With the close of Mike Cope's sermon and the first note of the school's bands, crowds of people filter out of their row and into the aisles. No, they're not responses of baptism and forgiveness, they're hungry, hurried, and confused. Hurried for lunch or dinner, hurried to get in the cafeteria line first, and confused about their priorities.

I say they. I mean us. I've escaped the last five minutes of school to get to the Steak Shop before the church rush. I've slipped out to make it for the start of the 7:00 slow- ing at the Rat Hole.

No, it doesn't say anywhere in the Bible that we can't leave church early. So, what's the big deal?

In my opinion, (and this is an editorial) I think if nothing else, it discourages those considering response to the invitation.

Remember, how it was? You had been tossing the thought around in your head for weeks. Each service got harder and your stomach got heavier. You knew you wanted to go forward and step into the aisle toward the front. All block tied to your ankle. None. Sure felt like it. You wanted to move it with one quick blurred motion and you were free.

Then again, the issue is a matter of respect. Put yourself in the shoes of a thorny crown was the last thing that we confuse them as priorities to worshipping. His sweaty brow. He kicked the bone and skin of His hands. The school of hard knocks.

But the old saying walked toward the front and meeting people going the other direction. Makes you want to turn and run. What if you hadn't stepped out? A person seriously considering it wouldn't dare meet the traffic head-on.

In this league you could tell us apart not only by the extra stretch on our holy-mesh jerseys but also by a scarlet mark on our helmets. The three-inch piece of red tape was plastered on the white helmets of those who had exceeded 100 pounds before the beginning of the season.

If you tipped the scales at more than 100 pounds you were disqualified from running with the football. League officials would have told the 30-pound club to be run with the ball we'd steamroll some tyke who couldn't hit the ground on a seesaw with a stick figure on the opposite end. We were playing the "Raiders" that hateful, dewy October morning. We were on top 30 something to nil and the scrub squad began pulling up their pants and socks and glancing to see if the girl we had a crush on was peering our way.

All of a sudden we had our chance. "GET IN THERE!" coach Campbell yelled, and we waddled in looking like a mixture of Keystone cops and an iceberg full of penguins. After picking the turf off our helmet from the first play, I determined to get in the backfield and get a tackle. What happened next?

A few weeks ago I saw a couple of boys tossing the ol' pigskin and memories came rushing back from the blunder years.

Sixth grade city league football. Ten and 11-year-olds live for the sport. Somehow I only remember living for the Gatorade and twinkies after ball games.

In sixth grade, weight is important. I weighed about 200 pounds all my life. The only body dimension which has changed since sixth grade is the distance from my head to the ground. Of course in sixth grade football you'll find numerous members of the "candy bar of the month club.

I topped the scales at 100 pounds — the new cache. I was determined to get in the backfield and get a tackle. What happened next?
Just Do It by Donny Dillon

Picture a football team in the fourth quarter down by four points. There are two minutes showing on the clock. A field goal won't win it. Only a trip to the end zone will.

The team seems to rise to a new level as they march down the field. With no time left the last pass drops into the end zone and is — you guessed it, caught — touchdowns! The team that was down wins the last minute in an explosion of intensity and inspiration. They did it!

In Matthew 22:34–40, Jesus tells us the greatest commandment is to love God with all we have and love our neighbor as himself. This means we have to develop an intimate love for God and our fellowman. One of the major diseases afflicting the church today, if not the major problem, is the lack of a true, deep, inspiring love for God. In order to have this relationship with God we need to have a quality relationship with another person. Unless you spend quality time with that person. The same applies to connections between what we do and what happens to others.

I don't mean to draw any axiological conclusions on the coffee table, he began to imagine an entire city built beneath the cushions of his sofa for a lost bottlecap he was trying to retrieve. He began late one afternoon when he was looking for something among the mess of his papers. He found three bits of lint, pencils, loose change, a coin that was half the size of a nickel, coins wedged behind the cushions of his sofa for a lost bottlecap he was trying to retrieve. He returned to the lot to complete the last tower. It was much like the others, except that it was twice as high. He said:

"We have just opened the packages with the little baby peas in them, and they have spilled out and are floating everywhere over."

The tower crashed with a sharp ring which was just the right frequency to reach the satellite dishes at the Air Force base and garble a message from orbiting astronauts. The message should be as follows:

The message received went as follows:

"We have just opened the packages with the little baby peas in them, and they have spilled out and are floating to heaven, over."

Needless to say, the men of Mission Control were thoroughly baffled. Had they a philosopher on hand to decide the cryptic message of intense metaphysical import? NASA kept the message a secret until they released a report called "The Language of Heavenly Bodies" which detailed how supernatural beings may have attempted to contact Earth by scrambling a message with their own code.

Al Foster read this report and immediately believed it to be a miracle. What he was feeling was the reverberations of a thousand years of miscommunication and obscenity. Odd, yes?

The worse dirt I could dig up on Thornton was that he once held a political rally on a Wednesday night.

because, as a result of switching parties, he lost leadership in several important committees of the Democrat controlled House of Representatives. All of that means that Robinson is most likely going to run for Governor of Arkansas.

The good thing about Thornton is that he has wide appeal to both parties. He supports a strong defense because he was in the Korean Conflict and knows the horrors of war and that only a strong defense can prevent war. He supports less regulation by government, and most importantly, he wants to return to the values that make our nation great.

The struggle will be great, but can be won, Thornton said. "And when we succeed when we can say that central Arkansas is drug free, that its schools are good, that its churches are strong and that its hardworking people are well trained: My friends there will have a multitude of new jobs and opportunities for the people of the Second District."

Thornton told listeners that being a good legislator, tending the nation's laws, is not good enough. "I have grown concerned...that we have not carefully tended to the values that form the foundation of our civilization and of this free nation that was established on those values," he said.

Housecall by Dr. Mike Justus

Curlfaw already? The bell signaled an end to their first but surprisingly near perfect date. Without warning from the third floor, her roommate yelled, "Hey, girl, did you tell him you have mono?" His plan for a lingering kiss was quickly replaced with a polite handshake.

Infectious mononucleosis is a disease of the lymph organs produced by the Epstein-Barr virus. A frequent mode of transmission in youth while involves the intimate exchange of saliva resulting in the transmission. Infection often occurs by the second week.

Examination of a patient's blood smear characteristically shows an increase in lymphocytes with an abnormal appearance. More specific tests are available to help confirm the diagnosis, but approximately 10 percent of adults with infectious mono will produce negative results on repeated testing.

Supporting therapy is the mainstay of treatment. Antibiotics are of no benefit unless a secondary bacterial infection develops. Adequate hydration, frequent salt water gargles and mild analgesics can minimize the sore throat discomfort. Strict bedrest is not required, but activity should be reduced to avoid accentuating fatigue.

Athletes can usually resume limited training by the third week and can return to contact sports by the fourth week if no spleen enlargement persists (THE PHYSICIAN AND SPORTS MEDICINE, Dec., 1989).
The fall semester at Harding University is still fresh and summer plans are not a major concern for students. However, Campaign Northwest would like you to consider mission work this coming summer.

Campaigns Northwest is a summer ministry internship program for college students. Every summer, several students from Harding University and Freed-Hardeman College live with members of churches in the northwest.

"Our basic emphasis," says Mark McLean, director of Campaigns Northwest, "is to work with the church and not create a separate program."

Campaigns Northwest begins around May 20 and continues through Aug. 1, approximately 16 weeks. A group of two to six students spend the summer with one congregation and help in the phases and activities of the church. Though students probably spend most of their time with the youth, they still have a wide range of activities from vacation Bible school to visiting the elderly.

The workers are asked to raise $250 to cover the cost of transportation and preparation camp. The churches provide food and housing. Usually, workers raise their money by asking for support through hometown congregations.

"The key to raising the money is how hard you work at it, and how early you start," says McLean. "Any money raised over the amount necessary is kept in a trust for your fall term at college."

Last year, 15 students went. This year's goal is 25. "You learn to work with the congregation and really get to know the people. It is probably the closest thing to how it is to the ministry when you graduate," said Lindsey Freeman, a worker from last year.

The areas in which the campaigns work are Washington state, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Oregon, and the northern parts of Utah, Nevada, Colorado, and California. The campaigns also serve the Canadian provinces of British Columbia and Alberta. The campaigns also serve the Canadian provinces of British Columbia and Alberta. New goal of 25 set for Northwest

Open House has positive vibes
by Kathleen Eyman

Football, food, and fun all added up to a successful Open House last weekend.

"Overall, we think we had a great success," said Don Starke, assistant director of admissions. "We had a lot of good comments."

Over 350 people registered with admissions while approximately 700 people signed up with alumni affairs. The two offices combined their annual Parents' Weekend and High School Day to form Open House '89 for the first time.

Starke added, "We had more people than expected, but everything went off without a hitch."

Parents were equally pleased with Open House.

"I have loved what I've seen, especially the ball game," said Mrs. Sherilyn Coker, mother of transfer student, Joey Coker. "There's so much enthusiasm!"

Mr. and Mrs. David Varbrugh from Fort Worth, Texas, agreed, "We like the smiles everybody gives you. Everyone's so friendly."

The Varbrughes said their daughter, Lori, a senior at Haltom High School, also enjoyed Open House. "It really helped her decision (to come to Harding). She was swayed by the closeness of the people here."

Campaigns travel abroad
by Joe Cranford

Campaigns have been going to many places, here in the states and in several foreign lands. It began 23 years ago when the College Church and Harding embarked on "Project Germany," which was the first international mission involving Harding students and staff.

Dr. Don Shackelford has served as director of International Campaigns for 10 years. He coordinates the groups that go to Australia and Europe. "We have four groups that go to Australia, led by Dwight and Barb Smith, and one each to England, Scotland, and Italy." The work includes publicizing the congregation through correspondence courses, visiting the community as well as members for encouragement, office work and errands, and carrying out assignments given by the leaders of the congregation. Each congregation plans out the work and meeting times for the campaign.

so the workers arrive with an agenda waiting for them.

In addition to International Campaigns is African Missions, which is coordinated by Monty Cox in Kenya. Twenty-two students divided up in three groups, and for six weeks they worked in the city and even went out into the bush, and were able to help bring 250 people to Christ. Several other foreign campaigns supported by the College Church and Harding reached Switzerland, Venezuela, Germany, and Bolivia this summer.

International Campaigns prepares the students in meetings every Wednesday night throughout the school year by discussing the places they are going to and the people they will work with, Dr. Shackelford acknowledges that "many of them feel they were not as prepared biblically to answer questions, but I think all of us feel a little bit that way when we are encountered with new situations."
Tri-Delta Epsilon enters campus life

by Joe Crawford

Tri Delta Epsilon is the newest women's club at Harding. Organization of the club began last spring, and on Sunday, Aug. 27, seven members and two sponsors signed the club's charter.

"We're all fired up and ready to go!" says president Kim Ward. "So far we've planned service projects, our hayride, and pledge week, and we have already started to work on other events for the future.

The feedback from our first two mixers has been very positive, and we are looking forward to a great pledge week."

Currently, there are nine members, including president Kim Ward, vice president Debbie Berberian, secretary Cherie Poynot, treasurer Teresa Morrow, Delany Brown, Anne Rau, Laura Sexy, Celeste Selby, and Trina Shaw. Barbara Cole, Roleta Colle, Helen Floyd, and Cindy Hunter are the club's sponsors, and Robert Patton, Dave Gregory, and Joe Cranford are the club's beaux. "I am amazed at the energy and enthusiasm these girls have!" says beau Dave. "They are a very close-knit bunch and are excited about the possibilities in being part of a brand-new club, and they're just packed with potential."

Tri Delta's constitution describes the specifics of the club: "Our emblem, which consists of three triangles within a golden circle, symbolizes three flowing rivers (delta) of unity, sisterhood, and love joining together surrounded by eternal friendship."

The club colors are the prime colors: "Blue, which represents her wisdom and honor, and red and yellow, which symbolize her spirit and warmth."

The club motto is "Do not judge one another; accept everyone into your heart as God has accepted you."

With these attitudes and high spirits, Tri Delta promises to be very active and involved with Harding's campus life.

Flagburning remains 'hot' issue

As Congress debated a bill to make flag-burning illegal, a University of Penn-sylvania professor burned a flag in her classroom and a marching band formed the image of a flag and then "burned" itself up to protest the bill in separate incidents.

Both events instantly drew vehement objections from critics.

At Penn, associate professor Carolyn Marvin led her freedom of expression class out to a courtyard and lit an American flag on fire Sept. 13.

"I did it in order to give my class an opportunity to think very seriously, and to have a debate about certain aspects of the system of freedom of expression," Marvin said.

"I was infuriated," said student Bill Glazer. "I got up and tried to take the flag away from her because I thought what she was doing was unconscionable. Nothing is sacred in America except freedom of conscience."

Columbia University's athletic department received a bomb threat and formal complaints from the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the wake of the school's marching band's show at halftime of the Harvard-Columbia football game Sept. 16.

In a show saluting the U.S. Constitution, the band played "Light My Fire" as it formed itself into the image of a burning American flag. Such images "remain illegal despite the efforts of many conservative groups in this country," said band manager Adam Grasis.

The U.S. Supreme Court in June overturned the conviction of a Texas man who had been jailed for burning a flag at a political rally, ruling the provocation was a form of free expression protected by the Constitution.

The decision sparked outrage among many people who saw flag burning as a direct attack on American institutions.

In response, the U.S. House of Representatives passed a bill specifically outlawing flag burning Sept. 12. The bill now awaits Senate approval.

Marvin said the range of reactions to the flag-burning in her classroom reflected the range of reactions to the Supreme Court ruling nationwide.

Student Amy Eggger, for one, said Marvin's show was "very effective" in getting students to think about freedom of speech issues.

Thornton run for Congress

by Angela Haley

Ray Thornton announced his candidacy for the United States Congress Tuesday from his homeplace in Conway, Ark.

Thornton, the former University of Arkansas president and Fourth District Congress-man, said he wanted to return to Washington "because I think I can make a difference."

Thornton is the brother of Betty Urexy, in-structor of English at Harding.

His tenure as head of Arkansas State University and the University of Arkansas system put him in contact with the worries and confusion of young people, but those problems "are only a reflection of the unease, the fear, the frustration that we all feel," Thornton said.

He pointed out that problems have changed since he was in college. When he left college, he said, a survey revealed that the most important characteristic of problems was (1) how one got a new career in class; (2) talking without permission, and (3) running in the hall.

Those problems could be met with "patience, discipline and respect," he said.

But "today the problems facing children are grave and life-threatening - drug-abuse, alcohol abuse, teen-aged pregnancies, suicide and violence."

These problems endanger not only young people, "they are a threat to the security of all of us," Thornton said.

Solving the problems will require "the forging of a new partnership - of families, schools, churches and communities - to make our country safe for our children and secure and free for all of us."

The struggle will be great, but can be won, Thornton said. "And when we succeed - when we can say that Central Arkansas is drug free, that its schools are good, that its churches are strong and that its hard-working people are well trained - my friends, there will be landfall of new jobs and opportunities for the people of the Second District."

Placement Office provides services; student interviews and employment

by Joe Larsen

For most students, job hunting can be a frustrating experience: where and how to look are secrets unknown to most college graduates. Harding's Placement Office provides these services to help the process along and avoid pitfalls.

Looking through want ads, contacting and arranging interviews and travelling to the area for the interview, for a job you may not get, can be terribly disheartening. But the Placement Office by contacting potential employers and bringing them directly to campus to interview prospective employees, has eliminated most of the hassle associated with looking for a job. "A lot of companies that come in are very prestigious," according to Darward McGaha, the director of the Placement Office. This was quite obvious after looking over the companies, past and future, that have and will be represented on campus. Arthur Andersen, Electric Data Systems, and Ernst & Young, are two of which are the Big 8 accounting firms, to name just a few.

Besides interviews, the Placement Office offers many other services: that the student may find useful in finding employment upon graduation. Finding a job will not only take considerable effort and dedication on the part of the graduate but the Placement Office is able to make your efforts substantially more successful.

Former secretary of defense Carl Carlucci spoke last night in the Benson Auditorium as part of Harding's American Studies program. Carlucci has served as Ambassador to Portugal, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, deputy Secretary of Defense, and director of the Office of Management and Budget.

He currently serves on the board of directors of Qualer Oats, Ashland, Westinghouse, Empire State Bank, Sun Resorts, and Rand. Carlucci was also Chairman of Sears World Trade, Inc., and was the company's president and Chief Executive officer before being appointed Secretary of Defense by former President Ronald Reagan.

Among the many guests attending the lecture, were dignitaries from Jacksonville Air Force Base, and two generals from the Arkansas National Guard.

67 inducted by Alpha Chi

by Carylee Parker

Sixty-seven Harding students were inducted into Alpha Chi National College Honor Scholarship Society on Sunday, Oct. 8. Official sponsor Dr. Don England and faculty advisor Dr. Dennis Organ and Dr. Larry Long led the ceremony for the ArkansasEta chapter.

To qualify for national membership in Alpha Chi, students must rank in the highest ten percent of the freshman and junior classes. The Arkansas Eta chapter also requires a minimum grade point average of 3.55 on 4.0 credit hours for seniors and 5.75 on 80 credit hours for juniors.

"It was such an honor to qualify for membership," inductee Leah Crane said. "Alpha Chi is well-known throughout the nation, and it looks great on a resume, too."

Installation of new Arkansas Eta chapter officers followed the induction ceremony. Officers for the 1989-1990 school year are: Robert Mayne, President; Craig Johnson, Vice President; Jan Keeler, Secretary; Carol Coffey, Treasurer; and Jeff Holland, Student Representative.
Johnny Cat explodes onto campus

by Angela Haley

Johnny Cat, the student-made band, will be performing at the Rialto Theatre, Oct. 17, with the assistance of sound man Paul Greenhagen. Paul's statement is simple: "There will be rock-n-roll mayhem." The group disperesd after practice. Pistole was the only one remaining. On his way out, he leaned over, smiled (of course) and whispered. "My favorite part of the group is Johnny Cat."

Johnny Cat was the place to be last Saturday evening at the Student Association sponsored Saturday Night Alive party featuring live music by Johnny Cat. Students, along with several parents who were attending Parent's Weekend, gathered in the student center after last week's football victory to enjoy both the food and entertainment.

A large variety and supply of food and beverages provided by the Student Association and Alumni Office were prepared by ARA to accommodate the evening.

The student made band, Johnny Cat, made up of lead singer Brian Pistole, guitarists Mark Beshirs and Randy Williams, bass guitarist Todd White, and drummer Josh Touchton, reeled off song after song by artists such as REM, U2, and Jimi Hendrix.

The band did an energetic performance including an original piece written by Williams. "I think the band was unreal," claimed Becky Shows, a senior accounting major. "I'm really glad the school is beginning to provide entertainment that is appealing to the students."

"I was a little worried when they first started," claimed Sonja Nelson, a senior psychology major, "but I had seen them before and I had faith in them. I think they did great, especially Mark Beshirs. He makes me scream when he's on stage."

When Williams was asked to comment on his feelings of the performance he nodded his head casually and said, "It was pretty high." Williams added, "It was a lot of fun. It was a good chance for some Harding students to blow off some steam in a good environment."

All in all Saturday Night Alive proved a great success for everyone involved. Johnny Cat will perform next on Oct. 17 at the Rialto Theatre.

Stereo thieves do high volume

by Robin Jackson

Harding security has recently been notified of several instances involving cars being burglarized. Unfortunately, there’s not much more that security can do to avoid such crimes. While some students have paid the price, others can take this as a warning.

"The thief did a gentleman's job"

Less than a month ago, Michael Thomas left his truck parked by the new gym. Even though his doors were locked, someone managed to break in to his car and steal his stereo. Michael said the thief did a “gentleman’s job,” and there was no extensive damage.

Doug Horton had his car broken into the same week as Michael’s. In fact, his car was also parked by the new gym, and his doors were locked. The thief was not after Doug’s stereo but rather his speakers. Again there was no damage done to the car.

Harding security said they have no idea who the thief or thieves may be. When such instances are reported, they are turned over to the Searcy police department. If any of the stolen articles turn up, they will, of course, be returned to their owners. For this reason, it is a good idea to report any instances such as these to security. In the meantime, it would be wise for students who have cars on campus to take necessary precautions.

Volleyball fires up
by April Castrell
Bison sports writer

We’ve all heard the cheer “Let’s get fired up!” Let me tell you about a team that is indeed fired up — the Lady Bison volleyball team.

Last year the team finished the season with a 22-2 overall record and ended up fifth in conference play with a 9-9 record. This year is a different story. With seven matches, not including tournament play, left in the regular season the Lady Bisons boast a record of 9-9 and 7-1 in the conference.

So, what has brought about this change in a team that held an even record last year to a winning record this year? Coach Karyi Bailey feels it’s the team’s unity. “Our team unity has pulled us through several matches that could have gone the other way,” Bailey stated. The players believe it too, Stephanie Dempsey, a junior on the team, said, “We are a totally different team from the past two years. We all pull together as a team now.”

And teamwork seems to be doing the job. This year the team seems to have one burning desire, to win the SIC. Dempsey added, “We’d love to go to Hawaii for the nationals, but for now we’re focusing on the conference.”

Another factor the team feels has added to their success is the crowd. Dempsey said, “The crowds have increased so much, and they don’t realize how much that helps. It’s great and we are real happy about it.” With the toughest part of their schedule coming up, the team needs all the support it can get.

Perhaps the biggest game of their season lies ahead when they face nationally ranked Southern Arkansas University, who one undefeated in conference play and will be the team to beat. In their first meeting with Southern Arkansas, the Lady Bisons lost their hardest loss of the year, losing the game in five matches. They will play SAU at home on Oct. 27, and it promises to be an exciting game.

Around the Horn
I was sitting in the on-deck circle, swinging the way I’d watched George Brett do a thousand times. I couldn’t wait to get to the mound where the big fireballer, Matt McGee, was blowing 42, maybe even 43 miles per hour fastballs past the top of our order. “Man, that Matt’s got an arm!” I remember thinking.

Ah, the memories! Little League. A child’s first taste of the competitive world of sports, where winning is everything and losing is well, losing. But even better than the spirit of competition are the memories, the stories that stay with us even now (like this one).

Mom, why did it have to rain today?

Bisons ‘wreck’ Arkansas Tech with 17-11 victory
by John Bossong
Bison sports writer

The Harding University football team used its defense again to pick up their first conference win by beating the Arkansas Tech University Wonder Boys 17-11 last Saturday night at Harding University’s Alumni Field.

The Bisons defense used five interceptions and a goal line stand to fight off Arkansas Tech and claim the victory.

Harding led 11-6 at halftime and seemed to have the game under control matching 60 yard drive to score. Darrell Higgins returned the opening kickoff to the 40 yard line. Mike Alexander then caught a 23 yard pass from quarterback Tad Niblett to set up Chris Citty gave the Bisons the lead for good.

Another key for the Bisons was five interceptions in the game. Lance Rodgers had two interceptions and knocked down a pass in the end zone when Tech was threatening to score late in the fourth quarter.

Pat Gill, once again dominated and frustrated Tech. Gill combined for 21 tackles on the night.

Offensively for the Bisons, Hill rushed for 81 yards and scored one touchdown. Alexander caught three passes, Citty had two receptions, one being the go ahead touchdown in the fourth quarter. HandsBowen also hauled in two receptions on the night.

"The schedule doesn’t get any easier from here," stated head coach Larry Richmond. "Our last five games remaining are all with teams that have been in the top 20 teams in the nation in the NAIA.

This was the first conference game for the Bisons and Richmond felt it was a good win for the program. "It was an exciting game and the fan support was great," said Richmond.

The Bisons are idle this week but play 14th ranked Henderson State Oct. 22 at Henderson State University.

Coach Richmond feels that his team needs to keep playing good defense, and if they don’t commit any turnovers that they should come out on the winning side against Henderson.

Potluck tourney
by Rick Butler
Bison sports writer

It’s coming down to the wire in the Potluck tourney, so let’s get right to the action!

In the loser’s bracket, Knights dumped Theta Tau 8-7 behind Andy Reda’s four hits and Dennis Mitchell’s home run. Scott Organ led Theta Tau with two hits.

In a thriller Wednesday night, Hill Ashmore singled in the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the seventh as Chi Sigs eliminated Titans 15-14.

TNT jumped out to a commanding lead over Kappa Tau in the winner’s bracket finals. Go Blue! led 8-7 when Derrick “T-Train” Martin homered down the right field line. Though it failed to leave the park, it gave Kappa Tau the momentum that pulled them through to the finals.
Girl’s club football kicks off
by Jeff Moore
Bison sports writer

Girl’s club football is kicking right into place, according to women’s intramural director Barbara Barnes. Thanks to the beautiful weather, there have been only two rain-outs in the first tournament for girl’s club football, Barnes said.

Out of the two divisions, small club and large club, small club is the only title that has been decided. Due to lack of players, Chi Alpha Rho and OEGE teamed up to shut out Delta Gamma Rho in the women’s small club championship. They shut out Delta Gamma Rho with a score of 17 to 0.

Tri-Kappa reserved a seat in the large club championship after sliding by Jo Kai by a score of 14 to 13. However, the game was no bowl of cherries for Tri-Kappa player Katie Bell. With only minutes to go in the first quarter, Bell, reaching for a Kjie flag, was trampled by two players: “All I remember was getting up and seeing these green and yellow spots,” Bell said. Bell continued by saying that her knees were battered and scratched as well as her face. “But, I think I will survive.” Whoever said girls football was not a rough sport? Well, whoever it was, Katie Bell begs to differ.

The losers’ bracket in small club will now play for a shot at Tri-Kappa in the championship. Kojies is set to play Shantih, while Tri-Sigs will take on Kajie. Both are quarterfinal matchups. The winners of these will play each other for a spot in the large club championship game.
