portavant, Ark., was also chosen. These men and some who were on the All-American last season All the Bison relay marks and with some help from freshmen the prospects good to lower them again this season.

Last year's Harrison established the 1964 state track with a man in the half mile with his best time being 1:50.

Fresh, Transfers on Team

Freshmen who presently appear able to help lower the relay records are Larry Eoff and Dwight Searcy, both from Little Rock, and last year he ran a ten flat 100 yard dash.

Bob also has a ten flat 100 yard dash to his credit. He is from Flint, Mich. Another freshman who will help lower the marks as well as an individual mark or two is Robert Clark from Missouri, Ohio.
