SA office winners post solid margin victories

Winners in the seven student association representative elections received enough votes to claim victories by substantial margins.

In the senior class Donna Northcutt of Altamont, Tenn. edged Janice Dockery, a Fayetteville, Ark. native, 108-52, for the office of women's representative. Running unopposed for the men's office, Shawn Jones, of Walnut Ridge, Ark., was chosen.

A native of Delight, Ark., David W. House, polled 134 votes to give him the junior men's position over Matt Comotto of Richmond Hill, N.Y., who had 53 votes. Jo Stafford, a resident of Tulsa, Okla., ran unopposed in claiming the junior women's office.

Beverly Choate of Warren, Mich., received 103 votes in winning the sophomore women's race against Jane Groves of Denver, Colo., with 48 votes, and Vickie MaGuffey of Flint, Mich., with 43 votes.

Searcy's Stephen Tucker tallied 131 votes to the 57 received by Joe Roper of Bartlesville, Okla., in capturing the sophomore men's representative office.

In the married students' race, Michael James, Sedgewickville, Mo. native, topped George Crowder of Malcomb, Ill. in the voting by a 49-24 margin.

'You are loved' conveys theme during SA Faculty-Friend week

"You are loved" is the message the S.A. will attempt to convey to the teachers of Harding during Faculty - Friend Week, April 17-21.

In order to demonstrate student affection, faculty members will be allowed to participate in special events of Track and Field activities scheduled for next Monday and Tuesday nights.

On Tuesday night administrators will race administrators in Harding's first annual Tricycle Grand Prix. Teams representing the various subject departments will run the 440-yard relay. The final special event will be a tug-of-war between faculty men and senior males.

Wednesday has been deigned "Show and Tell Day." On this day teachers are encouraged to devote part of each class period to telling about himself, his background, his family and to showing old photos or any pieces of memorabilia important to his life.

After dinner Thursday evening an on-the-lawn reception will serve dessert to the guests of honor, our faculty, and to friendly students.

Following this students hosts will invite the faculty members to tour the dorms during Spring Open House. Women's dorms will be open to all from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Open House for the men's dorms will be from 8:30 to 10:00 p.m.

Friday night of Faculty-Friend Week will give students an opportunity to slave for their teachers in a domestic rather than academic capacity. Coeds can sign up (on the S.A. office door) to cook dinner for a faculty family. Men are invited to partake in the meal on the condition that they stay afterward to do odd jobs.

Students to save the juice

By Martha Townsend

"Not in use? . . . Save the juice!"

A flashy little red sign bearing these words has been popping up lately above light switches all over the campus. They are a part of the campaign initiated by Dr. James Carr, assistant academic dean, to cut the cost of electricity.

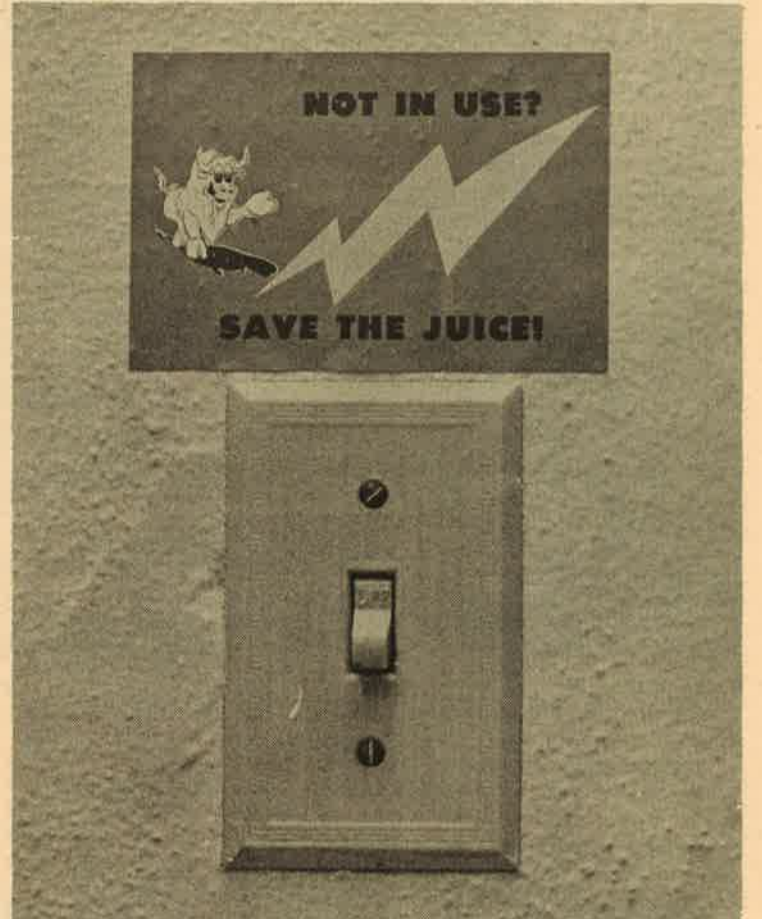

In April, 1970, the electricity bill was $7656.03 and in 1971, it was $7749.89. Dr. Carr said he would like to see the college save $1000 in April 1972 and every month after that.

The total cost for utilities in 1971, including water, gas, electricity and telephones, was $245,238.29. The college would like to save at least $10,000 in the remaining calendar year of 1972.

The idea for this drive was original with Dr. Carr. Florida State University, whose yearly utility bill exceeded $1 million, had a similar campaign on their campus. With strong student support and Dr. Carr's encouragement, they saved $48,000 in eight months.

Conservation was another key motive for the initiation of the "save the juice" campaign. The United States has been rapidly draining the land of its natural resources and there has been a nationwide concern among the younger generation, especially, for conservative ecology.

Dr. Carr believes the students at Harding are also concerned and will want to participate in this drive that will aid in conservation. An Environmental Studies Workshop will be held here in July.

This past week, social clubs have been busy placing 3,600 little red signs above every light switch on campus reminding everyone to "save the juice" and students have been making a concerted effort to turn off unused lights.

"But this effort must continue," said Dr. Carr. "Lower costs mean lower tuition. We have set a goal and with everyone working together, we can achieve it."

"Write-in Tim Geary as a Choice for a Change."

And that is exactly what the Harding student body did on April 5 when the necessary percentage of cast ballots declared Tim Geary the 1972-73 S.A. President-elect.

Less than 50% of the total student body trooped to the polls, but their vote produced a Harding uniqueness . . . a write-in victory.

For those unacquainted with the new president, Geary is a native of Mercette, Calif. Transferring to Harding after one junior college semester, he will graduate in spring 1973 with a major in history and a minor in English. Teaching and coaching with possible aspirations for pursuing law comprise his vocational plans.

Speaking with Geary about his reaction to being the first successful write-in S.A. President provided an insight into his post-election reflections.

"Some people didn't like Brewer; some didn't like the administration. And some didn't like the connections between the two. Some of them liked me. I had good support among a lot of students — I mean people who got out and worked for me. And too, I think general student discontent with what was going on stemmed from what they felt like was a lack of qualified candidates."

Resulting from encouragement of friends and a faculty member, Geary decided to seek the presidency as a write-in candidate after the petition deadline had passed. But he was not a candidate without motivation.

"I've always been interested, and I've always been critical. I felt like why criticize without trying to help. If I had not been elected, I at least tried. And I felt the students weren't offered a choice. Logically, they weren't. There was only one candidate at the time. And I felt I could do a good job."

Election procedures disallow for Bison coverage of a write-in candidate's platform. But Geary has formulated a platform of his own and during the campaign it was distributed in the dorms. His major planks include:

1. Unity between the students and the Student Association:
 - a. CLUB COUNCIL (consisting of club presidents) to plan service projects in order to unify the students.
 - b. CURRENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE to investigate dress code, food complaints cafeteria rules, sign-out system, etc.
 - c. Closer ties between the President of the S.A. and the students — idea boxes placed in every dorm with complaints answered within 48 hours by the President; S.A. News Board in the Student Center; reports in the Bison.

2. Greater publicity of free student services such as vocational guidance, pre-marital counseling, campus jobs and financial aid.

3. More religious atmosphere inspired by early morning devotionals and two or three chapels per week with full devotionals.

"My theme will probably be unity through service. I feel like it (S.A. Council) has been too far removed from and above the students."

Geary's main thrust encompasses "uniting the student body with the S.A. through service projects together — projects for the school, community and drawing a lot more student involvement into S.A. affairs."

Cross-country and track competition have dominated much of Geary's interest in the past, but he is expecting little conflict to develop between his track demands and the responsibilities of SA president.

"I talked to Coach Lloyd before I ever decided to run, because logically, I didn't want to get involved in something that I couldn't do both things well or wind up doing both of mediocre. He (Coach Lloyd) said he figured there would be no conflict. This (training) takes up about two hours of the day at the most." Geary's running eligibility expires with the AIC meet in November, 1972.

Perhaps Geary's comments have provided a thumbnail sketch of his envisioned future. Only time can complete the picture.

From the Editor's Desk:

Food price rise causes journalistic ulcer

"Everything's gone up a nickel in the Heritage" seems to be the greatest gripe on campus lately.

Of course, cafeteria food and cafeteria prices have been the targets of countless Harding students through countless Harding ages.

This year The Bison has made it a point to avoid editorial comment on such trite subjects as line-cutting and food-throwing. My reasoning was that such actions are too juvenile to happen in a college cafeteria and that such juveniles probably don't read page 2 of this weekly journal anyway. But now I have found a cause.

Prices in the Charles M. White Cafeteria located in the John Mabee American Heritage Center have risen five cents on all meats and perhaps on vegetables and desserts (it's hard to tell because those prices have never been displayed). And we who dine there are still allotted the same approximately $17.00 for a week's meals.

I realize that food prices have risen across the nation and that George Meany is currently complaining that the number of matzoh balls per a can of his favorite Mrs. Adler's matzoh-ball soup has sunk from four to three — which raised the price.

But we the $281.25 board-paying students should not be forced to skip meals in order to make our tickets last through Saturday night.

Before the prices rose, males with stomachs larger than their meal tickets were aided by skinny coeds who were found with $5 to $10 left on their tickets at the end of the week. But now we coeds do well to come out even by eating only two or less meals a day.

One intercollegiate basketball player, whose training table ticket ran out as the nickel was added, consumes a meal ticket and a half worth of food a week and must scrounge money off the tickets of people going home for the weekend. Another guy has taken to a vegetarian diet because he can't afford to buy the Heritage's meat.

Remember when you could save money on your meal ticket so when your parents came to visit, you could take them to eat in the cafeteria? Now that the "steaks" cost a $1.50, it's cheaper to take them to Landis Steakhouse where quantity and quality are not so over-priced.

When the cafeteria rates are set at the first of the semester and our parents pay for a semester's fill of food, then the prices should not be changed until the beginning of the next session.

But we must suffer through starving students.

Letter to the Editor . . .

Dear Editor,

We would like for the Bison to look into the problem of dating here at Harding. From talking with a typical Harding male we found that a typical Harding female is defined as one who sits in the dorm studying and is uninterested in dating.

We were shocked! We feel we are typical and we aren't this way. We are normal girls who are very much interested in dating. We would like for the Harding males to know that we consider a date a date and not an engagement for marriage!

Do the Harding males realize that they are different from males of other colleges (Christian or state)? One of our faculty members (who is considered an authority on the subject) has stated that over the years he has found from talks with Harding coeds that "there is definitely something wrong with Harding males."

We would like for the Bison to interview Harding males to find out what a Harding girl has to do to get a date. We do not expect someone who takes us out to spend a lot of money on us. We would just like to enjoy their company.

We feel that many guys do not ask girls out because of the fear of being turned down and having their pride stepped on. Well, our pride is stepped on every weekend because we do not get asked out. Why don't the guys risk their pride a little?

Why are Harding males different?

Editor will no longer require authors of letters be printed

We the editorial staff of The Bison will now withhold from publication the author's name of a letter to the editor upon judicious and reasonable request.

Effective with this issue is this change in our policy regarding signatures on letters. Previously, the policy has been that no letter would be printed without the name of the author.

After 19 issues in which letters whose author did not want his name in print have not been accepted or published, we have decided that in certain cases the writer's plea to withhold his name is valid.

The author who wishes to remain unknown to our readership must reveal himself to us and present his request. If we rule affirmatively for anonymity, he may pen the pseudonym of his choice or leave the task to our warped and weary imaginations.

The first so-signed letter to the editor appears on this page.

Christianity happens through free people

By Phil Johnson

Last weekend Louise — 32 years old from Amsterdam Holland — told me how she was introduced to Jesus through reading The Brothers Karamazov (Dostoyevsky). She eventually found her way to the Gospels, and later had a Methodist minister baptize her in a river.

Mladen is a linguistics professor in Zagreb, Yugoslavia. He was a confirmed atheist until, confronted with the faith of two American language students, he began to read the New Testament.

Two years later a newspaper account of a recent earthquake caused him to contemplate the reality of death. And a month ago Mladen confessed Christ, was baptized and began radio messages in Croatia about faith in God.

David Tao — a graduate of Harvard, now a student at Washington University in biomedical engineering, son of a St. Louis architect — was approached by a 45 year-old man about Jesus, was converted and is now teaching a weekly Bible class of 20 college students in St. Louis.

What is the point? The point is that it is happening. Under all the exterior living from Zagreb to St. Louis individuals who care are finding who they are in relation to God, the world, and eternity. It is happening now like it has not happened in a long time, because we live when foundations are being shaken.

It is happening through people — not always preachers and missionaries — but people who understand the power of Being. Free people who have cut the strings, and knocked out the props of place, race, class, age, education, and religious grouping.

They have thrown themselves "out there" into the rough places and trusted God to use their faith, and care little to count results. People whose faith is not a maybe, and who have struggled beyond shallow self-confidence into Christ-confidence.

Fifth Column

The Harding College intramural baseball program is currently facing a strike threat by the student players' union which has evolved from organized meetings of disgruntled students who are playing without contracts.

The commissioner of intramural sports, Cecil B. Kuhnbeck, recently received a list of grievances from a group of representatives from the union headed by Marvin Dallas Miller.

Much of the disagreement centers around the pension plan which is being contested by older players in the league led by six-year veteran all-star utility fielder Mike Pruitt who has played for several championship teams including the Gas House Gang, I-A Keller Killers and The Old Timers.

However, the negotiating meetings remain fruitless for several underlying reasons, which are the various and sundry complaints of the union members aside from the pension plan. These demands include:

Changing from two unexcused absences to three before a fine of ineligibility is imposed;

Granting scholarships to the players who start and to the top six substitutes;

Banning of every kind of bat except 'Louisville Slugger';

Allowing three minutes instead of two between innings;

Not allowing the pitcher to use a curve ball when the batter's girlfriend is in the stands;

Purchasing a new camera for photographing the championship and all-star teams;

Setting umpire qualifications at being at least a sophomore and having a minimum of 30-40 vision;

Constructing outhouses in the outfield for attracting more flies.

Obtaining new catchers' masks that do not look like they were left over from softball;

Elevating the short stop position in the infield at least two feet; and Adding windows to the back wall of the library for added incentive to weak batters.

The first evidence of the seriousness of the threats took place last evening when one team walked off the field at the conclusion of an inning only one hour and 15 minutes after the game began.

The team refused to return to the field after receiving their batting opportunity, and the score stood 32-0, with the walk-off team trailing.

Recently it was reported that the commissioner's assistants have been seen scouting the girls' softball games for new, undiscovered talent.

And finally, latest rumors reveal that the Harding Academy batboys' union is threatening a counterstrike against the student players' union.

Honorary drama society to present Kipling's 'Butterfly That Stamped'

Have you ever heard the stamp of a butterfly?

Rudyard Kipling did and he proved that this small, insignificant act can have great consequences on the lives of many in his play "The Butterfly That Stamped."

This storybook theatre is sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega, Harding's honorary drama society. It is directed by Steve Smith, senior drama major.

The story: Seuliman-bin-daoud is a rich and powerful king that has 998 quarrelsome wives and one loving queen, Balkis. One day while he is escaping the constant nagging of his many wives by a walk in his garden, he overhears a butterfly couple arguing.

The male ends the fight by announcing that if the female doesn't be quiet, he will stamp his foot and have all of Seuliman's place disappear.

This amuses the king and so he tells the male butterfly that he may end their arguments with that tale anytime. But Balkis can't let the men win out, so she informs the female of this. The next argument of the butterflies ends with the female asking the male to prove that he can accomplish this feat.

Seuliman lends the male butterfly his not-so-bright genie to carry out his boast. As the palace is being swept into the air by the genie, the wives of the king are thrown into a state of fear.

When the butterfly assumes command over his nagging wife and the genie returns the king's home, the wives begin hassling Seuliman for causing their dismay.

But good Queen Balkis steps in and warns them that they had better behave or the king will do something about them, too. And so the story ends with two tranquil homes — the king's and the butterfly's.

The cast includes: Jerry Palmer as Seuliman-bin-daoud; Marion Barton as Balkis; Dan Bateman as the male butterfly; Becky Oldroyd as the female butterfly; Randy Zeps as the genie.

Serving as captain for the squad will be Susie Howell, a second year cheerleader, biology major from Little Rock and a member of Gata social club.

Carol Bucy, sophomore second-year cheerleader and vocational home economics major from Searcy, will serve as co-captain. She is a member of OEGE social club.

Consider this version of Acts 10.

1. Now there was a certain man named Reynaldo de Carvalho, a lieutenant in the Brazilian Air Force,
2. a devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, who gave much alms to the many poor Brazilian people and prayed to God always.
3. He saw in a vision openly, as it were about the ninth hour of the day an angel of God coming in unto him, and saying, Reynaldo!
4. And he, fastening his eyes upon him, and being affrighted, said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are gone up for a memorial before God.
5. And now send men to the United States for the people there have grown tired of me. Fetch some of the good men who are left to come tell thy people of salvation.
6. And having rehearsed all these things unto some friends, he asked them to make this journey.
7. Now on the morrow, as they were on their journey, and flew high unto the city, Peter, a college student went into his dormitory room to pray, about the sixth hour:
8. and he became hungry, and desired to eat, but as he was about to join his friends in the cafeteria, he fell into a trance.
9. And he beheld himself in a dream. But that which he saw was not good.
10. He saw in the midst of wealth and riches, education and wisdom, the opportunity for all to know God, but God was ignored.
11. He saw himself, young and healthy, blessed with an education beyond that of eighty per cent of the world. He saw all of this go to waste being spent on earthly joys while people around him complained and still were not content.
12. And yet in a distant land he saw faces of hungry people, hungry for the teaching and help that was within him.
13. Now while Peter was much perplexed in himself what the dream might mean, behold, the men that were sent by Reynaldo, having made inquiry as to his whereabouts, knocked at his door.
14. And they said, Reynaldo, a Brazilian lieutenant, a righteous man and one that feareth God and well reported of by all was told to send for thee and to hear words from thee.
15. And on the morrow he arose and went forth with them having considered the things shown to him in the dream.

No, it was not written like that in the Original, but it does still apply today. If you are interested in serving the Lord in Brazil talk with David Rose on campus in April or write him airmail at the following address:

Music department 'operates'
with two Carlo Menotti scores

By Martha Townsend

"The Telephone" and "The Medium," two operas by Gian Carlo Menotti, will be presented by the music department at 8 p.m. on April 21 and 22 in the large auditorium.

Dr. Erle T. Moore, chairman of the music department, is musical director. Robert West is serving as stage director and Morris Ellis is serving as technical director.

Both operas will be sung in English. They were both performed for the first time in 1947.

"The Telephone," a one-act being performed for the fourth time at Harding, is a comedy in which the telephone interferes with the romance of a young couple.

"The Medium" is a two-act musical drama involving the quackery of a seance. Dr. Moore describes it as "one of the most difficult operas Harding has ever produced. It is highly dramatic and very suspenseful." It is the first time that it will be performed on the Harding stage.

The cast for "The Telephone" includes Beverly Martin, soprano, and Steve Smith, baritone. Claudio Haseltine will accompany.

"The Medium" will include the following: Carolyn Kessler, contralto; Mona Lee Moore, soprano; Judy Hopper, soprano; George Saunders, baritone; Carol Smith, Mezzo-soprano; and Tim Bixler in a mute role. Accompanist will be Jeff Hopper.

Lecturers discuss 'Be With Us Lord'

"Be With Us Lord" was the theme of the '72 Student Lectureship held last Sunday. Gerald Burrow, senior men's S.A. representative was in charge of the program.

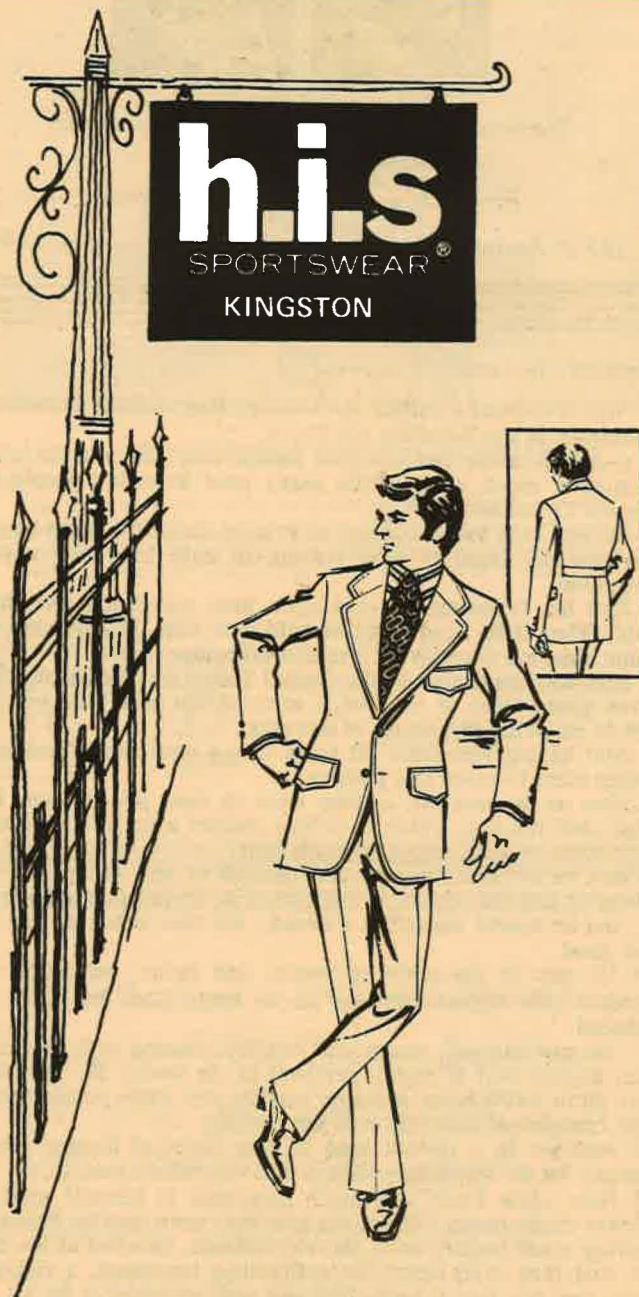

An audience of approximately 60 gathered in the American Heritage Auditorium to hear the three student speakers. First on the program was Terry McCormick, senior Bible major from

Hialeah, Fla., speaking on the topic "As I Play."

The second speech was by Jerry Cook, senior psychology major from Nashville, Tenn. Cook spoke on "As I Prepare." The final speech, "As I Pray" was given by Ron Stough, a junior Bible major from Montgomery, Ala.

The lectureship concluded with a short devotional.

New library addition to be dedicated Mon.

Dedication ceremonies for the $400,000 expansion addition to the Beaumont Memorial Library will be Monday at 4:15 p.m.

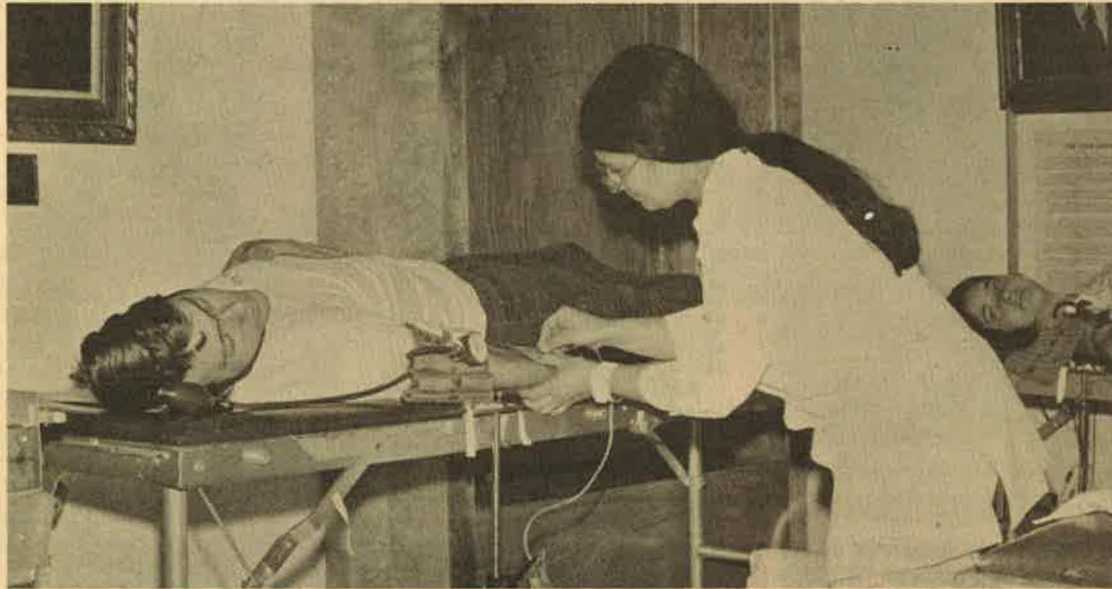

Guest speaker for the dedication will be Mrs. Bessie Moore, a nationally known lecturer on libraries and economic education. Her appointment by President Nixon to the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science was confirmed by the Senate in 1971. Others taking part in the ceremony will be President Clifton L. Ganus, Jr. and librarian Shirley Birdsall.

The new addition will be named in honor of the J. E. and L. E. Mabee Foundation of Tulsa, Okla. The Mabee Foundation provided a $400,000 grant which was used to construct the facility. The addition was completed in August, 1971.

The addition contains 16,906 square feet and increased the size of the library by 80 per cent. The new area provides shelving for an additional 58,000 volumes and has increased seating capacity to 600 and total shelving capacity to 170,000 volumes.

Included in the new structure are microfilm reading and storage rooms, one of the state's most fully equipped educational media centers, an unbound periodical room, oral history and archives room, musical listening room, three conference rooms and additional office space for library staff.

Current library holdings include 112,000 volumes. The library has 810 current periodicals, 2,115 phonograph records and subscribes to nine daily newspapers.

Roberts' senior art show to feature 50 exhibits

More than fifty paintings, drawings and prints will be on exhibit at the Harding Art Gallery next week. This exhibit will be the senior show of Jack Roberts, a member of Kappa Pi International Honorary Art Fraternity.

The paintings on display will represent a variety of art work accumulated over the past four years of study. Many of the paintings have been projects assigned by the various instructors. The variety will range from representationalism to expressionistic abstraction. The use of such medias as oils, acrylics, pastels, wood cuts, silk screens and pen and ink will be on display.

Roberts feels these paintings express his experiences and will stimulate a feeling of interest within the viewer. "Indifference to an object is a result of poor communication, and communication is a factor of art."

Netters suffer series of losses during road trip

Last weekend, the Bison intercollegiate tennis team hit the road for a series of matches against Christian Brothers College, David Lipscomb College and the University of Tennessee at Martin.

Once again, losses plagued the team. Coach Bob Knight, however, feels that the team grew a lot mentally on the trip and showed dedication on the court. Representing Harding were David Cannon, Marcus Hogins, Mark Roberts, Robert Sellers, David Staggs and Stanley Freeman.

Robert Sellers defeated Christian Brother's number one player, Jim Statler, 6-4 and 7-5. Other scores at the Memphis match were Cannon: 2-6, 7-6, 3-6; Roberts: 7-5, 3-6, 2-6; Freeman: 0-6, 6-7; and Staggs: 3-6, 4-6.

At David Lipscomb in Nashville, Tenn., Mark Roberts and Marcus Hogins won their doubles sets; 6-4, 6-4. In singles action were Sellers: 0-6, 0-6; Roberts: 3-6, 5-7; Freeman: 3-6, 1-6; and Staggs: 5-7, 0-6.

In the matches with the University of Tenn. at Martin, Sellers was 2-6, 5-7; Cannon: 2-6, 2-6; Roberts: 5-7, 0-6; Freeman: 3-6, 1-6; and Staggs: 2-6, 0-6.

Despite the team's misfortunes thus far, Coach Knight comments, "Even though we're 0-12, we should not be underestimated."

Maypole-winders sleepwalk through practice

Twenty women's social club representatives glide groggily through their early morning windings of the maypole in preparation for the upcoming May Fete ceremonies.

Those who began their pre-breakfast rehearsals this week appear before the Lily Pond at 6 a.m. in various sizes of curlers.

The four weeks of practice in steps and timing lead up to the actual winding of the pole on May Day following the crowning of the May Queen.

This year's queen candidates are Stevie Green of Ju Go Ju, Carolyn Dell of Tri-Kappa and Vickie Wheat of Omega Phi.

The Ju Go Ju president, Kathy Henderson, is supervising the May Fete activities.

Bison baseballers continue wins, take two weekend doubleheaders

By Ken Beck

Increasing their record to 12-3, the Harding baseball team won a pair of doubleheaders last week as they handed Freed-Hardeman two setbacks at Henderson, Tenn., and then did a repeat job against Southwestern of Memphis edging out the Memphians by one run in each game.

The Bison nine won their opener with Freed-Hardeman, 5-1, as Joe Mathias notched his fourth victory against no losses in pitching a three-hit, 11-strikeout game and also had a solo homer in the second inning.

Harding's big inning came in the sixth when leadoff hitter Mike Egly and first baseman Russ Schramm led off with singles. Leftfielder Guy Hydrick then drove both of them in with another single. Mathias followed a sacrifice by Terry McCormick with a one-base hit which scored Hydrick from third.

Harding won the second game, 6-5, as Bob Helvering went the distance on the mound and struck out 18 batters. Three of Harding's runs came in the fourth when Egly and Hydrick singled and shortstop Randy Kirby walked to fill the bases.

Freshman catcher Rock Long then doubled in two runs and Russ Parker followed with a single to score Kirby.

Down 5-4, with one inning of play to go the Bison came up with singles by Parker and Dallas Howard in the seventh, and won the game 6-5 as both scored on a pair of wild pitches by the Freed-Hardeman pitcher.

A solo run by Harding against Southwestern accounted for the first game victory as the Bison won 1-0, when Dallas Howard began the bottom of the first with a double and scored on a single by Mike Egly. Marv Francisco picked up the win and struck out six as he increased his record to 4-1.

Harding won the second game of the doubleheader with Southwestern, 3-2, as a 3-run rally in the seventh inning kept the Bison winning streak going.

Jim Hinerman led off the top of the seventh with a double and pinch-hitter Russ Schramm walked. Mathias and Helvering were walked also to fill the bases as Harding trailed, 2-1.

Centerfielder Russ Parker then hit in the winning runs.

Coaches Corner

By Larry Brown

Spring sports are closing rapidly. The Bison track team will entertain both Southern State and Henderson on April 20 here in Searcy. This will be their final home meet of the season. Harding has not encountered either of these teams earlier in the season.

Southern State has already posted wins over SCA and Tech, the second and third place finishers in last year's conference title race. SCA defeated Harding two weeks ago and Harding hasn't met Tech yet. Henderson appears to be in much the same boat they were in last year.

The Riders' standout, Tony Knight, reeled off two impressive runs last week at the Austin College Relays. He was clocked at 9.5 in the 100 and 21.3 in the 220. The week before, Mike Healer, a cross country runner for Southern State, set a new Rider record with a 15:18.8 in the three-mile. That should be a good race for Harding distance men.

On the baseball scene, starting through the remainder of the season, Harding will be playing all conference games. Although the conference is well balanced, Coach Dick Johnson feels any of four teams could win. Harding, OBU, Tech and SCA are all hopefuls although OBU, the present leader with a 6-0, is picked to win. Coach Johnson feels, "If our hitting comes around and our pitching develops, we could be in the race."

As of games through April 3, Harding was holding onto third place in the AIC standing with a 3-1 conference record, and an 8-3 overall season posting. Southern State and SCA both had 3-1 records in the AIC also but poorer season tallies.

Harding had three men in the top ten hitters for the conference. Russ Schramm had a .400 average, with Russ Parker following with a .393 and Mike Egly at .370.

Presently, Mathias is bettered by only two other pitchers in the conference as he has won three and lost none; also he has struck out 23.

Tomorrow, the Bison travel to Russellville to meet second place Tech. Tech who is 4-0 on the season also has several hitters in the top ten. Gary Peters is presently batting .416, and Bill Breedlove is at .400.
