Students unite through Club Week

by Bethany Aspery

Club Week, a week dedicated to the induction process designed for social clubs, comes to an end today. Club Week varies within different social clubs, but all have been instructed to nurture Harding's goals and mission.

This Club Week represents the first Club Week for Chad Joiner, the new assistant dean of students. Tuesday night's roll call was conducted by Joiner. He participated in Club Week activities for the first time as a staff member just the night before.

"Monday night was the first time I had been a part of 'All-Club Devotional' and I was really impressed," Joiner said. "Josh said he thought the amount of interaction and encouragement during roll call is an exceptional part of the gathering."

"I loved seeing them all come in, smiling and wearing their club colors, but also supporting everyone else," Joiner said. "That I think adds to the community of Harding."

Findman Nade Zeragua, a new member for men's club Chi Sigma Alpha, said he is thankful for the week because he was able to see all the club's pride and hope for the new inductees.

For men's club Gamma Sigma Phi, Wednesday night's roll call was a night of fixing and bonding experiences. While playing flag football against men's club TNT, new member and freshman Jacob McCall dislocated his hand and broke his femur. New and old members as well as guests went to the hospital with McCall to support him that night.

He had surgery Thursday.

A Guide to Student Loans and Financial Aid

More than 20 percent of Harding students seek some form of financial assistance. Whether it is a student loan, Federal Pell Grant, need-based aid, or community college, Boise Board or various scholarships, students have many options available to help cover tuition and other costs.

1. Scholarships.

Christian School (K-12) Discount, Federal Pell Grant, Academic Yearbook Scholarship, college scholarships and grants, Missionary Scholarship, Federal Pell Grant, Federal FSEOG and Federal TEACH Grant are just a few of the many scholarships offered at Harding.

2. Tuition.

Tuition discounts are available depending on the student's course load, major or minor, location, and financial status. For example, non-majors and freshmen are charged full tuition, whereas students in their junior or senior year receive a discount.

Federal Perkins Loans are available to students with financial aid for the upcoming spring semester. For this reason, it is recommended to begin the application process as early as possible.

Direct Loans are unsubsidized grants that are need-based. To get a federal grant, it is essential for students to fill out a FAFSA and verify their financial status through the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

5. Federal Stafford Loans.

The U.S. Department of Education offers both subsidized and unsubsidized loans to eligible students. Once again, it is recommended to begin the application process as early as possible.

Parents may also obtain loans to help support their child's education. Parents are not eligible for federal staff loans.

AHref from the Financial Aid Office.

The Financial Aid Office offers many resources to support students throughout their college journey. For more information, visit the financial aid office in the Brown Student Center or call 407-575-3700.

The Harding education department's pre-professional organization, S.A.L.T., helped serve the community this past Thursday as they spent their time reading and helping mentor children at Westside Elementary School. S.A.L.T., which stands for scholars advancing learning and teaching, is a club and organization designed for all students earning their degree in education. According to junior education major, Mariah Huffman, who is also the president of the club, S.A.L.T. has been inactive for several years.

"I would like to see it become a club that stays on campus," Huffman said. "I'm graduating in May, but I would like to see the club continue. We really want it to be an organization that gets involved with the community and is well recognized on campus for service.".

The number of clubs comes from the book of Matthew where Jesus talks about the serving of the soul. We want it to be a club whose goal is to serve God through education, service projects, mentoring other education students and, overall, improving the community.

According to Huffman, this was the first service project that the club participated in this year. She said she was able to read a book from the "Ella, the Elephant" series which tells the story of a young elephant discovering America. Huffman said the project was a fun way to interact with young students.

"I think all of our service projects will help me get more acquainted with how communities interact with schools," Scott said.
Who with mid and the season taking it in on tell on students, there are services available on campus to help you get well soon. As a part of the construction on campus the Snack Health Service building has relocated to Legacy Park at 655 East Center near Starbucks. According to the health services page on http://www.harding.edu, the services provided for students include: free prescription management for minor illnesses such as colds, upset stomach, achy and sprains, first aid for accidental injury; blood pressure screening; and allergy injections with physician approval.

According to head nurse Lyn McCarty, the nurses are also available to change dressings, treat burns and give emergency advice to students. Croches and other medical equipment are also available for check-out. McCarty said that doctors in Sunny hold open hours for Harding students referred to them by health services. The move from the old building on Center Avenue to the new one on Pleasure Avenue has made the building more accessible to students seeking first aid and health advice, according to McCarty.

"Since we moved, I've noticed that more students seem to have been coming to us," McCarty said.

The nurses in the new building have four consultation rooms for nurses, a larger waiting room, more restrooms facilities and two beds for students who need to be monitored for acute symptoms. Each registered nurse working for health services now has his or her own room for on-duty patients. Students may begin registering for classes at 9 a.m. on the following days:

Nov. 4 Seniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 5 Juniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 6 Seniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 7 Juniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 8 All freshmen.

The nurses also can refer students to other campus health centers for more consultation.

According to associate registrar Natalie Oliver, this tool is not to replace students who need to consult doctors, but it can help in some situations. Here are the benefits:

- Teachers can plan their classes in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can print their schedules in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with teachers in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with their parents in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with their friends in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with their roommates in the planner but it can help in some situations.

Students may begin registering for classes at 12:01 a.m. on the following days:

Nov. 4 Seniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 5 Juniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 6 Seniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 7 Juniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 8 All freshmen.

The nurses also can refer students to other campus health centers for more consultation.

According to associate registrar Natalie Oliver, this tool is not to replace students who need to consult doctors, but it can help in some situations. Here are the benefits:

- Teachers can plan their classes in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can print their schedules in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with teachers in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with their parents in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with their friends in the planner but it can help in some situations.
- Students can consult with their roommates in the planner but it can help in some situations.

Students may begin registering for classes at 12:01 a.m. on the following days:

Nov. 4 Seniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 5 Juniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 6 Seniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 7 Juniors, who completed the evaluations last semester.
Nov. 8 All freshmen.
The law is a noble profession, and the law practice is a noble profession. Lawyers can use their services as the police in society’s public service. Lawyers can defend the innocent against the guilty, help businesses get away from bad house lines and fight for civil rights. This may be an appealing lineup of opportunities to many, especially to those who choose to pursue higher education in an institution where Christianity is the theme. On the other hand, some may be persuaded to work in law for different reasons, such as money or social status.

Unfortunately, there is an unrest part of the law I am not sure if my father is, though, and I have been with him to court on many occasions, have attended numerous lunch meetings with him and his colleagues, and have worked in his office. I have found that these options amount of research, and I feel it is my intention to follow in his footsteps.

To be an effective lawyer, it takes an unwavering respect of human honesty and sometimes unsympathetic rationale.

Surely, lawyers nobly defend the innocent. But they also defend the guilty and prosecute the innocent. Their loyalty is to the process. Their goal is not making sure the right person ends up in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.

They are both pragmatic and idealistic, insisting that the moral thing to do is initiate the process of a fair trial to take place and protected, even if they know the guilt lies elsewhere in jail, but making sure their client’s cases are as strong as possible, as well as they can be, no matter who is on the other side.
Vine: Capitalizing on Storytelling

henry gonzalez

guest writer

This is a time in which anyone can become a star in just six seconds. The successful video Vine empowers people to do so. Six seconds are a curse and a blessing; every second is vital.

Our generation is known as the millennials. We are no longer interested in spending years on creating and producing video content. We love the fact that we can see current viral content on the go, which is one reason why Vine has grown quickly in less than two years. Additionally, the person you see clicking again.

Researchers in the art world. After more than four years of meticulous career of excavation and recovery to an other in public restrooms, surely there was something wrong with my floor, I like. So, I very often heard older generations say that people are losing the ability to communicate properly, but the reality is that communication is changing quickly.

Vine is the perfect example of this. It is almost impossible to lose track of how much people love to communicate properly, but the reality is that communication is changing quickly. Vine is the perfect example of this. It is almost impossible to lose track of how much people love to share and communicate with others. This is the future of communication and it is changing in new and unexpected ways.

I very often hear older generations say that people are losing the ability to communicate properly, but the reality is that communication is changing quickly. Vine is the perfect example of this. It is almost impossible to lose track of how much people love to share and communicate with others. This is the future of communication and it is changing in new and unexpected ways.

Vine makes everyone a storyteller; it provides a forum for people to express themselves. It is a micro-blogging platform that allows people to tell their stories instantly.

A professor once wrote on one of his lit papers that I had an "understanding of Vine." At the time, I was still not very familiar with Vine and how it works. But now, after spending more than six months getting to know Vine and how it works, I can tell you that Vine is not just another social media platform. It is a micro-blogging platform that allows people to express themselves and share their stories instantly.

The implications of this new technology reach far beyond the visual realm of Vine. The high-frequency resource imaging has proven that Beethoven's "Hymn to Joy" may become popular today will probably be the next big thing. Understanding what people like is probably the most important ingredient when generating content. It seems like so many content creators are changing their strategies.

On the other hand, Vine makes me want to smash my laptop on the cement and call it quits. But don't fret. I very often hear older generations say that people are losing the ability to communicate properly, but the reality is that communication is changing quickly. Vine is the perfect example of this. It is almost impossible to lose track of how much people love to share and communicate with others. This is the future of communication and it is changing in new and unexpected ways.

Vine makes everyone a storyteller; it provides a forum for people to express themselves. It is a micro-blogging platform that allows people to tell their stories instantly.
Bison sportsmanship shines

Henderson State University player sustains injury against Harding at Homecoming. players show respect for Jordan

Sports overload

If you follow sports at all, which of you do not realize you know this week is the only week when the MLB, NFL, NBA, and NHL are all in full swing or post-season play. This means when I turn on the TV, I am completely overwhelmed with the amount and variety of sports that are taking over the screen. I am here to try to help you navigate through this hectic week of sports coaches. Here goes.

First, the MLB wrapped up the 2013 World Series this week. After a crazy six-game series, the Red Sox were crowned World Champions. The Red Sox beat the Cardinals 4-2 on Wednesday night in Boston.

The NFL teams are heading into their fourth week of the regular season. One undefeated team remains, the Chiefs. Sadly though, two teams who have never still find their way to the Final Four and the Super Bowl. These are professional football players and they cannot pull it together within the first win and start the season off right or even win one game. It is pathetic.

I am going to be honest with you, I do not follow the NBA as much as I should. During the opening of the new season, it is difficult to predict who will be the Super Bowl champions this year, but we will see. The Thunder are back again on the list of favorites to be crowned champs this year. Then we have other teams such as the Pacers, Bulls, Nets and Knicks who will all hopefully be joining the Heat once again on the list.

When it comes to hockey, I am hooked. It does not take much for me to get into a game because of the fast-paced action, non-stop action and fights going on. The 2013-2014 season has begun and teams are starting to make a name for themselves. Sitting at the top of the standings right now are the San Jose Sharks. They have accumulated 23 points over 10 victories thus far. If you do not know hockey points are what it all comes down to the end. It is still too early in the season to say for sure who will be the next Stanley Cup Champions, but it is sure to be one thrilling hockey season.

The week was what a World Series championship was all about. NL, team and Arizona, the NL team, tipped off and hockey back into our lives.

Henderson State Athletics is proud to announce the signing of Alex Ezell, a senior volleyball player from Arkansas Tech University. Ezell, a forward, will bring a wealth of experience to the Lady Bisons volleyball program.

Ezell is a native of Batesville, Ark., and attended Batesville High School. He played four years of volleyball, including two at Arkansas Tech University, where he helped lead the team to a conference championship and a trip to the NCAA Division II Championships.

In addition to his athletic achievements, Ezell is a strong academic student, earning a 3.8 grade point average and being named to the NCAA Division II Scholar-Athlete Honors List.

Ezell joins a talented roster of returning Lady Bisons, including senior setter Emily Wright, who was named to the All-Southwestern Oklahoma State Conference second team.

Ezell will compete in the back row, where he will bring his experience and leadership to the team. He brings a physical presence to the court and will be a valuable asset to the Lady Bisons as they prepare for the upcoming season.

The Lady Bisons are excited about the addition of Ezell and look forward to his contributions to the team. With a strong returning core and a talented incoming class, the Lady Bisons are poised to have a successful season in 2013-2014.
Both the men and women's basketball teams have started practicing and preparing for the upcoming season. The women had their first practice on Oct. 28 against Arkansas at the Barn. "No one is thinking about basketball right now," said Senior forward Kristen Colen who is looking forward to having a team that is very strong in all the positions. Colen said that she has high hopes for the team. "We have a lot of strong senior girls, I am hoping we make it to the NCAA tournament," Colen said. "We are definitely a big group of sisters. I think this is going to help us grow this year."
The merit team will tip off this season in a few short weeks at home in the Rhode Island Field House.

I am excited to see this year's team,' Head Coach Jeff Morgan said about the merit basketball team. "Every season is different so it is exciting to see how guys grow up in the program, how they grow as people, how they grow as team mates and how we grow as a program."

According to Morgan, the locals lost four essential players this year but they will have three sessions this year that put forward a bit of valuable knowledge and experience to the team. Morgan said the locals are going into this season with the goal of advancing to the NCAA tournament. Senior Head Coach Jeff Morgan said this is an important goal for him as well.

"We are looking for a lot of hard work this year and having guys come in and play their roles and contribute," Johnson said. "We are deep enough this year to make a good run and be competitive and be the best that we can be."

According to Johnson, the team is based on the chemistry on and off the court and the chemistry between the student body and the team. Johnson said a huge reason the team did as well as they did was because of the support of the Rhode Islanders.

"It definitely makes a difference and played a huge part in winning our conference championship last year," Johnson said. "We have the students know how much of a part they are in the greatness.

The first home games will take place on Oct. 14 against Brother University.

Heat favored to win triple-crown

"The Heat is a team that is very strong in all the positions. Celsor said. "They have grown as players, they have grown as people, they have grown as a team."

With the basketball season quickly approaching and the NBA season already underway, I thought it might be a good idea to look at a quick rundown on some interesting stories across the NBA as a quick run down of some interesting stories across the NBA as a way to kick off this week.

The Miami Heat are the two-time reigning NBA champions and favorites to repeat as champions this year. With additions to the roster, the team now boasts two former lottery picks, Greg Oden and Michael Beasley, as well as reigning champion of "The Basketball Tournament" Klay Thompson.

The Heat have balanced their front court, which is in the past few years has been one of their smallest and weakest areas for them. The loss of Mike Miller, who does hurt Miami's outside shooting options, Oden can stay healthy and Beasley can return to the player he was with the Heat, then there is no real chance that the championship will escape him from the Heat.

The summer offseason has been a very interesting story line for many fans. Players have been traded or effected by teams, coaches were fired and hired within a matter of days, or perhaps the most interesting is that both of these cases came about because the Heat decided to trade a team big man, Dwyane Wade, for small forwards, Joel Anthony and Shane Battier. The Heat did not stop there; they then proceeded to let head coach Des Brown go, firing him free to pursue a coaching job out on the west coast with the Los Angeles Clippers. This move immediately made the Clippers legitimate contenders for the conference title. And, in a largely unexpected move, the Heat hired former basketball coach, Brook Beasley, to be the team's strength in conditioning coach.

This season is going to be one of the most interesting for the Heat since the 2008-2009 season. The Heat are expected to fall in rear of both of these cases which provide the team with one of their best frontcourts and the Heat are determined to prove that they are not a one player team.

Nate Ramirez

guest space

Our Athletes' Views on Pop Culture

questions

Do you have any traditions before a sporting event?

Who would you trade places with for a day and why?

Favorite movie quote?

What is your biggest pet peeve?

Favorite Harding memory?

Basketball ready for tip off

Megn Smith

student writer

The men and women's basketball teams have started practicing and preparing for the upcoming season. The women had their first practice on Oct. 28 against Arkansas State University at the Barn. "No one is thinking about basketball right now," said Senior forward Kristen Colen who is looking forward to having a team that is very strong in all the positions. Colen said that she has high hopes for the team. "We have a lot of strong senior girls, I am hoping we make it to the NCAA tournament," Colen said. "We are definitely a big group of sisters. I think this is going to help us grow this year."
The merit team will tip off this season in a few short weeks at home in the Rhode Island Field House.

I am excited to see this year's team,' Head Coach Jeff Morgan said about the merit basketball team. "Every season is different so it is exciting to see how guys grow up in the program, how they grow as people, how they grow as team mates and how we grow as a program."

According to Morgan, the locals lost four essential players this year but they will have three sessions this year that put forward a bit of valuable knowledge and experience to the team. Morgan said the locals are going into this season with the goal of advancing to the NCAA tournament. Senior Head Coach Jeff Morgan said this is an important goal for him as well.

"We are looking for a lot of hard work this year and having guys come in and play their roles and contribute," Johnson said. "We are deep enough this year to make a good run and be competitive and be the best that we can be."

According to Johnson, the team is based on the chemistry on and off the court and the chemistry between the student body and the team. Johnson said a huge reason the team did as well as they did was because of the support of the Rhode Islanders.

"It definitely makes a difference and played a huge part in winning our conference championship last year," Johnson said. "We have the students know how much of a part they are in the greatness.

The first home games will take place on Oct. 14 against Brother University.

Heat favored to win triple-crown

"The Heat is a team that is very strong in all the positions. Celsor said. "They have grown as players, they have grown as people, they have grown as a team."

With the basketball season quickly approaching and the NBA season already underway, I thought it might be a good idea to look at a quick rundown on some interesting stories across the NBA as a way to kick off this week.

The Miami Heat are the two-time reigning NBA champions and favorites to repeat as champions this year. With additions to the roster, the team now boasts two former lottery picks, Greg Oden and Michael Beasley, as well as reigning champion of "The Basketball Tournament" Klay Thompson.

The Heat have balanced their front court, which is in the past few years has been one of their smallest and weakest areas for them. The loss of Mike Miller, who does hurt Miami's outside shooting options, Oden can stay healthy and Beasley can return to the player he was with the Heat, then there is no real chance that the championship will escape him from the Heat.

The summer offseason has been a very interesting story line for many fans. Players have been traded or effected by teams, coaches were fired and hired within a matter of days, or perhaps the most interesting is that both of these cases came about because the Heat decided to trade a team big man, Dwyane Wade, for small forwards, Joel Anthony and Shane Battier. The Heat did not stop there; they then proceeded to let head coach Des Brown go, firing him free to pursue a coaching job out on the west coast with the Los Angeles Clippers. This move immediately made the Clippers legitimate contenders for the conference title. And, in a largely unexpected move, the Heat hired former basketball coach, Brook Beasley, to be the team's strength in conditioning coach.

This season is going to be one of the most interesting for the Heat since the 2008-2009 season. The Heat are expected to fall in rear of both of these cases which provide the team with one of their best frontcourts and the Heat are determined to prove that they are not a one player team.
Severely wounded from serious injuries from local gym, hospital, school, and police stations. The personnel of the Severe Fire Department are on duty 24/7 and serve more than 22,000 people in the area of Sevay. Most of the time, the firefighters come to our campus for simple fire alarms caused by students who are cooking in the dorms. But the Fire Department also respond to calls involving vehicle accidents and leaking of hazardous materials. The department has more than 70 personnel it personnel of the whose families are the ones who make up the department. When Sevay residents call for an emergency, they are on the way. The firefighters are extremely important and dictate the type of services that the department can offer. If the firefighters are away and practice clarifies the person on the department, and the same if they do not care for or on calls. I have to make sure the way the personal acts is the direct reflection of the department.

What is the relationship with the other firefighters? We are on duty 24 hours a day. We learn about each other and get to know everyone's family. We care about each other and we gravitate and celebrate together. Just like the guys I work with become my brothers, the women I work with are people I look for. Anyway, we are always here for the citizens. If you need anything or if you have any questions or need advice concerning smoke detectors, they can call the Central Station at 501-299-0567. Because most of the people don’t need us, they don’t know we are here. But we are always here for you. If the firefighters have been at for four years or Sevay citizens for many years, we are always here for the community.

By Jane B. White
The University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences

Memorial service held for former student killed in terrorist attack by Julie White
The University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences

Friends and family of former Harding student Janie Kirby held a memorial service in her honor in the Searcy library on Saturday, Oct. 26. Kirby was killed in a terrorist attack in Minny during a Nov. 2, 2009, explosion at a fertilizer plant in an eastern Tennessee town.

Many who knew Kirby had the opportunity to tell stories and share memories about her life and legacy. Akaroni Relator Director Liz Howell was responsible for organizing the ceremony, and President Bruce McIver attended and paid his respects as well.

Laura Lindsey was a sophomore majoring in elementary education when she was killed in a terrorist attack in Minny. She was killed in a place where Laura Asper died on Dec. 17, 1973. Janie Kirby and her brother Randy Kirby, who was a senior majoring in political science, were both killed. Christmas break was around November because the place was not going to be a Christmas break. At least six others perished in the attack, including Janie Kirby.

Randy Kirby graduated from Harding, married, and has three children. A portrait of Janie Kirby hangs in Searcy library. At the ceremony, he was presented with a posthumously named book of memories for her mother.

Randy said Kirby was a person who lived to its end, "If you are going to do this, and do it now, go out to do this, but that means you're doing your job.

Students are encouraged to help raise awareness and volunteer. Sevay Citizens has a shift roster, The Sharing Shopping at 110 N. Spring St. Students can volunteer, donate or shop. Their office is located at 208 E. Moore Ave. in Searcy. You can find more information at sevaychildrens.org or by calling (501)-364-3423.

Social work class raises awareness of foster parenting

by Jared dry copy editor

Sevay Children's Home is a faith- based agency with the Church of Christ. They have provided care to more than 1,000 children since the agency began in 1917, and they care for approximately 40 children a year. Every year, their story is told.

The agency provides management of adoption agencies, adoption services and foster care services. While these services are provided to these publics, there is still a great need for volunteers and specifically, families willing to foster children.

A group of students in the social work class working together for the past semester with the Sevay Children's Home to raise awareness and combat misconceptions about foster care.

"We're working on a foster parent recruitment strategy with (Sevay Children's Home's) senior group member Kayla Sheahan. We want to take away some of the misconceptions and we want people to realize how great foster care is. It's really rewarding and not hard to get involved," Janie Kirby said.

The group is attempting to challenge misconceptions people may have about foster care. They have met with local foster families through Sevay Children's Home in order to further foster care and all that it entails. Angela and Keith English have been fostering children since 2010. Since then, they have provided care for 22 children, according to Angela English. They adopted their 3-year-old daughter after she came to live with them from a foster child when she was nine months old. To become a foster parent, a background check and training is required. Providing foster care does require some changes to daily life, but you are able to trust and care for the children as if they were your own, according to Keith English.

"The children have never been a problem," Angela English said. "Sometimes they have a behavior that you have not ever had in our home before that we've said 'Thank you, it's time for them to go, that was so and so.' And we've had an army of kids with different personalities and different backgrounds and different situations.

Foster care has not only provided an opportunity to impact on the lives of children, but also has shown Angela a different side of children in the original families, according to Keith English.

"There are some kids that only get torn around because a kid got removed from a home," Keith English said. "You have people understand they need to take changes in their life or their child can't come back that fast.

Despite original objections toward it, Keith English said he decided to get involved with foster care because he felt that if he, and other people, can't make their children feel safe, at least he can make an effort to provide care for children in need.

"If you are going to do this, and do it now, go out to do this, but that means you're doing your job.

Students are encouraged to help raise awareness and volunteer. Sevay Citizens has a shift roster, The Sharing Shopping at 110 N. Spring St. Students can volunteer, donate or shop. Their office is located at 208 E. Moore Ave. in Searcy. You can find more information at sevaychildrens.org or by calling (501)-364-3423.
Looking to diversify your winter wardrobe? Trend of wearing long-sleeved T-shirts and pants every day flooding in. A few key items will carry your wardrobe through the first frost. The overarching trend for both him and her is layers, layers, layers. For him, thick ankle booties, structured coats, stripes, utility jackets and leather skinny pants. Riding boots may not put anyone on the worst-dressed list, but 2014 will be year of the ankle boot. Wear with a dress and tight or skinny jeans and an over-sized sweater, ankle boot can be draped over dress or folded down and transition seamlessly from day to night. Do keefs intimidate you? Don’t worry, this trend also comes in flat and wedge options.

Finding meaning behind common dreams

by Rachel Wales student writer

Stress can really change things to your brain. You may realize the effects of stress in your day-to-day life, but did you know stress also manifest itself in your dreams? According to the movie “Gravity,” directed by Alfonso Cuarón, the average American lives to be about 79 years old. This means that a person getting around the normal eight hours of sleep will be year of their life. Crazy, right? But get a year old. This means that a person getting around the normal eight hours of sleep will be year of their life.

Transition from fall with winter wardrobe tips

by Jess Boyd & Kristi Soto student writers

The one item that should be in every closet is a good wood coat. First impressions are important, and in the winter, there is no second chance. If your style is classic and timeless, look for a traditional pea coat in cashmere or wool. However, if you want to make a statement, go for a winter white, powder blue or orange with fur for trim. Mid-length coats pair perfectly with both pants and dresses and are the most versatile. The striped sweaters and long-sleeved shirts can be worn on the go. Goodwill another season. Pair them with an olive green utility jacket and dark skinny jeans or dress them up with a ride black ballet-slip style skirt for a night out. Don’t be afraid of monochromatic black ensembles. They are no longer reserved for angels teenagers looking to rebel against their parents. Make sure to vary the texture, dress up black leatherlegging with a silk black wallpaper style black blazer.

When in doubt, wear an ankle boot and dress it out with a tulle ballerina-style dress. Wear with a coat and crew neck sweaters worn over button downs is classic and a step up from jeans and T-shirts. Also, do not be afraid to embrace embarassment on the coldest days and dress in cozy socks. Whatever you do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.

Some dreams are complex, abnormal and need to be explored. As mentioned before, many people have dreams that involve them going over cliffs or falling, being chased or being nude in the cliff. It is possible that you are avoiding something you need to do, do not wear socks with Chacos.