McInteer Notices Harding's Friendliness and Independence

By Cliff Ganus III
This year, as always, Thanksgiving was Homecoming for hundreds of Harding alumni. These former students never fail to be amazed at the genuine feeling of making, whether they graduated in 1937 or 1947.

We are constantly reminded from many sources of the growth and changes which are taking place, and it is easy to overlook the underlying abilities that depict Harding and her students.

Among the 900 who registered for last week's Lectureship, not including many hundreds who doubted failure to do so, was one of Harding's best-known alumni, Jim Bill McInteer.

Jim Bill McInteer, a featured speaker of the Lectureship, graduated from Harding in 1942 and serves on the Board of Directors.

As he asked to compare the Harding student with the present college, he chose to place emphasis on the things that have not changed.

Of course he could not help noting a speech, from the physical plant.

The buildings he surveyed were his senior year.

As Bob Eyman, director of the forensics contest, said that appropriating many hundreds who doubted failure to do so, was one of Harding's best-known alumni, Jim Bill McInteer.

Harding Teachers are Underpaid; Raise Tuition to Raise Their Pay

We hear often about how expensive Harding is, but we don't agree. We don't think the costs are prohibitive at all. As many students do, he won't be any better off. Tuition and fees. At the University of Alabama the student's finances instead of.

In 1964, the two national parties system flourished. When Richard Abshire, local head of the Democratic Party, decided to wait until the fall to distribute posters and brochures to the state president of the YD's, and John Browning, Jr., then the University's state president, did not have many efforts to finish up the task of...
Elaine Huddleston, Arkansas Symphony Orchestra, spoke on her favorite subject — music.

"When you play music, you fall in love with it," she continued. "Even if you don't like it at first, the more you play it, the more you like it. Elaine, who plays first violin in the group made up of Arkansas musicians — instrumentally, faculty from surrounding colleges, sections, etc. — and directed by Mr. Vassilios Psakas, the assistant conductor of the Denver Symphony, is a great advocate of good music, especially orchestral music."

Part of Education

"Orchestral music is a great part of education in general. The popular music of today is so shallow that many have lost contact with great classical music," she said. "She encourages everyone to give it a chance."

The Arkansas orchestra plays a variety of music, including Wagner, Rimsky-Korsakov and Orff as well as hard composers. They practice weekly in Little Rock, Arkansas, even during additional academic responsibilities. The group will present a program at Harding next spring.

Concerts Staged

Students can come to concerts, paying for them separately. Sunday, Dec. 5 is the next program, which is Hanfstaengl's Mendelssohn, followed by Dec. 12'soratorio, "The Legend of Petri Jean," accompanied by a ballet company. In January the Romans are family of classical guitarists. Elaine's musical background begins in a class in elementary school in Colorado Springs. Later he started singing and the study for two years at the New School for Conservatory of Music, taking lessons in string, ensemble and piano.

Flint and Plays

Another Harding student, fresh- man Janet Justice from Little Rock, plays flute with the orchestra. The Arkansas State Symphony is making a concentrated effort this year to become established on a regular basis. In the past it has been disregarded, but has improved greatly over last year. The public reaction has been very good so far this year. Mr. Psakas, the conductor, is on a part-time basis but will be permanent next year if the people show acceptance and support.

Christmas is a special time of the year at Harding. The spirit of the season and the anticipation of a two-week vacation from Christmas plans are undeniably wonderful. The students will have a toy drive for the Arkansas Symphony orchestra plays a series of concerts, one of which will feature a one-act melodramatic piece under the direction of Mr. Psakas. The group will give a night of Christmas music and entertainment will highlight the program.

Caroling

After the completion of the plays the students will leave campus in several groups and cover different areas of the city. The singing groups will probably number different students, each with a different group. Variety is the key in the entertainment program scheduled for this season. Several groups will appear, including the trio of Belinda Miller, Nettie Hubbard, Dan Smith and a new group on campus called the Bare. A special feature of the Carolers will be the group of carolers that will sing the carols to the Letters to Santa from the500 block of South Main Street.

Letters to Santa

Council members are urging that everyone finds a pen and a bit of originality and humor and lets Santa know their wishes for the season. Santa's letter box will be open for business for a few days in the week before Christmas.

Harding Squeaks Past LRU, Gets Hendrix in Second Half

By Doug McBride

Harding College's basketball Bears opened their home season on Thanksgiving Day by confounding the Little Rock University Trojans by a score of 63-60. The game was played before an overflow crowd.

The Bisons opened their home season successfully on Thanksgiving Day by toppling the Sub-Ts 10-yard drive with a 12-yard field goal. After an exchange of punts, John Barron capped Sub-T's drive with a 12-yard touchdown, but the starmen pulled the game out of the fire in the waning moments in true championship style.

The game which went into five overtimes, finally over with a score of 63-60. Trailing most of the way, the Bears edged the Sub-Ts, 12-10, at the last second in their drive. After an exchange of punts, the Bears grabbed the lead. John Barron capped Sub-T's drive with a 12-yard touchdown, but the starmen pulled the game out of the fire in the waning moments in true championship style.
