Nixon's impeachment hangs on opinion, says Smith

"Why don't we have a board of inquiry to find out what the hell America is about to do, and if the public wants it done?" said Dr. James Ragan, who is director of the Political Science Department.

"We need a special commission to solve our political change," he continued. "We have the most negative system of decisions of any country I've visited. Our checks and balances system may never know where to place responsibility."

Two areas Smith suggested changing were the Supreme Court and the committee system.

"The committee system as 'a bunch of old men sitting around the heads of committees. Sen. Eastman of the judiciary committee is one of the worst I've heard."

Graduate set-up offers lower enrollment rates

This fall students in several Southern states can enroll in selected graduate programs in other states on a resident-tuition basis, according to Dr. Joseph E. Wright.

The arrangement is possible through the Academic Common Market, a project of the Southern Regional Education Board, according to Dr. Wright.

"The Academic Common Market will make it possible for students to receive a master's or doctoral degree in a wide range of subject areas, according to Dr. Wright. The programs in which students of a participating state can enroll depend upon the state's arrangement.

Under the Common Market agreement, each member state puts a number of its programs in a "market pool," and then arranges for its residents to have access to out-of-state programs not offered in its own institutions.

Dr. Wright said that the typical Common Market program is one that is somewhat unusual, both in excellence and program specialization, and one that is needed by residents in each state or more of the other states. By pooling such programs available to students, needless duplication in graduate programs will be avoided.

"Students who are interested in graduate work at a lower cost may obtain more information about the program from Dr. Wright's office," he added.

The era of banana republic style politics is at an end, he said.

Smith said that he was "grateful for the opportunity to serve in this capacity."

"We have been using too much fossil fuel," he continued. "We have been doing things that are not compatible with our life style and become ac­customed to, and these limited fuel and limited food.

Smith said that the American student is going to have to make sacrifices for scarce raw materials. In addition, he said, the American people will "have to improve the conditions of our society."

"However, I added, "we will be much happier with the listed requisites for change.

"The way to change faster and worse to make that change more practical, we have to have the least fright of any people in the world. I can't, however, I will be the last one in the room that couldn't have been prepared for it."

"The problem of complex social problems are examples."

Business team wears crown for third year

"They've done it again! For the third consecutive year the Harding College business team has emerged from the Emory intercollegiate Business Games as national champions.

This year's team members are seniors Phil Herrington, David House and Sam Yeager, and juniors Debbie Brown and Linda Garner.

According to team sponsor Billy Ray Cox, "This is the second year in a row that the team have been a team because of the experiences of Herrington, House and Yeager, who played on two championship teams.

Sponsor David Barks said that he was "particularly impressed with the professionalism that the team members worked to their level in ability and beyond in giving their best efforts to defend their last championship."

"The team was acclaimed as to why they were able to defend their championship, Herrington stated that this special skill in making "winning," and House said that "We all realized that we had a goal to reach. The whole thing was a real challenge."

Harding's business team has played in twelve national tournaments in the past three years out of which they have won three times in this year. The judges were unanimous in naming Harding the winner, while Southwestern of Memphis placed second, and Rensseller Poly Tech of Ind. fourth.

Fall 74 curriculum to include Spanish major for first time

A major in Spanish will be offered for the first time at Harding College, according to Mrs. Ava Conley, assistant professor of modern foreign languages.

An introductory course to receive The Rectangle, a publication by national offices, to which creative writing students may contribute.

If a national convention is held every two years, and members can participate in national writing competitions in which awards of up to $1,000 are given. The stated purpose of the fraternities is "to confer upon the student an English major status, to stimulate the interest in college campuses, to assist professor of English.

Other members of the chapter are seniors Lynde Alldred, Giles Brown, Linda Garner, Melba Johnson, Pam Martin, Betty Murphy, Anila Nance, Alice Newberry, Barbara Faye, Becky Underwood and Patti Williams.

Junior members are Debbie Bolen, Barbara Cartwright, Carol Horsman, Joquita Nix, Ann Uray and Sarah Dollar.

Qualifications for membership are that the student be an English major and have completed two semesters of literature history and a grade requirement and that he have a 3.0 overall grade point average.

The main aim of the chapter this semester is to write a con­tribution to the college magazine. Members of the fraternity will receive The Rectangle, a publication by national offices, to which creative writing students may contribute.

Lasy habit repulsive to cafeteria diners

There's a practice being used in the cafeteria that needs to be brought to your attention so that it can be stopped. Some people have practically lost their appetite when their gaze falls upon certain tables in the Heritage dining hall.

We are referring to the tables in the corner on the right side as you enter the cafeteria. Usually there's a dozen or more trays left by students who are either too lazy to put them up or they think of it as a courtesy to their fellow human beings.

This could be understandable if little children were eating there, but we're supposed to be young, mature adults.

What if all of us were to just get up and leave our trays? There would not be a place for anyone to sit. The ladies in the cafeteria have enough to do without having to wetsnur to a bunch of oversized babies. So come on, it's only a few yards to the conveyor belt.

Prison inmate seeks letters

Dear Editor,

This may not be your policy in upholding the tradition of your school newspaper, but I am at a complete standstill with no where to turn for help. The recent death of my mother and father has left me in a empty world filled with nothing but misery and gloom. This is why I am asking of you to put an advertisement in your school newspaper. I have no way of paying you for this important effort, because I am an inmate at Lucasville Prison, but your assistance in this matter will be greatly appreciated by the utmost.

Thank you.

Ad: I am a lonely inmate without family or friends. I wish sincerely to correspond with broad-minded and free-thinking people of all nationalities, who will answer all letters. I am 21, 5'11" tall, I weigh 160 lbs; black hair; blue eyes; and I am a big football fan. I have no way of getting a yearly copy of paying for my important effort.

Suddenly we realize that after all is said and done...

by H. K. Stewart

For a long time now I have been seeing myself as a Don Quixote resting on his laurels. I look around me and I see one or two battered windmills, but there don't seem to be any real dragons nearby. Looking down I notice that my laurels, like the dragons, went away a long time ago. That is, if they were ever around to begin with. At its rate, from my nest of cabbage leaves Don Quixote writes again, so to speak.

I remember having a teacher back when who seemed to be very concerned with something known as "appearance versus reality." She knew all about Don Quixote and she gave us more to think about than we went in expecting to find. She worked as a teacher and she was very good at what she did.

For the most part I have found appearances to be fascinating things. They can tell us anything we want to hear. They are very easy to listen to because we make them say whatever we want them to say. It's a shame that sometimes appearances tell us lies instead of what we need to know. Unfortunately, we all see things the way we've already decided they should be seen, not necessarily the way they really are.

A fable.

There was once an ostrich who lived alone in a large Gothic cathedral on the outskirts of Poria, Ill. I have forgotten his name at the moment, but he was basically a kind, peaceful sort of bird who had many friends and few enemies. He was more of a way to unlike his other ostrich friends, however, he never buried his head in the sand at the sign of danger. His friends never really understood this, Quixote, characteristic, but generally accepted it as just a quirk in his personality.

One day a new bird named Joe appeared on the scene, as they say, and when he heard about this devotee ostrich he decided to himself that the ostrich was a socialist. He had no evidence to back this charge, which is quite an insult to most ostriches, but Joe managed to turn everyone against the ostrich just because he was different. They locked him in a gilded cage, then at the urging of the new bird, they took him out the next morning and stoned him. Then, of course, he was different.

I have to believe this is simply because a person appears a certain way to some people does not necessarily make him that way in reality. Recently I've heard a lot of supposed realities from people who have been listening too closely to appearances, and I, for one, am very tired of it. Even Jesus ate with sinners. Remember?

Construction begins on dorm

It looks a far way from finished, but construction is begun on the new women’s dorm, which is located on Woodruff St. across from Sewell Hall. The finished structure is to be a serene building that can accommodate up to 300 women students in 150 rooms. The new dorm will be ready for use by the 1975-76 school year.

Soundsation announces sale of tickets for weekend shows

Tickets for Soundsation’s first campus concerts will go on sale Monday in the Business Office, according to Steve Holder, group director.

Soundsation, a 17-member music group, will perform Friday and Saturday, March 29-30, in the Heritage Auditorium, with two shows scheduled each evening at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. The group, which is made up of Harding students, will play and sing such popular songs as "There’s got to be a Morning After," and "I Want to Take You Higher," Holder said. The show will range from Dixieland-type music to rock, he went on. The shows will also feature Ronzini the Magician, Holder stated.

Tickets will be $1.50 on a general admission basis and proceeds will be used to purchase new instruments for the Harding Bison Band, according to Holder.

Former Nigerian missionary will speak at April seminar

Jimmy Massey, former missionary to Nigeria, will speak at this semester’s last Bible seminar April 1-3, according to Dr. Joe Hacker, chairman of the Bible department.

Massey, an instructor at Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock, Tex., will speak on "The Preacher on the Mission Field," Dr. Hacker said. He will begin his lecture at the Timothy Club meeting Monday, April 1 at 6:30 p.m.

Also included in the seminar will be chapel talks Tuesday and Wednesday and an open forum Tuesday at 3:25 in Bible 100. The series will end Wednesday night when Massey will speak at both services of the College Church.

worst. The chairmen of these committees shouldn’t have the power they have.

Smith also said the system of financing campaigns is in need of revision.

"This system should be changed," he said. He compared the campaign financing system to a circle. Special interests contribute much of the campaign money, he said. "They want favors for their money, but they can also be blackmailed by the politicians," alluding to the activities of the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

"I’m in favor of a system which won’t allow a politician to accept more than $10 or $15 from anyone except his family," Smith said. "Most importantly," he added, "the amount allowed to be spent on campaigns should be lowered as much as possible." He said he was in favor of a type of public financing, but with British style. Smith suggested that all candidates for public office be required to place a deposit when filing. Under this plan, office seeker would have his deposit returned only if he garnered a certain percentage of the vote. "This would keep the books from running for office," he said.

Smith concluded with praise for America and Americans.

"After living 30 years in other countries, I’m convinced that this is the best one for the individual," he said. "Men are judged here by what they do by day. The average American and he’s the hardest working and have more skills than people of any other country," he concluded. "I have extremely great confidence that if we face our problems, we will be a model for the whole world to follow."

In reply to a question concerning President Nixon’s appointment of Chief Justice Earl Warren, whose judgement has been proven wrong several times.

Keglers widen conference lead

After the fourth round of bowling in the AIC bowling championships, Harding's Keglers have a dominating 500 pin lead.

Aside from having the top 10 pins in the AIC, Harding also has the top two individuals and four of the top five conference bowlers. The Keglers widened their lead last Friday at the Park Plaza Lanes in Little Rock. There they snared the top spot with a total pin fall of 11,463. SCA is second with 10,961; Arkansas Tech 10,309; Ouachita 10,240; and Southern State rounds out the top five with 10,127.

Baseballers stomp Fred-Hardenman in two spring break double headers

The Harding Bison baseball squad opened their 1974 season in spring break double headers, taking three out of four games from the Fred-Hardenman Lions in action last weekend.

The games consisted of two double headers that were played last Friday and Saturday. The Bisons won their initial game of the campaign, copping a 6-3 victory in seven innings. Harding pushed across four runs in the fourth inning and again in the fifth to take command. The rallies were highlighted by Jim Hinerman's two run Homer. Rance Reagan was the winning pitcher (1-0) and pitched shut-out ball before being relieved in the fifth by Vince Adams.

Fred got into the game in the last inning as they exploded for five runs. However Bison hurler David H. came into the game clicking off two batters to end the rally and the game.

In the nightcap, Fred led off the game with a home run off starter Perry Brown. The Bisons tied it in the bottom of the inning on a homer run by Gary Harris. Two innings later the Lions regained the lead with three tallies in the third. Vince Adams put new life into the club by blasting a grand slam homer in the bottom of the fifth to enable the Bisons to lead for the first time, 5-4. However, a two run homer by the Lions in the sixth pushed them back on top. A last inning rally fell short as Ron Allgood was tagged out at home plate with two out.

The Bisons took both ends of a twin bill the next day, 9-1 and 7-2. In the opener, Harding picked up runs in the second, third, fourth, and fifth innings to easily out-distance the Lions. House was the winning pitcher (1-0).

Tony Swezey found the Fred-Hardenman pitching to his liking in the second game as he hammered out a home run, a double and two singles.

Harding scored a run in the second and third innings to take a 2-0 lead. In the top of the fifth, the Lions came up with two to tie the score only to see the Bisons forge ahead by striking for four in the bottom of the inning. In the sixth, Harding scored an additional run to ice the verdict. Tom Justus was credited with the victory, his duplicate of the conference championships which will be held in early May. All conference schools will be participating.

Alpha Tau wins large club swim crown; Theta Tau ties Beta Phi in small club

In the first lap of the 100-yard freestyle, Craig Bauer shows the form that won him first place.

Bison briefs

By Matt Comoto

Craig Bauer led the intramural swimming circuit recently in winning three of the four possible events. Bauer's lone defeat was at the hands of Dave Bell in the 40-yard backstroke. Bauer, however, managed to win the 50-yard freestyle, 40-yard breast-stroke and 100-yard freestyle all in record time.

Stacey Peters is the 1974 Tip-in Champion (nerf-ball basketball). Peters won the coveted award over heavily favored Tim Vink. The championship was held at LA Keller dorm.

The Pre-AIC Track Meet is slated for March 30 here at Searcy. The meet is an exact replication of the conference championships which will be held in early May. All conference schools will be participating.

Alpha Tau won the large club swimming championships with a high score of 38 points. Sub-T was second with 12. Alpha Tau's Craig Bauer won the 100-yard freestyle and 40-yard breast-stroke with teammate Dave Bell taking the 40-yard backstroke. Randy Kirby of Sub-T stopped the Alpha Tau sweep by winning the 50-yard freestyle. Alpha Tau also won both relays.

Coach Lloyd announces that this will be the first year of both All-Arkansas and All-AIC post season track honors. In order to attain these awards an athlete, aside from being among the top three in his event, must reach a specified time or distance in that event.
