The Beauty of Diversity

Our story begins with a group of students at a university in the south. They are0 beginning to see a shift in the way that they approach life and faith. A few of them have been involved in clubs and organizations that promote diversity and inclusion, while others have been more reserved in their approach. Despite these differences, they all have one thing in common: a love for learning and a desire to grow in their faith.

However, there is a rising trend that I see in churches and Bible stores. The number of Christian best-sellers is rising steadily, and it seems that they are beginning to replace reading the Bible with commentaries and devotionals. I think that this is a negative trend, and I believe that we need to be cautious about indulging in these types of books.

However, there is a growing group of people who are finding new ways to incorporate faith into their everyday lives. They are looking for ways to grow in their faith without getting caught up in the complexities of church and denominational politics.

Wine and Otherwise
Adapting to Book Adaptation

I'll admit it, the world, I would confess, a little bit doozy that people were allowed to comment on a book, which I had not read. I admit that this inhibits free speech and that just to this point in the story is John Markoven.

As teenagers with our new millennium, we witnessed the rise of Young Adult (YA) books. In the industry, this book was written, I have to admit, this inhibits free speech and that just to this point in the story is John Markoven.

"Hunger Games" is one of the most popular book adaptations, and in this column, I will dive into the world of YA book adaptations and their impact on readers and society.

"Hunger Games" by Suzanne Collins is a dystopian novel set in a future where the wealthy elite live in luxury while the poor suffer in the Capitol. The story follows Katniss Everdeen, a 16-year-old girl from the lower class, who volunteers to take her sister's place in the annual Hunger Games, a gladiatorial contest where 12 boys and 12 girls from each of the 12 districts are forced to fight to the death.

The book was adapted into a film in 2012, and the movie was a huge success, grossing over $800 million worldwide. The film was directed by Francis Lawrence and starring Jennifer Lawrence as Katniss. The film's success led to two sequels, "Catching Fire" and "Mockingjay, Part 1".

However, not all book adaptations are successful. Some books are poorly adapted, and some characters are not portrayed as well on film as they are in the books. For example, "The Hunger Games: Mockingjay, Part 2" was widely criticized for its lackluster performance and pacing.

In conclusion, the success of YA book adaptations is dependent on the film's ability to capture the essence of the book and bring it to life on the screen. While some adaptations are successful, others fall short, leaving fans disappointed. It is up to filmmakers and producers to choose wisely when adapting a beloved book to the screen.

Track and field offers unique opportunity to Learn more about running

by MARSHALL HUGHES

The Bisons track team is running in a full speed with the weather warming up and the days getting longer. Both the men and women are working hard to improve their time. To start things off, the Bisons track team came away with several victories at the Rhodes Invitational in Memphis, Tenn., on March 24. Harding senior Wajih Kaykou took the 1,500-meter race with ease, finishing at 4:34.83. This win was the first of Division I track. As a senior, Kaykou placed 15th in the 3,000-meter race.

"Our team has worked hard all year," head coach Steve Gayden said.

Senior Jesse Callow took third in the 800-meter race, just behind Gayden's brother, Junior Tucker Bankston. On Saturday with wins against Marquette University, 11-3; and Illinois State University, 11-4. Valparaiso University, 11-3; The University of St. Louis University, 12-10; and Mount Allison University, 12-11. Ultimate Division III standings.

"It is really important that we continue to work hard and improve as much as possible." - Jared Knappe, sophomore

HU Apocalypse rumbles on

The team faced and defeated several more intense teams. Apocalypse began the tourney in Fusion with wins against Margarita University, 31-6; Los Angeles University, 26-11; and Gonzaga University, 15-3; the University of Washington. On Sunday, the team defeated Purdue in the 16-10; Washington University, 20-7; and St. Olaf College in the 17-5; 15-11; 17-10.

"We just needed to win to have good spring season and the offense and defense are better," junior defensive player Evan Boeckenstein said. "There's a lot of depth to the weight room, so it's time to go on the defense, but we still have work to do on the offense."

In these circumstances, players who do not get to play usually get more experience with the ball to prepare them for the fall. "You're on offense this fall, it's good to get the experience," senior defensive player Tim Austin said. "I was so nervous last year but this year we've got good senior leaders on the offensive line." When the Bisons finish their last spring game on Monday, they will take one last week to rest and plan for the fall season. The team prepares to play in the new Conference, and some teams that will also go to the NCAA this fall. As a senior defensive end Josh Aldridge, they played some teams from their previous conference, the Southland Conference, and some teams that will also go to the NCAA this fall.

Bison baseball bouncing back

BY PAYTON BURST

opinion editor

The Harding Bison softball team looked to improve upon their home game victory in the first of two games with Arkansas Tech, 5-4, in Arkadelphia, Ark., to face the Ouachita Baptist Tigers, 7-0, in the second game.

The Bison are looking to bounce back from a tough loss on Tuesday at home in a doubleheader versus West, the best team in the conference. The Tigers have 11 wins and 5 losses. Tough performances by sophomore Samantha Waddell and junior Pole-Vaulter Emily Lott, who defeated the Tigers in the season opener.

The softball team will need to step back and match a family. "Our team is looking forward to it," said coach Boll. "We are excited to see where this team is going and our senior Casey." The season opener will be played today, giving off a sense of enthusiasm.

Five seasons ago in its infancy, the softball program looked to add a positive note to the season. The team faced a challenging schedule, but was confident in its abilities. "It has been a very difficult season," Boll said. "We are working hard to find our footing and play our best game." The Bison will face off against the Tigers in a doubleheader, using the opener 9-4 and game 5-3. Nursing rodeo series on a positive note for defeating the Reddix 3-1 in a tough pitching battle. Softenche on Bisons Smith picked up his fifth save of the week at Jerry Moore Field. The base hits the Bisons their 14th loss of the season. Senior Chase Presley from a tough loss on Tuesday at home.

holding on to TNT, Zeta Rho and friends ended their show on jersey night by pointing to freshman Ty Osman's name on the back of their T-shirts. "We started learning the choreography and prepared with the rest of the show," said Amanda Giersch, sophomore.

Sophomore Samuel Gibbs said that the show was delayed when Assistant Professor of Communication and co-director of Spring Sing Ken Neill had contacted Spring Sing about changing the show's time.

"It was kind of a challenge for the director, "Giersch said. "We learned how the music work after spring break, then rushed into the choreography and prepared with the rest of the show."

Giersch, a member of the Trojan Singers, is preparing with her choir in addition to singing with the choir.

The concert choir's version of Spring Sing Act 1 finale in each year's show is during the Spring Sing finale. So far, "Slightly Askew," the show's finale music, has been performed in Spring Sing. For the ending of this year's show, the choir will perform "My Chemical Romance's "Trinity."

Once the costume盛世 arrived, once the crowds grew, their first meeting was behind them, and, with the opening of some show comes to an end, the Spring Sing audience was treated to a burst of pure rapture. After nearly a year of coordinating deadlines, choreographing a seven-minute show, scheduling practice times, and working with fellow chorus members and making sure every performer was wearing the right “Spring Sing” shirt. The final product can have a great night without warning about spoiled rehearsal, malfunctions, or anything else.

Now in its eighteenth year, Spring Sing has given thousands of students a chance to express themselves through song and dance. It’s a way for students to come together and have fun, to support their classmates, and to show off their talents. The event has grown in popularity over the years, and now attracts hundreds of attendants each spring.
