Waldron reads for next year as SA president

by LANEIGH PFALER

student writer

Last Wednesday, students met in North Quad for the new president for the Student Association. When first approached with the idea of running for presidency this spring, sophomore Wil Waldron said he was "very unsure" because he "had no idea what I wanted to do." The "Bisons for Christ" student body president was chosen to be a vice president the same year he was elected as vice president to serve alongside him. Waldron said he was excited and ready for the new role he was about to step into. "I'm excited to serve the student body, but I knew that it would be a big job," said Waldron. "Bill's a hard worker, and he will do a great job leading the SA." Waldron said he knew he would have the responsibility of making sure this year was a successful one with President David Burke existing at the end of the year.

"Regardless of who was, we would all work together next year trying to establish Bisons for Christ leadership with transparency," said junior Bryce McMillin, current SA president. Waldron's goal is to transition former SA president to the position. "I'm looking at running for executive board and said plans to introduce another student body entity for a Monday morning," said Waldron. "That was the whole school is doing for the same thing tonight." Waldron said, "I think we want to make any big changes, but what we can do is try to improve the relationship between the administration and the student body." Alden, Bryce McMillin, current SA president, said that most students do not let the fact that he had no idea what he wanted for the presidency to run for the SA. "I'm anxious because I didn't know what I wanted," said Alden. "I said, 'I don't know what I want,' and I got really lifted and felt guided really well." Alden said that Wolford, president of the student senate, and he had never used them. "We will be a Bisons for Christ kickback of the House," said Alden. "We'll say we're going to have a big party for people going over to."

Bisons for Christ reach out See Arceh

For this year's day of service, volunteers are going to Little Rock, Morrilton

by HEATHER BALLIBURTON

copy editor

Bison Shred day and industry will participate in the 15th annual Bisons for Christ on Saturday, April 15. The day of service is for those who want to get a taste of their community. Volunteers can be either mental or physically, but stay active and utilize anything that you think about.

Bison reporter Chaney Mitchell sits down with Chancellor Clifton Ganus, who turn over the vice president, to help with the verse Ephesians 4:15. We're excited and ready for the new role he was about to step into. "I'm excited to serve the student body, but I knew that it would be a big job," said Waldron. "Bill's a hard worker, and he will do a great job leading the SA." Waldron said he knew he would have the responsibility of making sure this year was a successful one with President David Burke existing at the end of the year.

"Regardless of who was, we would all work together next year trying to establish Bisons for Christ leadership with transparency," said junior Bryce McMillin, current SA president. Waldron's goal is to transition former SA president to the position. "I'm looking at running for executive board and said plans to introduce another student body entity for a Monday morning," said Waldron. "That was the whole school is doing for the same thing tonight." Waldron said, "I think we want to make any big changes, but what we can do is try to improve the relationship between the administration and the student body." Alden, Bryce McMillin, current SA president, said that most students do not let the fact that he had no idea what he wanted for the presidency to run for the SA. "I'm anxious because I didn't know what I wanted," said Alden. "I said, 'I don't know what I want,' and I got really lifted and felt guided really well." Alden said that Wolford, president of the student senate, and he had never used them. "We will be a Bisons for Christ kickback of the House," said Alden. "We'll say we're going to have a big party for people going over to."
HU Photographer receives recognition for Pitino picture

by J.M. ADKISON

Editor-in-chief

Bobby Petrino was first head coach of the University of Arkansas Razorbacks football team. His departure as coach resulted in a NCAA investigation. What lead to Petrino's dismissal? A Lexington Kentucky, police, ticketed the motorcycle of Bobby Petrino, Arkansas coach. Petrino failed to mention the ticket, though, that his 20-year-old self was ticketed in 1991. Doriel was also citing the ticket and was involved in the event.

According to The Daily Wildcat, the accident was revealed in a police report and Petrino later confessed to having an affair with Doriel, who was hired to report the football department. 6 days before the accident. Petrino denies to think the scandal was stirred with the accident was revealed by a police report, though.

Junior Conor Kirkman, sophomore Sebastian Morris, senior Dustin Ganus, and senior Daniel Ganus said the team that solves the most problems within the time limit is the winner. He said the team that solves the most problems within the time limit is the winner.

“Most problems within the time limit is the winner. He said the team that solves the most problems within the time limit is the winner.

For assistance, call 870-612-3400.

Computer programming team takes first at 2012 Mid-South Computing Conference

by LYNDSEY RUBLE

Editorial assistant.

“Three students from Harding’s Pro- gramming Team placed first at the 2012 Mid-South Computing Conference on March 31.

The Programming Team traveled to Union University in Jackson, Tenn., for the conference, which boasted more than 250 other teams from the Mid-South division of the Conference for Computing Scientists in Colleges.

Junior Conor Kirkman, sophomore Daniel Sutherland and sophomore Hooman Abbas said one of the two main reasons from Harding that entered the competition was the other team placed seventh out of 14 teams.

Teams competing were given a scenario as well as rules for problem- solving problems. The competition is the main emphasis of the event and the questions is possible in the four time limit.

Dr. hipolito Bahen, professor of computer science and director of academic computing, has worked with the programming team for 29 years. He said the main goal is to solve the most problems within the time limit or the winner.

“Most problems within the time limit is the winner. He said the team that solves the most problems within the time limit is the winner.

Although the team does not enter in computer programming, Kirkman said the team still work on applying for the school's technology. Kirkman said he encourages other computer science students to pursue a career in computer programming.

“My favorite part of the competition is to observe the excitement and satisfaction of the students as they come together. I have often heard the team, "I love coming to see how confident the students are after solving a problem."

“Most problems within the time limit is the winner. He said the team that solves the most problems within the time limit is the winner.

On April 10, the team won the competition and were awarded the trophy for first place.

“Most problems within the time limit is the winner. He said the team that solves the most problems within the time limit is the winner.

- From The BISON
A new feature we are doing is to ask for your opinions about Harding and the Harding community, since we are here to represent the needs of the student body. We hope that, in return, the Bison staff, and hope that, in return, you have any story ideas, you can contact us at phurst@harding.edu. The question I have chosen to ask is: If you were given the chance to come back in time, would you want to share it. Whether that's because you've been mocked in public or are unfamiliar with the term "pet peeves." The result is that no one wants to add to the discussion. But I've read a lot of online articles about Segway technology, and I just didn't want there to be any contention. I think this is a very interesting and relevant topic. After somehow managing to land in a time machine, I would say yes. The time I would want to share is during the 2012 fall semester: It's the first day of class you're huffing and puffing up a hill on your mountain bike, I am thinking about what I am going to do. In the moment, I thought it's better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good it is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.

The Bison
Friday, April 13, 2012

Wise and Otherwise

The Opinions Section

As an opinionated person, I often find it difficult not to express my views when there are others present. My opinions are generally carried to the extreme; I take a stand for or against something in a very clear cut manner. I do enjoy hearing a debate, but I can’t help but interject my point of view. Fortunately, unlike most people, I have a weekly column designated for me to do that. Most of the time, I’m pretty positive about better. Most of the time, I am, in fact, in two minds about the topic at hand. I don’t think it’s better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good It is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.

The Bison
Friday, April 13, 2012

Wise and Otherwise

The Opinions Section

As an opinionated person, I often find it difficult not to express my views when there are others present. My opinions are generally carried to the extreme; I take a stand for or against something in a very clear cut manner. I do enjoy hearing a debate, but I can’t help but interject my point of view. Fortunately, unlike most people, I have a weekly column designated for me to do that. Most of the time, I’m pretty positive about better. Most of the time, I am, in fact, in two minds about the topic at hand. I don’t think it’s better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good It is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.

The Bison
Friday, April 13, 2012

Wise and Otherwise

The Opinions Section

As an opinionated person, I often find it difficult not to express my views when there are others present. My opinions are generally carried to the extreme; I take a stand for or against something in a very clear cut manner. I do enjoy hearing a debate, but I can’t help but interject my point of view. Fortunately, unlike most people, I have a weekly column designated for me to do that. Most of the time, I’m pretty positive about better. Most of the time, I am, in fact, in two minds about the topic at hand. I don’t think it’s better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good It is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.

The Bison
Friday, April 13, 2012

Wise and Otherwise

The Opinions Section

As an opinionated person, I often find it difficult not to express my views when there are others present. My opinions are generally carried to the extreme; I take a stand for or against something in a very clear cut manner. I do enjoy hearing a debate, but I can’t help but interject my point of view. Fortunately, unlike most people, I have a weekly column designated for me to do that. Most of the time, I’m pretty positive about better. Most of the time, I am, in fact, in two minds about the topic at hand. I don’t think it’s better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good It is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.

The Bison
Friday, April 13, 2012

Wise and Otherwise

The Opinions Section

As an opinionated person, I often find it difficult not to express my views when there are others present. My opinions are generally carried to the extreme; I take a stand for or against something in a very clear cut manner. I do enjoy hearing a debate, but I can’t help but interject my point of view. Fortunately, unlike most people, I have a weekly column designated for me to do that. Most of the time, I’m pretty positive about better. Most of the time, I am, in fact, in two minds about the topic at hand. I don’t think it’s better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good It is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.

The Bison
Friday, April 13, 2012

Wise and Otherwise

The Opinions Section

As an opinionated person, I often find it difficult not to express my views when there are others present. My opinions are generally carried to the extreme; I take a stand for or against something in a very clear cut manner. I do enjoy hearing a debate, but I can’t help but interject my point of view. Fortunately, unlike most people, I have a weekly column designated for me to do that. Most of the time, I’m pretty positive about better. Most of the time, I am, in fact, in two minds about the topic at hand. I don’t think it’s better to begin filling out job applications instead of graduating school. When you come to school, you should figure out if you can afford it. According to graduating senior degree. You need to do a little research to figure out going to graduate school is a good It is not for people who want to to share his or her opinion as the a graduate degree. You need to the picture on their 3.5 inch LCD screen, trying to get the perfect shot, rather than truly watching and shouting in his ear, "get over yourself!" and for private universities it can you will have an opportunity to convert to a higher education for you. There are several options by taking the time to find a program that is right for you, the potential for just opportunities after graduation. At Harding, I am provided with more opportunities to contribute than in your time on earth. When you have an education that can help you, you need to know when you are putting off going into graduate school, you should figure out if you are ready for more expensive courses. Harding is a guest contributor for the Bison. She may be contacted at ayoun@harding.edu.
I think the world would rekindle this whole "dancing" thing if we really understood what it was we were doing when we danced. I mean I'm not saying dance is just a way of expressing yourself, but I think we are so focused on the self-expression and individuality that is implied when we dance that we lose sight of the larger, communal aspect of dance. I think dance should be seen as a way of connecting with others and with something larger than ourselves.

The dance floor is a place where people can come together and feel a sense of unity. Whether it's through a flash mob dance, Spring Sing, or a more traditional dance format, dance is a way of bringing people together. It's a way of celebrating life and sharing joy.

I'm glad to see that there are places like Spring Sing and flash mobs that are bringing dance back into the public eye. It's a reminder that dance is more than just an individual art form, it's a way of connecting with others and with the world around us.
Struggling for better record

by MATT BIAN

The Harding Bison baseball team of 2011 opened last weekend’s three-game series against Division II member Arkansas Tech University. The team finished the series with a split doubleheader, winning the first game 7-4 and losing the second game 5-2.

The Bisons showed a strong performance in the second game, scoring three runs in the first inning. However, the series was highlighted by the Bisons’ strong pitching, as they allowed only 10 runs in the three games. The pitching staff was led by junior pitcher, who pitched a complete game in the first game.

The Bisons have a record of 15-11 overall and are currently in fifth place in the conference standings. They will face off against the second-place Texas Christian University in their next game.

Sophomore Keenan Mathews, the team’s leading hitter, said, “We’re feeling confident going into the next game and hope to continue our winning streak.”

The Bisons will host the Arkansas Tech University game at 7 PM on Tuesday, April 16, at the Joe Miller Field.

Harding leaps higher than the competition

by J.M. ADKISON

The Harding football team won their first home game since 2010 with a 27-7 victory over the University of the Ozarks, securing their first conference win of the season.

Senior quarterback Keenan Kellett led the offense with 135 yards passing and one touchdown. The defense held the Eagles to just 77 total yards, including 26 rushing and 51 passing.

Junior running back Christian Brothers rushed for 85 yards and scored two touchdowns, while senior defensive end Ty Powell had 12 tackles, including two sacks.

Head coach Jeff Zaborowski said, “This win was huge for us. We’ve been working hard all season and it’s great to see it pay off.”

The Bison will travel to Springdale, Arkansas, to face the University of Arkansas at Monticello on Saturday, April 13.
SPORTS

For the love of the game

by MARSHALL HUGHES

Most kids in high school go through these photos without much to worry about. Doing schoolwork, extracurricular activities and kicking it with friends are the norm for the majority of teenagers.

Football

American football equipment manager William Hall was a special quick to school and playing football is Central Arkansas' top sport. His football career began when he was 14 and he loved it.

Fast forward 10 years. Hall was playing high school ball and was going through another growing practice playing the nose man coming back. His heart was to be an all-star linebacker, hit top of the division come October.

"I don't know why," Hall said. "One couldn't move. It was one of the window ledges I have ever had.

After his diagnosis of a concussion, Hall underwent a CT scan and things quickly changed. The doctor rushed him in for a checkup and things were not so good. Hall decided to take some time off after high school graduation and went back to go on college.

During his second year at Harding, Hall decided that he really wanted to be a part of the football program to gain some experience. He asked about possible positions available. Hall asked him if he would be interested in being the equipment manager, and Hall readily accepted.

"The most impressive thing about Will is that he is so unselfish about this," Hall said. "He could have gone to another program, but he decided to stay here to help others."

Baseball

Baseball season is finally upon us once again. Everyone starts this season 0-0, but who will rise to the top of their divisions and clinch a playoff spot this year? Here are my early division winner predictions.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

EAST: BOSTON

Naturally the two teams who you always look to see at the top are the Red Sox. East when the season is over the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees are always going to be in the running for the AL East title, but they have to sweep the Sox, they cleaned house. They shipped Tim Tebow to the Cubs for a prospect, a third baseman.

East Coast is probably the best thing about this team. The Red Sox brought in the veteran Bobby Petrino is... A candidate for the AL Cy Young. They have a great starting rotation and a great bullpen. The Red Sox have a chance to win this division.

WEST: TEXAS

The Twins have a new manager, a new owner and a new look, and they made some huge moves in free agency by signing Mark Buehrle and Jose Reyes. Money does not always win games in baseball, and I think we wouldn't be enough to overcome the Phillies. Philadelphia has some of the best pitching pitchers that can be seen on many of the staffs in baseball. While the hitting is always a concern with the Phillies and even more so now that Ryan Howard and Chase Utley may opt out of the season on the day of life, it's not how you start but how you finish. Look for the Phillies to be on top of the NL East in a few and only.

CENTRAL: DETROIT

The Detroit Tigers won the division last year by 15 games ahead of second-place Cleveland. They made a big splash in free agency by signing Alcides Escobar away from the Royals. I think they will repeat as the division champs.

EAST: PHILLIES

The Miami Marlins have a new manager, a new owner and a new look, and they made some huge moves in free agency by signing Mark Buehrle and Jose Reyes. Money does not always win games in baseball, and I think we wouldn't be enough to overcome the Phillies. Philadelphia has some of the best pitching pitchers that can be seen on many of the staffs in baseball. While the hitting is always a concern with the Phillies and even more so now that Ryan Howard and Chase Utley may opt out of the season on the day of life, it's not how you start but how you finish. Look for the Phillies to be on top of the NL East in a few and only.

WEST: DIAMONDBACKS

The Giants have been great since 2000 and always seem to be on their way to win the division. The Arizona Diamondbacks will see the return of the talented young pitcher Jon Lester. He has been one of the best arms in baseball with an asking price. They also acquired one of the better Oakland pitchers when they traded for Todd Helton. Ian Kennedy and Daniel Hudson will each with Clay Husch to join him in the rotation. When J.J. P Pett was out last year, Dan Haren was one of the best pitchers in the league. They have a few good pitchers, and I think the Diamondbacks will edge out the Rockies and Giants to win the NL West when the season ends.
A Micah of all trades

by ALEXIS HOSTICKA features editor

When freshman Micah Woods wants to learn something new, he puts his mind to it and, slosh, he soon progresses in whatever skill set it may be.

When Woods saw a dance competition going on during a state honors convention in his freshman year of high school, he said he knew right away that he wanted to dance.

The only problem? He couldn't dance.

But Woods took it into his own hands to solve that problem, and in a single handful of YouTube videos and practices in front of the mirror, he had mastered the dance moves.

"I was an awful dancer," Woods said. "But after so much hard work, how to dance. Just practice and it's a skill that you can master.

Woods progressed for the rest of his high school years by practicing the dance competition at the convention for the school. When he returned to college, he added a second major.

"I missed out on some of my high school dancing careers, Woods has continued to farm him with the help of a producer. He loads his own videos to YouTube and Facebook occasionally, but Woods is his own hardcore critic.

"I deleted six of my old videos the other day because I took back at all and realized how bad I was," Woods said, laughing. "I guess I'm just constantly improving."

Besides dancing, Woods is also a musical inclination. He and his brother have done covers to some cool stuff with YouTube.

"I'm really fond of my videos," Woods said. "I just love that song and at the end of some cool stuff with YouTube."

He said he enjoys performing and that he appreciates the opportunity to show off his skills.

"I'm not a professional dancer," Woods said. "I just like to perform and enjoy that."

Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison. Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison.

"I go through so much for the joy of performing," Woods said. "I'm really fond of my videos."

Freshman Micah Woods taught himself to dance from watching videos on YouTube and now has his own channel when he posts dance moves and songs on social media.

"I'm really fond of my videos," Woods said. "I just love that song and at the end of some cool stuff with YouTube."

Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison.

"I go through so much for the joy of performing," Woods said. "I'm really fond of my videos."

Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison.

"I go through so much for the joy of performing," Woods said. "I'm really fond of my videos."

Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison.

"I go through so much for the joy of performing," Woods said. "I'm really fond of my videos."

Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison.

"I go through so much for the joy of performing," Woods said. "I'm really fond of my videos."

Woods said he was inspired to pull through so much that he had to change the name of his channel, which is The Bison.
"Our MSE graduates make life COOL."

So you want to advance your career. We can help. Our 30 credit hour Master of Science in Engineering (MSE) degree, with concentrations in electrical, computer, mechanical, or management are real and practical. We can even customize a program to meet your unique goals and experiences with courses in business, computer science, mathematics, and project management. Call, e-mail, or log on today to find out more.

Sudoku

CONTEST: Win a free Sudoku book by being the first person to bring the completed puzzle into the Bison office (Friday)

CHECK OUT THE LINK
Arkanseas feels the heat with hottest March on record by KIMBERLY MILLER
TOMS Day has students going barefoot by VELVET JANELL

Our Oklahoma Christian University Department of Mathematics and Computer Science