Council forwards decision on code

Executive council members of the Student Association met last night to decide on a solution to be submitted to the administration concerning the dress code.

The issue, which headed Tuesday night's S.A. meeting, had been tabled until it could be discussed further last night.

"One of biggest problems is finding a viable, working solution that will satisfy both the students and the administration," said Dr. Jerome Barnes, faculty sponsor for the S.A.

"I agree with the majority of students who feel that if we're going to have a dress code, it should either be enforced or changed."

In discussing the issue, several problems were brought out. It must be determined, for example, whether girls can wear pant suits all the time, only in cold weather, or to meals and certain classes. It must also be determined whether teachers can expel from class a student he or she feels is improperly or immodestly dressed; deciding what is "cold weather" and what makes up a "nice" pant suit.

Other topics discussed at Tuesday's weekly meeting included open house schedules for this semester and the possibility of having a juke box in the Student Center.

After talking to students and faculty and staff members, it was decided that there is no need for a juke box in the Student Center, and that it would cause too many problems and would be too hard to control.

Some of the arguments range from "Why pay the juke box, when there's free music over the public address system now?" to "Why would it work now, when it didn't work several years ago when tried?"

In addition to deciding not to have the juke box, the council decided upon March 23 for girls' open house night, and March 25 for men's open house night.

Students to compete in speech contest

Club members and independent students will compete in the Intramural Speech Arts Tournament tonight and tomorrow in 16 different public speaking events.

Certificates will be awarded to first, second, and third place winners, as well as students who deserve "superior" and "excellent" ratings.

Three trophies will be presented in chapel Monday to clubs compiling the highest point scores in a combination of certain events relating to each trophy's theme: the Pi Kappa Delta Forensics Trophy, the Alpha Psi Omega Dramatics Arts Trophy, and the Woodson Harding-Armstrong Sweepstakes trophy.

"We'd like to emphasize that the competition is intramural, but not necessarily intracub," said Dr. John Ryan, tournament director. "It's another avenue by which clubs and students can engage in a healthy competition in intramural speech arts."

Duet-Acting Scene and Interpreter's Theatre events require two or more contestants and strongly emphasize dramatic aspects of public speaking. Events for individual entrants include Interpretation of Essay or Narrative Prose, of the Public Address, of Traditional Poetry, of Modern Poetry, of

Guild to honor nation's past in song, verse

"America in Song and Verse," a musical journey honoring the past, present and future of America through the drama of song and verse, will be presented by the Junior Players Guild tomorrow night at 7:30.

To celebrate the birthday of our country, "America in Song and Verse" charts the history of America through its drama and music which reflects the heritage of her people.

Beginning with songs of the Revolutionary War Period and traveling up to the contemporary sounds of today and tomorrow, the production uses narration, dance, solos, duets, trios, quartets and group numbers to tell America's story.

The cast is comprised completely of young people, ages 14 to 18, chosen from city-wide auditions held in Dallas early in the fall.

Directed by Patricia Bowman Edwards, a 1970 graduate of Harding who was active in A Cappella, Belles and Beaux, Debate and Campus Players, the production is sponsored by grants from the 500, Inc., a Dallas arts foundation, and Sun Oil Company.

The Junior Players Guild is a Dallas-based, non-profit community theatre which provides opportunity for participation for the youth of the community and a theatre of quality for family audiences. The guild is a member of the American Theatre Association and the Southwest Theatre Conference.

Festival Queen receives crown

Senior Kris Castle accepts her crown as Winter Festival Queen from Dr. Cliff Ganus, president of the college, while Becky Mulvaney, last year's queen, watches. Miss Castle was named Queen during half-time ceremonies Monday night. The other queen nominees were Dana Adams and Lisa Lynn.

Crocus flowers, one of first signs of spring, were blooming around the art building this week. Area weathermen assured residents that the cold weather has finally passed and good weather is ahead.

Female student drowns while swimming in pool

Nancy Elizabeth Watts, a junior art major from Searcy, drowned Sunday night at 8:45 in the college's old swimming pool despite efforts of fellow student and ambulance drivers.

Mrs. Dianne LaRue and Susan Bean, both students, pulled Miss Watts from the water and administered resuscitation to which she did not respond.

Miss Watts had hypoglycemia and was subject to seizures. However, Searcy's Coroner Allan Foster listed the cause of death as drowning.

Miss Watts, a graduate of Harding Academy, was a member of the Regina social club and JOY.

The funeral was Wednesday morning at the College Church of Christ with Bill Diles, principal of Harding Academy, Dr. Robert Brown, Searcy physician and elder at West Side Church of Christ, Dr. J. D. Bales, professor of Christian Doctrine, and Avon Malone, assistant professor of Bible and minister of the West Side Church of Christ officiating.

The family has requested that instead of flowers, money be sent to Southern Christian Home in Morrilton.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Watts, Jr. and two sisters, Cynthia Jean Hite and Carolyn Ann Watts of Searcy, students at Harding College.

Regina social club and the art department are collecting for a wall plaque to be placed in her honor and the Chorale plans to donate some weaving equipment to the art department in her name. Also, her graduating class at the Academy is collecting for a memorial gift to Camp Salado.

Drunk drivers: issue that touches everyone

Nearly 8,000 young Americans are killed in one year in drunken driving accidents. That is more than war, or drugs, or suicide, or disease. And most are killed by people their own age. In fact, the number-one killer of young Americans is young Americans.

This problem has much to do with us here at Harding. The next time that someone who, just this once, is drunk out of his mind, careens his car across the median at 80 miles an hour, it just might be you he bashes head-on, or your best friend, or your sister, your brother, your finance. It's a rather frightening thought, isn't it?

Drunken driving does not refer exclusively red-nosed pot-bellied alcoholics who are constantly in evidence on the road. It also refers to the thousands of young Americans who drink a little too much wine at parties and then drive home. It refers to the teenager who is persuaded to drink just enough to join in the spirit of things at an outing and then drives his date home.

And, unfortunately, it also refers to some Harding students. While we would like to think that no drinking goes on here at Harding, it is a fact that we must not ignore, because where there is drinking, inevitable there is drunk driving.

Recently television commercials sponsored by the Advertising Council, a non-profit public service agency, have been saying to drive a friend home if he is drunk or call a cab, but don't let him drive.

You could write your congressman and tell him to do something to stop drunk driving. Ask him to call for stricter laws.

Keep the people you love alive. Tell them how big a problem this is. If they are part of the problem, try to help them. If they're not, get them to help you fight against it.

The students of Harding are famous for their caring sense of responsibility. We're young, just beginning to live. We protest against war and pollution and try to save souls. Yet the thing that cripples and kills more young Americans than anything else, we do nothing about it.

Let's help each other stay alive by helping to keep the drunk driver off the road.

Let Freedom Ring

Higher prices only symptom of problem

By David J. Porter

What! Inflation is taxation? Yes, and the worst type because so few people realize that inflation is a form of taxation.

What is inflation? Most people describe inflation as prices going up. However, that is only a symptom of the problem. Inflation is basically an increase in the supply of money. As the supply of a good increases (money) the value of a unit (the dollar) decreases. The best way to describe inflation is the same amount of goods will purchase more money.

What causes inflation? Simply increasing the money supply. Well, now we ask who would cause inflation? Save for a few counterfeiters who add only a small amount to the money supply, inflation is caused by one source, the United States Government. Which is just a legal counterfeiting outfit when it prints money.

Editor's note: Articles in this series will be provided by The Young Americans for Freedom, a new group on campus, that wants to make others aware of our personal liberties.

Now the question arises why would the government cause inflation? It prints money to pay the bills for all its wild-eyed spending schemes. The politicians have directly taxed the people to the breaking point, they have invaded the capital markets until interest on the national debt has become seven percent of the budget. Now in an attempt to pay for $70 billion or higher deficits the printing presses are rolling.

The politicians believe they can fool the people into thinking they are getting services free. Why look! They are not paying tax money or even borrowing to fund some programs. The government just prints money.

However, we pay a tax for these programs. Every time inflation lowers the value of our pension plans and assets or decreases the value of the money we earn, we pay a tax.

Next time a government official or Congressman starts demagoguing on the causes of high prices, let us remember government is the one which increases the money supply. We won't let them fool us, will we?

crew and passengers are all big name movie stars.

Like in most disaster films, you don't ever really learn the character's names and are forced to refer to them by either the actors true name or the little descriptions which serve as about the only character development the film makers care to give us.

Thus Karen Black plays the courageous stewardess, George Kennedy plays the disabled pilot, Gloria Swanson plays the aging movie star, Linda Blair plays the brave young victim of kidney failure who must get a transplant soon or else, Helen Reddy plays (with apologies to Debbie Reynolds) the singing nun, and Charlton Heston appears once again in the role of the man who saves the day.

As might be expected, the film offers little in the way of character interaction, development, or definition.

However, the plot does move fairly quickly and the special effects are above average. The film provides light entertainment for people willing to sit back and be uncritically entertained.

In other words, it's the kind of movie people who like this kind of movie will like.

There's one thing to watch out for, though: Rumor has it that there may be a sequel to this sequel called "Highway 1977" about a greyhound bus that is hit by a Volkswagen.

Fifth Column

Valentine's Day turns hearts

By Shelia Oswald

With Valentine's Day coming up and passing over, a young lady's heart will begin to turn to spring and other related things — the three B's which are banquets, bikinis, and a new boyfriend.

Yet, as we all know, no woman of American descent would ever take on such a project without taking off a few pounds first.

According to tradition, that is the only way for a woman to begin any new project, and during our bicentennial year, who wants to go against tradition?

So for all of you who are at least five pounds overweight, pay strict attention to the following advice. It is guaranteed to melt away pounds in just a matter of days.

First of all, the best way not to eat all day is to sleep all day. After all, you can't chew if you're sawing logs.

The trouble with this approach is that once you sleep all day you tend to stay awake and eat all night. And since everyone knows that you gain weight by eating at night, maybe you should disregard the first idea.

Next, you might try eating all of your food with chop sticks. But, don't pick up anything that you might drop. This form of diet is extremely effective if used with tomato soup.

If you are one of those eaters that just can't stand the thought of not eating a plate full of food, try eating everything under a plate-sized magnifying glass. This is especially effective for those with a vivid imagination.

Now I know from experience that every dieter just climbs the walls for something chocolate. While this may be good exercise, this does not curb the urge for chocolate. So to overcome such an urge, dye everything that goes into your mouth black and think positive. Think deep, rich, warm, sweet, melt-in-my-mouth chocolate.

But, of course, diet alone will not insure one of becoming sleek and trim. Exercise must also be fitted into the daily regimen.

If you've become bored with the usual calisthenics, why not try something new and different, guaranteed to burn tons of calories.

For openers you might want to start out by swimming the Atlantic Ocean.

If swimming is not right for you, then maybe you should climb Mount Everest, dig a tunnel to China, or walk the circumference of the earth.

If you do not have the time for such activity, remember, where there's a will, there's a way when it comes to losing weight.

So, as a last resort, cut your hair, along with your fingernails and toenails. And, have all of your teeth pulled.

Not only will you be certain to lose weight with this last plan, but you will be certain to call attention to yourself.

Diversion — Movie

Airport 1975 seems familiar at first

"Airport 1975", this weekend's S.A. movie, is the kind of movie that seems familiar the first time you see it.

Maybe that's because it's a sequel to a much more famous movie called "Airport". Maybe it's because the cast is so famous they all seem like old friends of the family. Or maybe it's because when you've seen one disaster movie, you've seen them all.

The disaster in this particular film is on a smaller scale than the destruction of Los Angeles or even the burning of the world's tallest skyscraper. It concerns the mid-air collision of a small private plane piloted by Dana Andrews and a 747 jetliner whose winners, 30 points will be awarded for first place, 20 for second place, and 10 for third.

"Faculty members and townspeople will judge the events," Dr. Ryan said. "Whenever possible, we try to match people with their area of interest, for instance, a lawyer judging Argumentative Speech."

"It's true that a majority of clubs are represented yearly, and competition is important," he added, "but it's also a nice chance — especially for students in special events featuring original work — to publicize their efforts."

The tournament will use the Ganus building as its headquarters, where a bulletin board will reveal names, events, places, winners, and elimination rounds.

Case, Wallis announce wedding plans

Donna Case, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Case of Houston, and Terry Wallis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clinton of Richardson, Tx., announce their engagement and approaching marriage. Miss Case, an elementary education major, was a member of Zeta Rho social club and JOY. Wallis, a Bible and physical education major, was a member of Chi Sigma Alpha social club and Timothy Club. Both are December graduates. The wedding will be Friday, Feb. 20, at 7:30 at the College Church of Christ.

Bicentennial guests invited

Northeastern to welcome visitors

Northeastern Christian Junior College, because of its unique location just outside of Philadelphia, the nation's "Bicentennial City," has extended a "Bicentennial Invitation to Christians" for the summer of 1976.

The college will be making its campus facilities available to individuals, families, and groups who would like to visit Philadelphia and other Eastern cities during the months of May through August.

Rooms in campus dormitories and meals in the college's cafeteria will be offered to summer travelers at costs below area commercial rates.

According to Mrs. Sara Bills, Director of Public Information who is coordinating the program, the college would especially like to host groups who would likely be traveling by bus and have a tour director handling arrangements.

"Because of the administrative advantages of arranging for groups, the college feels it can offer even better rates for groups, depending on the size of the group and the length of stay," she said.

Northeastern has the capacity of accommodating up to 150 persons at one time. Huffard Hall, a women's dormitory which features suite-style room arrangements, and May Hall, a men's dormitory which has double rooms and community baths will be used to house the visitors. Married couples, families, and women traveling as singles will be housed in Huffard Hall while men traveling as singles will be housed in May Hall.

Thus far, only one special campus program has been planned in conjunction with the Bicentennial for the summer. A Valley Forge Family Encampment will be at Northeastern July 16-19, featuring a combination of lectures and Bicentennial tours.

Assistance in planning and arrangements is available to groups desiring a structured program during some other time of the summer, such as religious or cultural seminars.

All of the major Philadelphia Bicentennial and cultural attractions are within 30 minutes of the NCC campus. In the opposite direction, Valley Forge Park and Freedom's Foundation are only 15 minutes away. The campus is almost in the heart of the Liberty Trail, which involves a 150-mile loop that encompasses most all of the major points of historical and cultural interest in the greater Philadelphia area.

For those who wish to launch out to other cities, New York City and Baltimore are two hours by car or bus, while Washington, D.C. is a three-hour drive from Philadelphia.

Both train and trolley service into Philadelphia are within walking distance of the Northeastern campus, making connection with high speed train service to the above cities. Limousine service from several area motels provides convenient access to the Philadelphia International Airport as well.

Additional information may be requested from Mrs. Sara Bills, "Bicentennial Invitation," Northeastern Christian Junior College, 1860 Montgomery Avenue, Villanova, PA 19085, (215) 525-6780.

Fluorocarbons may cause damage to ozone layer

Scientists are building up evidence that fluorocarbons released from aerosol spray cans are damaging the ozone shield that protects the earth from deadly ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

The evidence is not yet final, but those conducting the federally financed research say that so far the evidence supports the theory, first made known in 1974, that man-made fluorocarbons drifting into the stratosphere release chlorine which destroys ozone.

Dr. John Gille, head of the Upper Atmosphere Research Project of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, says that "the only thing which there is an uncertainty about at the moment is the amount of ozone destruction caused by the chlorine after it reaches the stratosphere."

An immediate consequence of even a small reduction of ozone might be more skin cancer. A five percent decrease, for example, might produce a 10 percent jump in skin cancer cases. Larger reductions would impair plant and animal life.

The federal government is spending $14 million on fluorocarbon research, which also has private financing, mostly from colleges and universities.

The research is centered at Boulder, Colo., where the National Center for Atmospheric Research and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration have installations. This research is the major American effort to determine whether man-made fluorocarbons used in aerosol sprays are an environmental hazard.

The six American manufacturers of fluorocarbons, a $500 million-a-year industry, are spending $5 million on similar research.

The United States Congress is currently considering laws that would limit or ban the use of fluorocarbons as a propellant in aerosol sprays, including hair sprays, deodorants, and insect repellants.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission refused last July and again in December to ban fluorocarbon-propelled aerosol sprays.

Scientists say that reading from the satellites, 120 gas samples gathered so far by balloons and chlorine samples picked up by the research aircraft indicate that man-made fluorocarbons are reaching the ozone layer and causing some depletion.

A 14-agency federal task force estimated last year that one chlorine atom might be capable of destroying thousands of ozone molecules.

At the research center in Boulder, scientists analyze liquid gas samples taken from the stratosphere at a temperature of minus 245 degrees centigrade — minus 420 Fahrenheit.

The samples are subjected to 13 different tests for various gases and compounds, and are heated to 175 degrees Fahrenheit before being run through a gas chromatograph for analysis.

This group has consistently found f-11 and f-12, the two fluorocarbons used in aerosol sprays. They say that their research supports the ozone depletion theory.

In the laboratories of NOAA, the federal research area of the Environmental Protection Agency, they have also found f-11 and f-12 in gas samplings, says Arthur Schmeltekopf, director of NOAA's stratospheric sampling.

Asked if there was a danger to mankind from continued use of the fluorocarbons for aerosol sprays, he replied, "Defining a danger is not a scientific question, but a political question. But someone has to decide if an increase in skin cancer is bad — and weigh the other potential dangers."

The ozone theory first was publicized in June 1974 by Mario J. Molina and F. Sherwood Rowland, chemists at the University of California.

About 6 billion aerosol cans were produced worldwide in 1973. Since then, production has declined in the United States and abroad. The United States produced 1.6 billion aerosol cans last year, but only half contained fluorocarbons. These are figures issued by the federal government and environmental groups.

Aerosol cans come in all sizes and, according to many scientists, are destroying the ozone layer of the earth's atmosphere, which could increase the threat of cancer.

Cardot receives top honors at contest

Joe Cardot, a senior speech major; was one of the three winners at the Sectional Tournament of the Bicentennial Youth Debates program held at Harding College Feb. 7.

Cardot received a Hamilton medallion presented on behalf of the U.S. Department of Treasury. Dr. Evan Ulrey, professor of speech and department chairman, was responsible for tournament administration.

Isom to speak on counseling

Dr. Allan Isom, associate professor of Bible, will speak on Marriage Counseling at the Behavioral Science Club meeting Thursday afternoon, Feb. 19, at 4 o'clock in Social Science 102.

Cardot, a native of Fort Collins, Colo., took top honors in Lincoln-Douglas Debate. The topic was resolved: "That Government Policy Toward the American Economy has Benefited the Consumer at the Expense of Producers." Each participant debated both sides of the resolution and answered questions during cross-examination periods.

Another student, senior speech major Joe Corum of Kansas City, Kan., placed third in the Extemporaneous Speaking category. Twenty-four students representing six institutions competed for the top three spots.

Cardot will advance to the regional tournament to be held at the Harry S. Truman Library in Independence, Mo., April 8-10. Cardot will face the winners of the sectional tournaments in Missouri, Kansas and Illinois.

Cast members prepares for play

Marilyn Harris and Eric Manlove prepare for their roles in Chekhov's "Cherry Orchard," the spring production of the college speech department. Performances will be in the Little Theater Feb. 19-21, 23 and 24 and will be free with ID or $2.50 for non-students.

Band leaves on four-day concert tour

The Harding College Band left this morning on a four-day tour of Arkansas, Tennessee, and Texas.

The band will feature Bicentennial music. "Chester" by Schumann is built on a Revolutionary War theme. "The Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa will feature Mary Beamon, Kathy Hood and Karen Arnold on picolos.

Also performing will be the Stage Band directed by senior Warren Casey featuring Big Band sound and Jazz. The Pep band will be directed by senior Johnny Nash.

Featured performers accompanied by the band are Brad Dell who will perform a trombone solo, Butch Hankins performing a Bassoon Solo and a snare drum duo featuring Mike Binns and J. F. Strother.

The band will perform at Harding Academy, Memphis, Tenn., and West Memphis, Ark., Christian High School in Helena, Ark., and Phillips County Community College.

The band will return Feb. 16. Feb. 17 a concert will be given in the Main Auditorium.

Cafeterias serve steak dinners

Pattie Cobb cafeteria will serve a steak dinner tonight and the Heritage cafeteria will serve a steak dinner next Wednesday night.

Heritage tickets need not have any money on them as long as they're for that week. The tickets will be taken up at the counter.

The Time of Day will perform during the meal next Wednesday.

Thinclads open new indoor

The first indoor track meet held within the state of Arkansas was conducted with the Bison thinclads serving as host in the new Harding physical education complex last weekend.

Completing with 12 other colleges and universities, the Bisons were by a pair of first place performances in the field events held in the morning and afternoon.

1975 AIC shot put champion Steve Flatt heaved the sphere 49-10 to capture Harding's first victory of the day while senior Greg Blake came up with a personal best of 47-0 in the triple jump to top competition in that event in the afternoon.

The Bison two-mile relay team also came up with an outstanding effort to place second behind Ouachita Baptist with a time of 8:11.9. Running legs for the relay were Dave Nixon, Scott Troute, Joe Shepherd, and Mike O'Keefe.

Other Bisons placing were: pole vault, Dave Bell, fourth, (13-0); 300-yd. dash, Cisco Bassett, fifth, (33.41); two-mile run, Mark Galeazzi, fourth (9:36.7); Kent Johnson, fifth, (9:39.4); 1000-yd. run, Dave Nixon, third, (2:25.0); mile run, Marshall Grate, third, (4:26.6).

Pleased with the new facilities, hard-track coach Ted Lloyd stated, "This will be quite a boost to our track and field program.

"We will be able to conduct full scale workouts regardless of the weather and sharpen us for the NAIA indoor nationals later this month, as well as giving us a head start on preparing for outdoor competition later this spring," Lloyd remarked.

"I also imagine it will boost our recruiting program quite a bit, as it is the only indoor track in Arkansas," the popular Bison mentor concluded.

All first-place winners in the competition will go down as the current stadium record holders. Complete results for the meet were:

Long Jump — 1. Elvis Paul, UAPB, 23-6; 2. Bilberry, SWCC, 21-11 $\frac{3}{4}$ -3. (tie) Jeffers, UAM and Walton, ASU, 21-10; 5. Williams, ASU, 21-4 $\frac{3}{4}$ .

High Jump — 1. Kenny Saul, Miss. College, 6-6; 2. (tie) Pirch, Semo and Grer, unattached, 6-4; 4. Williams, ASU 6-2; 5. Din-smore, UAM, 6-2.

Blake makes paper; first time in career

Yes, Greg Blake, for the first time in your career, your picture will grace the pages of the Harding Bison.

Blake, a three-year letterman on the track team as a triple jumper, recently bemoaned the fact that his picture had never been printed before. Consider the situation rectified.

A native of Sterling, Colo., Blake was the third-place finisher in last year's AIC track and field championships. Already this season Blake has beaten his best effort in 1975 with a 47-0 jump which stands as the stadium record over in the new gym.

Tennis team to tackle strange schedule

Coach David Elliot's tennis team will play one of their toughest and strongest tennis schedules, starting with the opening match against College of the Ozarks, March 1.

Out of the netters' first 18 scheduled matches, only two of them will be at home, one being a March 11 encounter with Southwestern Arkansas College and a March 15 battle with Ouachita. However, starting April 8, the Bisons will be hosting nine consecutive matches over a 18-day stretch before playing in the AIC championships April 29-30.

Streaking Bisons down UCA

The Bison swim team further solidified its AIC favorite position Tuesday with a resounding 80-33 victory over Central Arkansas in the inaugural meet held in the new Harding pool in the athletic complex.

Competing before a standing room only audience, the undefeated Bisons swept to first places in 10 of 13 events while establishing school records in two of the individual swimming events in the process.

Freshman Norman Kahla snapped the old standard of 2:00.3 in the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:59.6 effort for his third record in as many meets. Kahla earlier recorded a 5:33.8 clocking in the 500-yard freestyle to break the mark set last season by Dale Linge.

Workhorse David Denman established a new mark in the 1000-yard freestyle by covering the distance in 11:57.0 as he earned the Bisons' first victory of the evening. Denman also earned another first in the 500 race with a time of 6:04.4.

Although losing the opening 400 medley relay to the Bears, the Bisons countered by grabbing first and second in the 1000-yard, 200 freestyle, and 200-yard individual medley to move out to a 27-16 advantage. Paced by Dale Linge's double victory in the 200 medley and 200 butterfly, and three time AIC champion Mark Trotter's double win in the diving events, the Bisons blistered the Bears 48-13 in the stretch to win the dual meet handily.

Other Bisons winning events were Wendell Cave with a 55.2 effort in the 100-yard freestyle, and Rod Ensminger's 2:36.2 clocking in the 200-yard breaststroke.

The Bisons have run their undefeated AIC streak to 4-0, including two easy wins over defending conference champions Hendrix College.

Bison kegglers off to fast start

A conference, district, and national championship may be a tough act to follow, but Ed Burt's hard-rolling kegglers appear on the verge of doing just that after breezing through tournaments in Missouri and Texas recently.

The Bisons' bowling honors, which are many, include a string of 12 consecutive NAIA District 17 titles, three straight AIC crowns, and a total of four of the last six NAIA national bowling championships. The most recent additions to the Bisons' awesome collection of championship trophies was the title won at the International Association of College Unions Region 12 meet on the campus of Texas A&M University in College Station, Tex.

Led by a sizzling 196 average maintained by All-AIC bowler Brad Davis, the Bisons swept to a convincing victory in the nine game event with a pinfall of 8,459, nearly 200 pins ahead of runner-up Southwestern Louisiana with 8,265. Competing with primarily NCAA teams in the tournament, Harding whipped such name schools as the University of Arkansas, University of Houston, Texas Tech, Texas A&M, Arkansas State, Louisiana State, Texas Christian as well as the six other entries.

With 1,771 pins, Davis was the meet's individual all-events winner, just ahead of teammate Zearl Watson, the second place finisher with 1,738 pins for a 193 average. In addition to winning the individual title, Davis' performance qualifies him for the ACU-I National Tournament which is scheduled for Oklahoma City April 3-5. Contributing to the winning effort also were Dennis Burt, Charles Howell, and Ricky Payne.

In Missouri, the Bisons came away with the unique distinction of not only winning the championship trophy but also walking away with the second place award as well.

Entering both an "A" and "B" unit, the team of Bryan Davis, Watson, Davis, Kevin Fisher, and Tim Baur piled up 5,544 pins to grab the top spot in the team standings. Demonstrating the tremendous depth that has made Harding bowling teams perennial champions, the "B" squad of Dennis Burt, Rick Work, Steve Kloske, Payne, and Howell racked up a 5,414 total to finish right behind Harding's other entry, beating out other teams such as Missouri University, Southwest Missouri, Southwest Baptist, Arkansas State.

Brad Davis was again the Bisons' leader, hitting a 197 average that was good enough for second place in the individual standings in the team event. Kevin Fisher was third in the competition with a pinfall of 1,164 in the six game event, with Zearl Watson placing sixth, 1,143; Charles Howell, eighth, 1,131; and Ricky Payne, tenth, 1,119, from among the 60 bowlers entered.

After such an auspicious beginning, the Bisons' AIC championship looms as the overwhelming favorite to repeat as the AIC and NAIA District 17 champs.

The Bisons are afforded the enviable position of having two AIC singles champions on the same team. Zearl Watson was the 1974 individual champ while Brad Davis came on strong last season to win the 1975 crown. Rounding out the veteran performers are returning All-AIC selections Kevin Fisher and Bryan Davis.

First round AIC competition began Monday at home on the Bison lanes, where the second round action will also be held. After bowling the fourth week at the Park Plaza Lanes in Little Rock, the Bisons will be home again for the fourth and fifth weeks before finishing out the season at Park Plaza on March 19.

All-AIC bowler Brad Davis led the Bison Bowling team to a victory at the International Association of College Unions Region 12 last weekend.

Henderson strikes AIC hopes

Reddies drop Bisons

By Robb Bonner

Striking a blow to Harding's AIC title hopes, the Henderson State Reddies barely passed the Bisons 65-60 Monday night in Harding's Athletic-Physical Education Complex.

The Bisons are now 9-5 in conference action. Henderson, the defending champion, is leading the league with a 12-1 record, that lone loss being to Southern State.

Harding and Henderson struggled back and forth throughout the game with Henderson taking the lead late in the first half and subsequently holding it.

With Harding ahead 30-24 on a field goal by Butch Gardner with 2:06 left in the first half, the Reddies struck for eight quick points to take the lead. Henderson led by two at halftime, 32-30.

Playing before 3,700 fans, the Bisons fought back in the second half and pulled within one point several times during the 20-minute period. But each time, Henderson somehow came up with the key play to put the brakes on the Bison charge.

Harding challenged the Reddies inside early in the game and found the going rather physical. Gardner and James "Slim" Winston led the Bisons to a dominance of the rebounding, though, with 11 and ten respectively. Harding finished with 39 rebounds to 34 for Henderson.

One key factor in the loss was Harding's shooting from the field. The Bisons managed to hit only 24 of 61 field goal attempts for .393 percentage. Henderson shot 52 percent from the field, hitting on 31 of 60 attempts.

Gardner led the Bisons in scoring with 18 points followed by Winston with 14 and Gary Baker with 12.

Momentum played a key role in the game. Each time the Bisons had the momentum, Henderson would seem to get the key break whether it be on a walking call or a personal foul.
