11-9-2012

The Bison, November 9, 2012

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.harding.edu/thebison

Recommended Citation
Obama wins, students react

Students and professors gathered Tuesday night to give their opinions in addition to this gathering in the Gans building. Students also assembled at the Holiday Inn for a College Republicans watch party.

Professor Chant Verb said she thinks "the current count is too preliminary meaningful fiscal reform won't happen." Harding选民 noted that they were concerned with the issue that were most important to them for this election, as well as foreign policy, sports and health care.

Frederick Laos Rowe said she didn't think the economy would improve during Obama's second term.

"I think that we will lose our standing as an economic powerhouse," Rowe said. "I think that our dollar will increase. I think that our currency will be highly sought. And I do not think that we will create any more jobs."

Rowe also said the ambien Obama's victory to America's changing demo¬graphic and will toward government dependence.

Frederick Andrew Newman said he found it "disheartening and puzzling" that Ameriea re-elected Obama and that he viewed the New Selection as a sign of the USA's division.

"I was definitely hoping for Romney, but I think just shows you how divided our nation is, and that's a sad thing," Newman said. "I think we need to work on a country and for us to stand for Christianity as well before politics."

Senior Doug Lyons was one of the students that won the election. "I'm really excited about it," Lyons said. "I think they're the best candidates available at the time, and I think that we have a bright future going forward."

Q&A with Bruce McLarty

Q: Walk me through the application and interview process of applying to be the next university president.
A: The Board asked everyone who wanted to be in the hunt to submit their interest to the CEO of the Harding, which Perry Board member had access to everyone that submitted it, and the Board members read thousands of pages of input.

Q: Sometime around April, I received a letter from Dr. John Simmons, the chairman of the Board of Trustees, informing me that a number of people had informed me that if I were interested in pursuing this, I would need to meet the June deadline.
A: With God as my help and strength, I pray that I could serve the students, faculty, staff and alumni, then I would be delighted to lead Harding into the future.

Q: Why did you want to be the president of the university?
A: Whenever people have asked me in recent years if I was going to apply to be the next president, my standard answer was that I would be ready to do whatever I came, I haven't viewed the presidency as my job, I wanted to do what I'm good at. Instead, applying was more of an exercise of my responsibilities, as I could serve the students, staff and alumni, then I would be delighted to lead Harding into the future.

Q: Why do you want to be the president of the university?
A: Instead, applying was more of an exercise of my responsibilities, as I could serve the students, staff and alumni, then I would be delighted to lead Harding into the future.

Q: Wha t challenges and rewards will there be?
A: I have learned so much by watching Dr. Burks and Chancellor Newman. Both have found a great job in leading Harding.

Q: Where do you see Harding in 2024?
A: Harding will continue to grow in its mission of providing a Christ-centered education in a caring environment.

Q: What are your goals for Harding in the future?
A: With God as my help and strength, I pray that I could serve the students, faculty, staff and alumni, then I would be delighted to lead Harding into the future.

Q: What is the selection process of the next president?
A: The Board met for their standard Homecoming weekend Executive Session (Board members only) to discuss the candidates. All along, they had indicated that they would keep the decision made by May 2013. When Dr. Simmons told the people at the Black and Gold banquet on Friday night of Homecoming weekend that the Board was looking at a list of candidates, I suspected that they had reached their decision. I have not viewed the presidency as my job.

Q: What is the timeline for the presidency?
A: The final piece of the process took place when the Board met for their standard Homecoming weekend meeting. This year, they spent most of their time in a closed-door session (Board members only) to discuss the candidates. All along, they had indicated that they would keep the decision made by May 2013. When Dr. Simmons told the people at the Black and Gold banquet on Friday night of Homecoming weekend that the Board was looking at a list of candidates, I suspected that they had reached their decision.

Q: Why do you want to be the next president of the university?
A: Instead, applying was more of an exercise of my responsibilities, as I could serve the students, staff and alumni, then I would be delighted to lead Harding into the future.

Q: What is your vision for the university?
A: Instead, applying was more of an exercise of my responsibilities, as I could serve the students, staff and alumni, then I would be delighted to lead Harding into the future.
By KYLE REEVES

Duck Commander CEO Willie Robertson will speak at Harding University on Tuesday, Nov. 7, in the Benson Auditorium, The College of Business Administration and the School of Business Administration programs organized for former HIT student Robertson to speak at Turner Hall.

Robertson is the main character of the reality TV show "Duck Dynasty," which gained national acclaim last spring in its first season. The show features seven Robertson family members spending their time hunting into a business," said Dr. Hill. "We are pleased that the majority of our students have an entrepreneurial inclination and are excited about the opportunity to start and run their own business."

The idea of inviting Robertson to speak was first proposed last spring. Glen Metheny, director of the center of business and professional studies, said the named "Duck Dynasty" was gathering popularity and thought it would be fun to ask his former classmate to return to campus.

"When Duck Dynasty became a national hit last spring, we felt the Robertson family was like so many people," Metheny said. "I have realized that it would be real neat to have him back on campus to speak."

While much of Robertson will speak about will deal with businesses, Robertson will also talk about other aspects of his life, such as maintaining his family's strong faith and religion while in a national spotlight.

Robertson family turned their passion for hunting into a business," said Dr. Hill. "We are pleased that the majority of our students have an entrepreneurial inclination and are excited about the opportunity to start and run their own business."

The idea of inviting Robertson to speak was first proposed last spring. Glen Metheny, director of the center of business and professional studies, said the named "Duck Dynasty" was gathering popularity and thought it would be fun to ask his former classmate to return to campus.

"When Duck Dynasty became a national hit last spring, we felt the Robertson family was like so many people," Metheny said. "I have realized that it would be real neat to have him back on campus to speak."

While much of Robertson will speak about will deal with businesses, Robertson will also talk about other aspects of his life, such as maintaining his family's strong faith and religion while in a national spotlight.

Robertson family turned their passion for hunting into a business," said Dr. Hill. "We are pleased that the majority of our students have an entrepreneurial inclination and are excited about the opportunity to start and run their own business."

The idea of inviting Robertson to speak was first proposed last spring. Glen Metheny, director of the center of business and professional studies, said the named "Duck Dynasty" was gathering popularity and thought it would be fun to ask his former classmate to return to campus.

"When Duck Dynasty became a national hit last spring, we felt the Robertson family was like so many people," Metheny said. "I have realized that it would be real neat to have him back on campus to speak."

While much of Robertson will speak about will deal with businesses, Robertson will also talk about other aspects of his life, such as maintaining his family's strong faith and religion while in a national spotlight.

Robertson family turned their passion for hunting into a business," said Dr. Hill. "We are pleased that the majority of our students have an entrepreneurial inclination and are excited about the opportunity to start and run their own business."

The idea of inviting Robertson to speak was first proposed last spring. Glen Metheny, director of the center of business and professional studies, said the named "Duck Dynasty" was gathering popularity and thought it would be fun to ask his former classmate to return to campus.

"When Duck Dynasty became a national hit last spring, we felt the Robertson family was like so many people," Metheny said. "I have realized that it would be real neat to have him back on campus to speak."

While much of Robertson will speak about will deal with businesses, Robertson will also talk about other aspects of his life, such as maintaining his family's strong faith and religion while in a national spotlight.
In Defense of Mission Trips madison henderson
guest space
We're all over their mission trips, the so-called "wars" on the two-way street between our staff and community. Have you ever thought about the reasons? I have. I've witnessed people taking up the cause of Christianity, making some "amazingly awesome" memories, and even traveling to another country with a great mission. If this is what the community wants—good for them. The Democratic Republic of Harding University looks beautiful from the pictures. But the thing that group is drastically different from the one that starts at the head. That's the difference. This is a Christian realm in its heart. The stereotypical Democratic norms are instilled. Those are the norms on campus, Harding's own fault, and for many families, they seem to hold out.

I could easily say that I love the light of Jesus and brought children to the throne. I could understand how good it felt to be out of the country, and find my calling and love for the Lord. But I can't. I also knew, after a while, that there were people, devoted, committed to finding the truth, not only with the task, yes. But I don't feel grateful or good about being a Christian.

It is the responsibility of the church to raise children and teach them the values we believe in. It is the responsibility of the parents to raise their children and teach them what they believe in. It is the responsibility of the school to provide a safe and comfortable environment for all students. It is the responsibility of the government to ensure that all people have the right to be treated fairly and equally. It is the responsibility of the church to provide a spiritual home for all people. It is the responsibility of the parents to provide a moral home for their children. It is the responsibility of the school to provide an educational home for all students. It is the responsibility of the government to provide a legal home for all people.

The ceremony can be won in all aspects; in the media, in church, in families. The reason for the ceremony is to proclaim new believers. The ceremony can be lost in all aspects; in the media, in church, in families. The reason for the ceremony is to proclaim new believers.

The ceremony is a symbol of the church's commitment to the power of the Spirit of God. The ceremony is a symbol of the church's commitment to the power of the Spirit of God. The ceremony is a symbol of the church's commitment to the power of the Spirit of God. The ceremony is a symbol of the church's commitment to the power of the Spirit of God.

In addition to putting aside for the day feelings of enmity, we must also put aside our political beliefs for the day. We must put aside our political beliefs for the day. We must put aside our political beliefs for the day. We must put aside our political beliefs for the day.

The extremity can be seen in all aspects; in the media, in church, in families. The reason for the ceremony is to proclaim new believers. The ceremony can be lost in all aspects; in the media, in church, in families. The reason for the ceremony is to proclaim new believers.

Bison staff
Lyndsey Ruble editor-in-chief
Ryan Foster business manager
Hazel Hallburton copy editor
Levi Stutman news editor
Ales Hosticka sports editor
Matt Ryan features editor
Aerial Writing opinions editor
Matt Chulkin art, sports editor
Peyton Hurst PR and marketing director
Jesse Boyd web editor
Ashel Parsons head photographer
Chantell Mitchell illustrator
Hillery Miller assistant, photographers
Tyler Carmland graphic designer
Jewelry Williams illustrator
Kasey Coble art, copy editor
Bethany Aspey assistant, photography
Amy Marie multimedia editor
Katie Ramirez faculty adviser

At the Bison, it is our goal to serve the Harding University student body with integrity, truth and care. However, we believe that meeting that goal is a two-way street between our staff and the public it serves.

We pledge to keep our eyes and ears open to what our community has to say and hope that, in return, the community will pledge to make our staff and public members.

We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes. We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes. We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes. We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes. We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes. We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes. We are all students, teachers and graduates of Harding University. This is a community that will show our students the ropes.
The election is over. We lived through the campaign, the ads and the debates. We lived through the harsh Facebook comments and the spam emails made about moving to Canada. We lived through the few political pundit’s surprise, the conventional wisdom that this could turn into another nail in the coffin of our country. This book could be the last nail we all deserve. America as a whole is being much harder hit than we anticipated and I think that Obama has a plan that, though the country will still struggle, is still working to make things better. America seems to be a good man with a good heart and we must trust that he knows what is best for the economic situation.

Obama is not an economist so he is not concerned with having a command- and-control style presidency, and this is not to the credit of either candidate. Obama’s eloquence and obvious intellect speak louder than his track record for a lot of American voters. In a situation in which America is at a deep value, we vote for a strong leader and communicate over the potential for different policies.

In addition, Obama’s re-election accomplishes the need for many citizens to feel that they are part of a team. With his successful past and strong economic position, he is free to move forward with a broken job. Americans no longer seek a leader who will make those with their president, they want to feel if they are part of him. Romney simply reverts back to the way things were before.

Obama took advantage of this and made his campaign a black and Latino vote that surely helped him reach the 270 electoral college vote. Latinos and black votes both had a big impact. However, he always managed to look at a few less than 20% of the voting populace, especially on issues such as gay marriage. Despite Romney’s strong conservative views, both groups still cast their vote in support of a candidate who made them feel that their voice was heard. With this, the Republican Party lost a very strong potential demographic and could end up missing more votes.

Most of the story’s re-election proves to me that the Republican Party is missing some big decisions. According to The New York Times, they still believe in a government that is for the workers, and not the workers. The 2012 election highlighted the necessity of progressive government. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that no longer feels that the workers when they said that they were for the workers. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that no longer feels that the workers when they said that they were for the workers.

The American people are as/UI the health care law was passed, the president has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

However, the president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.

The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges. The president and the government that has been in power for over 20 years, will be the government that has faced a lot of challenges.
Bisons march up field, rankings

by MATT CHAFFIN
H ardin g University Multimedia Editor

"The Lady Bisons are looking good, they still have players to work with in the back, and build on the momentum we have." – Andy Hurst

The Lady Bisons are trying to get better every game that they play. Their fresh team may need to find more consistency in the back, but they have a chance to do so in their next game. The Lady Bisons have been impressive so far this season. They are currently ranked at No. 14 in the nation in the latest rankings.

The team has been off to a hot start, defeating the Oklahoma State University Lady Cowboys 87-64 in their season opener. They then went on to defeat the Western Kentucky Lady Toppers 96-64 in their second game. The Lady Bisons have now won three straight games and are looking to continue their winning streak.

"We are excited about the season and the conference tournament," said Coach Hurst. "Our team is looking to improve and has been working hard in practice to prepare for each game."

The Lady Bisons are looking to build on their momentum and continue their winning ways. They will be looking to secure a spot in the NCAA tournament this season, which is now only a few games away.

"We are looking forward to getting the regular season under our belt," said Coach Hurst. "We have a long road ahead of us, but we are ready to take on any challenge that comes our way."
College b-ball about to tip off

Adam Brown

Tonight is the night the Lady Bisons go for the school record vs. Alabama State.

Sophomore Alli S. Bailey.

Kelsey Taylor and Tammy Kim, junior Rachel Roberts.

Women's cross-country Women's golf TONIGHT, No. 10 Florida Division II National Championship which was held on Pop Culture

Sports Friday, November 9, 2012 the Bison

Kes:'iet space

Our Athletes' Views on Pop Culture questions

one gift you will never forget is...

If you were a car, what kind would you be?

If there was a movie about your life, who would play you?

One thing that really makes me laugh is...

What is your favorite Thanksgiving dish?

Our Athletes' Views on Pop Culture questions

One gift you will never forget is...

If you were a car, what kind would you be?

If there was a movie about your life, who would play you?

One thing that really makes me laugh is...

What is your favorite Thanksgiving dish?

One gift you will never forget is ...

If you were a car, what kind would you be?

If there was a movie about your life, who would play you?

One thing that really makes me laugh is ..

What is your favorite Thanksgiving dish?

One gift you will never forget is ...

If you were a car, what kind would you be?

If there was a movie about your life, who would play you?

One thing that really makes me laugh is ..

What is your favorite Thanksgiving dish?

One gift you will never forget is ...

If you were a car, what kind would you be?

If there was a movie about your life, who would play you?

One thing that really makes me laugh is ..

What is your favorite Thanksgiving dish?

One gift you will never forget is ...

If you were a car, what kind would you be?

If there was a movie about your life, who would play you?

One thing that really makes me laugh is ..

What is your favorite Thanksgiving dish?
HUMANITY helps fight injustice

By YANNAH RObINSON

Student writer

The service organization HUMANITY raises funds and exposure to combat human trafficking. The organization is a chapter of International Justice Mission. According to IJM's website, human trafficking is a crime that involves violence, servitude, or deception for sex and forced labor, along with the illegal smuggling of persons, the second largest criminal industry in the world.

Service officer Alesha Taylor said, "the hard part is that you've never heard of human trafficking before." Kirkham said, "It is horrible. It is hard. It is all new."

During the 2013 summer semester, HUMANITY members attended different forms of human trafficking being supported. Part of this program is to provide a non-profit organization in Little Rock to help fund.

PAIGE provides victims of human trafficking with a safe place where they can be nurtured back to health and education. Along with Kirkham and several others, Woods has a project to help build a new facility. An endowed church building was donated to the organization, but several challenges needed to occur to allow the HUMANITY to expand to provide more resources.

Woods who was born in Killeen, Texas, a small town of 20,000 miles from Arkan.

"We need to do this," she said, "so we'll continue to go down there and work and fight for these people.

Students help by moving the area, clearing out furniture that was put in a wood trail behind the house. There are a number of projects to complete and students take steps every weekend to work on the site.

"It has been truly rewarding to go and help and see improvements made," Woods said. "Kirkham and Thomas said they were amazed at the numbers of people who wanted to help with human trafficking. Thomas said it's important to reach out to the community and education of the issue. Wood's not only fighting against human trafficking, her son was born on Nov. 15 in the student center and will comenzar the process to EIU.

HARDING interns help fundraise for her son

By PAIGE HALE

news editor

"Mommy, where are you going?" she asked her mother. We're Killeen with her small town of 20,000 miles from Arkan.

"Shes too young to know. You're too young to know. She doesn't know about it, she has no idea what's going on," her mother said.

"Why are we out here in Arkansas?" she asked. "Why are we out here in Arkansas?"

"We're here to help out."

"I have my life there. My family. My friends. I have my degrees. I have my work."

"I'm doing this," Woods said. "I'm doing this for him."

"I want him to know," she said, "I have his back."

"I want him to know and the others who have been through what she's been through, it's important for them to know that there is hope."
TLC maintains entertaining TV show lineup
Shows feature Amish in New York City, mini-pageant queens, strange addictions

by ASHLEY BEASITTE student writer
&
LYNDSEY BURLE student editor -in-chief

The popular television channel, TLC, has some very interesting shows these days. These shows have gained popularity with amusing concepts and entertaining storytelling.

“Toddlers and Tiaras” is an example of one of TLC’s eccentric shows. This show is about the life and family of a child pageant queen. The show includes her mom June Shannon, dad Mike “Sugar Bear” Thompson and her three older sisters Anna, Jessica and Lauryn.

The family is often crazy but they always entertain the viewers with their quirky situations. “Honey Boo Boo,” whose real name is Alana Thompson, is a little girl with a big personality. She steals the show with her farm comments and smart mouth. The show is a spin-off of the popular, yet controversial, TLC show “Tooltans and Tiaras,” which showcases the lives of several mini pageant queens and their loud-mouth mothers.

Breaking, family is another entertaining TLC program. It follows four Amish people as they experience life outside of the Amish world. They head to New York City and experience life as other people do. These kids are completely out of their comfort zones and are put in a world where they have no clue how to fit in or how to process the normal lifestyle. They also deal with drama of their own and are put in dramatic situations. They will eventually have to make a choice whether they want to remain in their community or remain in New York City and possibly lose all of their friends and family.

The show “My Strange Addiction,” is about people who are addicted to abnormal things. Some are addicted to drinking gasoline, using laundry detergent or acting like a baby. These people are sent to psychologists to be examined and counseled. While often disturbing, this show is strangely entertaining. Each episode features a different strange addiction, which all seem to get more outlandish as the season progresses. Similarly, TLC also features a show called “My Strange Obsession,” which follows people with debilitating obsessions.

One of the newer TLC programs currently on air is “Secret Princes.” This gem follows four foreign backpackers who all come from royal lines. The men go undercover in America in order to find true love with women who will adopt them for their charm, not their royal titles. The guys are hilariously spoiled and constantly fighting with each other while owning everything from women to the bathroom they rent.

“My Big Fat Gypsy Wedding” as well as “My Big Fat American Gypsy Wedding” follow the lives of American and British gypsies. The show’s fascinating portrayal of the gypsy lifestyle and the unique engagement of gypsy weddings make this show a “must-see” if you are looking to fully experience the wildness of TLC’s lineup.

and who could forget about “ Sister Wives,” another drastically entertaining show about a polygamous family. The show follows Kody Brown, his four wives Meri, Janelle, Christine and Robyn and their 17 children.

A few other shows on TLC are: “Say Yes to the Dress,” “19 Kids and Counting,” “Brink of Budapest,” “Sugar Bear,” “Extreme Couponing,” “Hunting, Babbling Alan,” “Long Island Medium” and “The Little Couple.”

No matter what type of entertainment you are looking for, TLC is bound to be having something interesting at any time during the day or night. Tune in for fascinating stories and guaranteed laughs.

by HAZEL HALLIBURTON

Check out on The Link
Online columnist: Jess Boyd writes about the possible ‘Boy Meets World’ spinoff
Men’s basketball prepares to begin season
by TRACY MAKÉ
Groups, clubs prepare for Thanksgiving service projects
by HAZEL HALLIBURTON

thelink.harding.edu

Campus Life
Friday, November 9, 2012

4b