The Bald Knob, Beebe and Riverview school districts welcomed Harding’s College Democrats last week as they campaigned for the upcoming election. "It’s the start of the election and the candidates, we’ve been asked to assist in a voter registration drive, and we came out to help,“ Harding President Dr. David Burks and Keith Cronk, Vice President of the National Campus Democrats, stated.

"We were asked by the Secretary of State’s office, the largest voter registration drive, to join in and get people out to vote," Burks stated.

Due to all of the changes that have been made, there are a lot of questions that were not of

Also in the debate, a question was asked regarding how they would handle the death penalty, Huckabee responded that he believed the death penalty should be used for a offender and that it should be done.  "I believe in the death penalty," Huckabee said. "It should be used for a violent offense and it should be used in a fair and equal manner."

The candidates were also asked about their stance on gun control, and Romney responded that he believed in the right to bear arms.  "I believe that the right to bear arms is a fundamental right," Romney said. "It is a constitutional right and it should be protected."

In the end, the candidates were successful in getting their message out and it is likely that they will see an increase in voter registration and participation in the upcoming election.

"The National Campus Democrats is a non-profit organization that works to increase voter registration and political engagement among college students," Burks stated.

"We believe that every young person has the right to vote and we are working to ensure that they have the opportunity," Burks continued.

In addition to the voter registration drive, the National Campus Democrats also organized a debate amongst the candidates.  "We believe that it is important for the candidates to have a chance to speak about their views and to listen to the concerns of the voters," Burks stated. "This debate is an important opportunity for the candidates to answer questions and to hear from the voters.

Republican Debate Reveals Growing Importance Of Online Video

The CNN/YouTube Republican debate attracted a large audience, with millions of viewers watching the candidates on YouTube.  "It was an impressive turnout," said CNN’s senior political editor, Paul Begala. "Viewers were able to watch the debate in their own time and in their own way, which is exactly what this medium is about.

The debate was also notable for its use of online video, with many candidates appearing on the internet to answer questions and to promote their campaigns.  "The internet is a powerful tool for political engagement," said Democratic Senator John Kerry. "We need to use it to reach out to young people and to involve them in the political process.

In the end, the debate was a success, with many viewers expressing their support for the candidates and for the use of online video in politics.  "This was a great debate," said Republican Senator John McCain. "We need to continue using this medium to engage young people and to involve them in the political process.

Non-Conference Continues

The Harding Bison basketball team has been busy this season, with several non-conference games scheduled.  "We are excited to be playing these games and to be able to test our skills against some of the best teams in the country," said head coach Blake Harris.

In the next few weeks, the Bison will travel to some of the top programs in the nation, with games against Kansas State, Texas A&M, and Rice.  "These are some of the toughest teams we will face this season," said Harris. "We are looking forward to the challenge of these games and to seeing how our players will respond.

In addition to these games, the Bison will also host a few games at home, including a match-up against Arkansas State.  "We are excited to be playing these games at home, and to be able to show our support for the Bison," said Harris.

Overall, the Harding Bison basketball team is off to a great start this season, and they are looking forward to the remainder of the year and to the opportunity to compete at a high level.

Biblical Wall Found In Jerusalem

After many years of Helena's obsession, portions of the wall believed to be described in the biblical book of Nehemiah have been found in Jerusalem's ancient City of David.

This discovery is the result of Helena's labors, stemming from an attempt to prevent a lower floor from being built, according to Elie Mazar, head of the Institute of Archaeology at the Hebrew University, who heads the team of researchers responsible for the findings. The team's efforts have been supported by the Rockefeller Foundation.

"Amidst the ruins," Mazar said, "we found that this third defaced the arguments of many scholars, who deemed that the series were not harmful. Donna Freitas, who side with the other side of the controversy, others believe that the series are not doing any harm. Donna Freitas, who heads the tower and nearby research and development institute, agrees that the tower and nearby research and development institute should be described in the biblical book of Nehemiah have been found in Jerusalem."

Spreading Christmas Cheer

Christmas Traditions And Their Origins

- Christmas stockings — According to legend, a kindly robber gave gifts to the orphan children of Santa Claus. Each child was given a stocking to put on their bed, and Santa would fill it with gifts. This tradition has been carried on by families all over the world. The stockings are usually hung on the fireplace mantel or on the door.

- Mistletoe — The mistletoe is a native plant of the British Isles. It is grown in the fall and used as a symbol of love and friendship. It is also used as a symbol of good luck and prosperity. The mistletoe is hung on the door or fireplace mantel on Christmas Eve.

- Christmas trees — The tradition of decorating Christmas trees with ornaments dates back to the 16th century. The first Christmas tree was decorated with candles and fruit. Today, Christmas trees are decorated with lights, ornaments, and garlands. They are usually placed in the living room or hallway.

- Christmas lights — The tradition of using lights to decorate homes dates back to the 1800s. The first electric Christmas lights were invented in 1880. Today, Christmas lights are used to decorate homes, trees, and buildings. They are also used as a symbol of hope and peace.

- Christmas carols — The tradition of singing Christmas carols dates back to the 14th century. The first Christmas carols were sung by children in the streets. Today, Christmas carols are sung in churches and homes. They are also used as a symbol of the true meaning of Christmas.

- Christmas gifts — The tradition of giving Christmas gifts dates back to the 19th century. The first Christmas gifts were given by parents to their children. Today, Christmas gifts are given by family members and friends. They are usually given on Christmas Day or on the day before.

- Christmas cookies — The tradition of baking Christmas cookies dates back to the 18th century. The first Christmas cookies were cakes and cookies. Today, Christmas cookies are baked by families and friends. They are usually given as gifts or eaten on Christmas Day.

- Christmas music — The tradition of playing Christmas music dates back to the 19th century. The first Christmas music was written by John Philip Sousa. Today, Christmas music is played on radio and television. It is also used as a symbol of the true meaning of Christmas.

- Christmas baskets — The tradition of giving Christmas baskets dates back to the 17th century. The first Christmas baskets were filled with fruit, nuts, and chocolate. Today, Christmas baskets are filled with gifts and treats. They are usually given as gifts or exchanged on Christmas Day.

Christmas Trees
Go 'Green'

BY SAMANTHA HOLCOMBE

In an effort to woo the eco-conscious crowd, some Christmas tree farms have joined the green movement and are offering "organic" trees. These trees are grown without using harmful pesticides or fertilizers, and they are harvested in a sustainable way.

Many of these farms also offer "living" trees, which are grown in a nursery setting and can be planted after the holiday season. These trees are a great option for those who want the beauty of a real tree without the environmental impact.

One company, "The Organic Christmas Tree Company," has seen a 50% increase in sales of organic trees over the past five years. "We believe that people are becoming more aware of the impact that their holiday purchases have on the environment," said company owner Sarah Johnson. "We're proud to offer an eco-friendly alternative to traditional trees."

Christmas: Movies and Games

As the holiday season approaches, many people are looking forward to classic movies and holiday-themed games. From "White Christmas" to "A Christmas Carol," there are plenty of options to choose from.

"We love watching Christmas movies as a family," said Rachel, a mother of three. "It's a great way to get into the holiday spirit and spend time together."

One popular holiday game is "Tic Tac Toe" for the Christmas Tree. Players take turns placing tiles on a 3x3 grid, trying to get three in a row. It's a fun and simple game that can be enjoyed by people of all ages.

Festiveina's Christmas Tree Farm

Festiveina's Christmas Tree Farm offers a wide variety of organic and living trees. Visitors can choose from a range of sizes and styles, and the staff is happy to help with any questions or concerns.

"We're committed to providing our customers with high-quality, sustainable trees," said Festiveina's owner, David. "We want people to know that they can enjoy the beauty of a real tree without worrying about the impact on the environment."

Shane Calhoun Visits Seaco to Share His Story And The Simple Way Ministry

For the first time, you have been with a child on the day he learns to walk — Dr. Seuss

THERE was the first time I came to Seaco, a small and beautiful village on Maryland's Eastern Shore, to share my story and my message of simple faith as a member of the Simple Way Ministry. It was a wonderful experience, and I will never forget it. Seaco was a place of beauty and serenity, where the sea and the sky met in a peaceful harmony. It was a place where the simple things in life could be appreciated, and where the power of faith could be felt in a powerful way.

And I was happy to be there, to share my story and my message of simple faith as a member of the Simple Way Ministry. It was a wonderful experience, and I will never forget it. I firmly believe that every person has a story to tell, and that every story has the power to change lives. Seaco was no exception, and I was thrilled to be there to share my story and my message of simple faith as a member of the Simple Way Ministry. wasn't looking for it...but when I found it, I took it. It changed my life. Todd Leland was just a hobby, but we ended up making fishing lures. No one else could do it. He was the only one to catch trout in one day," Smith said.

But to Smith, it was more than that. It was a way to help others, especially children. "I decided I was really going to sell the Trout Magnet in stores. Because of the success of the trip, the national manager of Wal-Mart phoned me. I had never seen an alteration of a lure that worked so perfectly," Smith said.

"The business has also given me a chance to help others. A person in Florida called, requesting that the mold be shipped to him to see if he could make a wet lure for trout. They were given $50,000 of our money. They couldn't make a machine for trout. I wanted to help them," Smith said.

"Just think, if they can't make a wet lure for trout, they could make one for other species. The business has changed my life. Todd Leland was just a hobby, but we ended up making fishing lures. No one else could do it. He was the only one to catch trout in one day," Smith said.
Garrison Helps Spark Lady Bisons Basketball

By BRANDON WIGNOTT

There is a Daily Proverb that says, "Though your enemy may seem strong on the outside, you can make him crumble by making him understand that he is not as strong as he appears to be." This is the心态 of the Lady Bisons as they defeat the Oral Roberts Lady Golden Eagles, 98-82, in the Cullison Center in the Gold Dome Athletic Complex.

The Bison team came out dominating the first half with a 51-37 lead on the Golden Eagles, who have been a tough team to beat. The Lady Bisons were able to make a few key shots and get a few steals, leading to a 10-point halftime lead.

In the second half, Oral Roberts tried to come back, but the Lady Bisons were able to hold on and increase their lead. Garrison led the team in scoring with 22 points, followed by her teammate and friend, Brittany Howard, who scored 18 points.

"We came out strong in the first half and were able to maintain our lead throughout the game," said Garrison. "We knew we had to be strong on defense and we were able to do that tonight.

Howard Brings Bronx-Inspired Toughness

By BRANDON WIGNOTT

Three hours and one minute. That is how long Travis Howard, a senior from Bronx, N.Y., played basketball for the Bison men's basketball team against Oral Roberts on Saturday.

"I was surprised to see how much better we played," said Howard. "I thought we played a really good game, and I think we were much improved over our last game.

Howard led the Bison team in scoring with 22 points, followed by Garrison, who scored 18 points. The Bison team also had 11 steals and 21 rebounds.

"I was really happy with how we played," said Bison head coach Kirby. "I think we played a really good game, and I think we were much improved over our last game.

Howard and his teammates are planning on playing in the NAIA Tournament next month, and they are looking forward to the challenge.

I published this article on Harding baseball games, which is not a typical topic for me. But I was doing it for a good reason. I was working on a story about the team and I wanted to show respect for them.

I thought about the team and the players, and I decided to write about them. I thought it would be a good way to show respect for them.

I was really happy with how we played," said Howard. "I think we played a really good game, and I think we were much improved over our last game.
