Dear Dorothy:

It was a real pleasure this week to get to visit with Woodie on the Pepperdine campus. I only got to be there one day, Wednesday, but I had an opportunity to talk to Woodie for about thirty minutes.

I was pleased to see his involvement in his studies. It is apparent that he is serious about what he is doing and his life is being enriched by his work at Pepperdine. I do hope that he will be able to finish on time, as it now appears he will, and that he will find even more satisfactory and meaningful ways to serve in the kingdom of God in the days ahead.

I treasure both of you deeply. I was distressed that the two of you had to be separated during this time. I know that Woodie would find great strength by having you at his side. He expressed this during our conversation. I can also understand the many demands made on all of us during these times. I do hope and pray that the two of you will not have to be apart for long. I think that both of your lives will be enriched by each other, even as they have been in the past.

I wanted you to know that I was thinking about you and praying for you as I have many times before. I know that God can give you the strength to bear the burdens that are yours alone while Woodie is in Los Angeles studying. I send you my personal love, respect and deepest regards.

Your brother,

John Allen Chalk
