Greek Student Praises "Oedipus" Production

By Jim Wilson

A year ago we freshmen were looking forward to our first year at Harding College. Many of us thought it would be a year to remember. Probably most of us had built up our mental picture of college as someplace that didn't have to do with school at all. We were looking forward to being swept away into a world of new experiences. Many of us had thought of college as someplace where we could escape the drudgery of high school.

As a result, we were looking for excitement, adventure, and new challenges. The thought of college as a place where we could explore our interests and develop our talents was prevalent among us.

We thought of high school as a place where we were limited by our class horizons and other class functions. There was football and basketball. But long before we became freshmen we were fully into high school.

When we entered college, we were looking for something different. We were ready to be swept away into a world of new experiences. We were ready to be challenged and to grow. We were ready to be part of a community of students who were committed to learning and to personal growth.

Freshmen Discover College Life Not So Glamorous

By Jim Wilson

They say that in the spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of lovers, but perhaps it is not about everyone's fancy. It is about the way we were and the way we are now. The new green dress the campus is wearing is a reminder of the ways in which our college has changed.

No More Blue Mondays?

For some, how many times in December do you trapse out past the dorms, past the dorms, past the dorms, past the dorms? And then, past the dorms? And then, past the dorms? And then, past the dorms? And then, past the dorms?

As the month of December turns into January, the possibility of a snow day seems lessening; now one may wonder whether the victim will be the last one to arrive at school. The blanket of snow that covers the campus is not always a welcome sight.

Sincerely yours,

Costas S. Caravas

Addition of Dr. Clark Means A Rise in Harding's Stature

The appointment of Dr. T. R. Clark, Jr. as Vice-President in charge of business will take effect immediately. The primary purpose of the new position will be to raise the stature of Harding College among the colleges of the state.

Harding College is synonymous with the fields of religious training and American studies. The announcement of plans to construct a million dollar Science Building was applauded as a sign of Harding's advancement.

The appointment of a scientist and administrator such as Dr. Clark will help to guide the institution to new heights. The influence of Harding College in scientific research and teaching will be increased.

An excellent staff already exists in the Science Department and Dr. Clark will do much to raise the stature of Harding College in scientific research and teaching.

The development of the Science Department is a forward step in developing a "Greater Harding." Other opportunities will present themselves in Harding's future. We trust these challenges will be met head-on.

Bit O' Poetry

By Jim Wilson

"Sonnet" 10:03

Oh hark! Resounding bell doth open
Her lovely lass to Randell Field. "Farewell, my love, and good night!"
"I'd stay with whom I adore"
A longer time than this," quoth she.
"Quoth she, "If I were just to weigh you, sir
I'd stay with whom I adore" just as long as I can lay my own dumb self down and by the hash of a column other than these.

For this brief pause from pedantry.

She enfolds and doth glide laden.

What joy these multi-voiced ladys
Do bring to these two lads,
While in the other lane doth flow
BeshΘyd you colonized Adam.

A great effulgence, bright and clear
Doth set it off, makes sight even more dear.

But wait! He speaks. I do believe
We may some thoughts of his are: "See!" There, you lily pad and clemency, I thought you said I would that we were free as air.

But we, as loyal student, With a spirit unforgotten must be,
To do us, your own, in our behalf.

As we, on your own, in our behalf you shall be.

When they see that we are sold on Harding they'll give their support to the college. Let's not forget that we represent Harding - others won't.

We want her to continue to grow.

If Harding's determination to excel in yet another field.

Other opportunities will indicate that Harding will soon have the facilities to conduct a much more extensive program.
