A group of students admires the campus Christmas lights during the annual lighting ceremony on Monday, Dec. 2. Harding beat reporter Decorates the entire front lawn each year during the Christmas season, attracting students and local Searcy citizens alike.

Christmas in the air

McLarty, Board reflect on first semester

"I am new to Harding for the very first time," McLarty began his first year as president of Harding. Throughout the semester, most of his plans and actions have been a "fingerprint on aspects of his job," McLarty said. "It's my first faculty meeting, my first semester: my first Board meeting, my first vote to officially adopt the plan after a meeting during Homecoming. "As always, this is a guide for the university, but it is in that opportunity arise and windows open that were not anticipated over a five-year period and that has, in times, really created the deals earlier and started on their holiday spending. However, this year brought the deals earlier and priced to keep them longer.

Now 29 marked this year's Black Friday, the unofficial holiday dedicated to shoppers hoping to save money on gifts. Across America, major stores (May), Best Buy and Wal-Mart opened Thanksgiving evening for the first time in the country's history.

For the first time since 2009, Black Friday spending declined, reinforcing projections that retailers who extended discounts further into the holiday season, according to Bloomberg Businessweek. Sales for the last week ended Nov. 29 increased 2.3 percent from last year, to $11.2 billion, according to a report released Thursday by ShopperTrak. Bill Martin, founder of ShopperTrak, pointed out the shifting paradigms in the retail world with many choosing to go out on Thanksgiving. As for online shopping, on Cyber Monday, the biggest day of the year for e-commerce in the U.S., sales rose 18.4 percent to $1.735 billion, for a single day, according to ComScore. Dec. 2 marked this year's Cyber Monday. 141 million people shopped, about two million more than last year, the average consumer's spending dropped 3.9 percent to $49.7 billion, according to a survey commissioned by the National Retail Federation.

Aums Dixon, a senior speech pathologist major at Harding, shopped with a friend at Little Rock's Park Plaza Mall. She said she enjoyed the experience, but did not make a purchase this year. "I think the earlier start takes away from the Thanksgiving holiday," Dixon said. "I still wanted until 11 a.m. to go out instead of Thanksgiving night. It's a holiday about being thankful for family above material possessions, but we have turned (Thanksgiving) into the most materialistic day in our county," Carl Craig, a senior graphic design student, shopped with his brother at St. John's Town Center in Jacksonville, Fla. They left at midnight and returned home just before 3 a.m. with two pairs of shoes to show for it.

They like the change," Craig said. "The stores I want to visit are now accessible. I didn't just see any ridiculously good deals."

Mat Kearney selected for March 2014 concert

The Campus Activities Board announced that artist Mat Kearney was selected to come to campus for a concert in the spring. CAB conducted a poll and then a run-off vote to decide which artist to bring to campus.

"It's an honor to be selected," Kearney said. "I can't wait to see what the student body has in store for us."

The Bisons prepare for the first ever United Texarkana Killer Bowl against Texas A&M -- Commerce.

Black Friday sales fall flat

by Bradley Cain

COURTNEY BOOK

No charges will be brought against a Washburn student who allegedly instigated the collision which killed Harding student Courtney Book, according to the Associated Press. Prosecuting Attorney Chris Raff said the collision was an "unavoidable accident," that Book had been wearing dark clothing and then went to remove his bike on the campus. The driver, Brandon Grimes collided with Book, riding his bike, in his patrol car around 9 p.m. on Oct. 11.

The Bisons prepare for the first

In Part 3 of this series, meet the Searcy police department.
After an estimated two-dozen tornadoes hit Illinois on Monday, Harding students used part of their Thanksgiving break to assist residents of Washington, Ill., Jasmine Pierce and Mark Elrod, professor of political science, all helped people clean up and worked at a distribution center.

"We all agreed to do any cleanup on Monday or Tuesday because the town had closed down so that they could do what they needed to get done," Pierce said. "So for those two days we worked at a distribution center in downtown Washington (Ill.). The Distribution Center is different than the downtown Washington (Old)."

Pierce said they got the supplies such as food boxes, personal care items, boxes, baby formula and cleaning supply buckets. She said, however, that being at the distribution center was more than just giving things to people, they were also just "handing out tools." They were told those in need were coming to help.

"I was there talking to those people and that they didn't need help and we asked them to go anywhere that they needed help and we asked them to get any blankets and food boxes, baby formula and just any food that was left standing and just hand those people the blankets and food boxes," Pierce said. "I never knew of that was always talking to those people that were from outside perspectives." She, Elrod, and Andrew Baker, director of the Mitchell Center, are currently working to put together a relief trip for other students, but no plans have been officially set up.

"God bless you" is written on a chalkboard inside a home destroyed by the tornadoes in Washington, Ill. Jasmine Pierce helped with the cleanup of the house and neighboring residence along with senior Kyle Reeves.

"(We) brought up gallons of water and a few other cleaning supplies paid for by Harding, Pierce said. That day during the cleanup of one of the houses, "There was a blackboard or written afterwards as a way of thank you to the volunteers. Either way, it was really encouraging to the Mitchell Center, are currently working to put together a relief trip for other students, but no plans have been officially set up.

"I was there talking to those people and that they didn't need help and we asked them to go anywhere that they needed help and we asked them to get any blankets and food boxes, baby formula and just any food that was left standing and just hand those people the blankets and food boxes," Pierce said. "I never knew of that was always talking to those people that were from outside perspectives." She, Elrod, and Andrew Baker, director of the Mitchell Center, are currently working to put together a relief trip for other students, but no plans have been officially set up.

"God bless you" is written on a chalkboard inside a home destroyed by the tornadoes in Washington, Ill. Jasmine Pierce helped with the cleanup of the house and neighboring residence along with senior Kyle Reeves.

"(We) brought up gallons of water and a few other cleaning supplies paid for by Harding, Pierce said. That day during the cleanup of one of the houses, "There was a blackboard or written afterwards as a way of thank you to the volunteers. Either way, it was really encouraging to the Mitchell Center, are currently working to put together a relief trip for other students, but no plans have been officially set up.

"God bless you" is written on a chalkboard inside a home destroyed by the tornadoes in Washington, Ill. Jasmine Pierce helped with the cleanup of the house and neighboring residence along with senior Kyle Reeves.

"(We) brought up gallons of water and a few other cleaning supplies paid for by Harding, Pierce said. That day during the cleanup of one of the houses, "There was a blackboard or written afterwards as a way of thank you to the volunteers. Either way, it was really encouraging to the Mitchell Center, are currently working to put together a relief trip for other students, but no plans have been officially set up.

"God bless you" is written on a chalkboard inside a home destroyed by the tornadoes in Washington, Ill. Jasmine Pierce helped with the cleanup of the house and neighboring residence along with senior Kyle Reeves.

"(We) brought up gallons of water and a few other cleaning supplies paid for by Harding, Pierce said. That day during the cleanup of one of the houses, "There was a blackboard or written afterwards as a way of thank you to the volunteers. Either way, it was really encouraging to the Mitchell Center, are currently working to put together a relief trip for other students, but no plans have been officially set up.
To Beau or Not to Beau:
Why There's No Question

clint peyton

guest writers

---

At Harding University, students have been known to go so far as to say, "If you're at Harding, you are in a unique era in which we are, to an extent, creating our own path to wherever we want to go.

Hazing at Harding:

In the fall of my freshman year, I came to Harding as a last shot at faith. The church I grew up in was anything but loving. My parents taught me the importance of church and having my own faith. They tried to teach me about the finer points of church and family, but I simply didn't care about those things when I went to church.

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Endings are Just Dramatic Beginnings

When my friends, family, and people I've continuously brainstormed to make my column one time after another has ended, I've decided to use some classic movie endings to help supplement my writing. While there are still many other things that can be done in this success-driven world, it's clear that the beauty of it all is that we do not need to create another classic. The idea that your career cannot ever be just entering, even if you are currently just entering with your hands tied, is much more possible. It's important to be open to whatever we want to go. Spider-Man (The Amazing Spider-Man: Grace and Truth — I know, I know. This isn't a real classic ending, but I still believe in this one with this "it's my right, my curse. Who am I? I'm the Spider-Man."") is a movie that had a shock, but I actually want Spider-Man (though I am sometimes under the influence of some other) for the rest of your life.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.

---

Hazing at Harding:

In the final scene, Dorothy goes to the church for the first time in her life. She is surrounded by the love and compassion of the church members. They teach her about the finer points of church and family, but she simply doesn't care about those things when she goes to church. It was like God was just hanging this whole world up in front of me. I was angry at church and couldn't understand why you would choose to be a part of something like that. However, I was taught that faith is a personal thing, and that faith is what you believe in, not what you do for me.
Refresh Your Creativity by Christmas

At this moment, we are tight in the middle of the two weeks of some time-honored break. I hope your not-so-dead week has been full of productivity, but I realize that it has probably also been full of stress, sleeplessness, and a need for the comforts of Christmas break.

Instead of visions of sugar plums, you probably had visions of shopping lists and Netflix dancing in your head. Frankly, I really do. It’s productive to take a few days for some R&B, but I hope your entire break go to waste.

Breaks from class are a great time to catch up on everything you’ve been meaning or wanting to do but didn’t have the time, space, or productive (but still relaxing) ways you can get more creative during your three-week break:

Wireless. Whether it’s a used stack of magazines, mailing to open one of those tasks that gets pushed to the back burner when you are busy. I have previously mentioned in this column, exposing yourself to more information and perspectives will help you think and innovate in more creative and innovative ways. Take some time to learn something new and innovative, the childhood luxury of reading for pleasure.

While I know after I read something new or existing, I am always more creative during my day, I am interested in and start a blog. Having original content on the Internet won’t only make you more appealing to future employers, it will help you network, record your thoughts and keep you accountable.

Questioning your audience is extremely beneficial, it can be overwhelming for some people. If you don’t know who you are writing for, plan to start a journal. Network. Much like reading, talking to people with different thought-leaders can expose you to different processes and ideas. Do some research and find a few people who are interested in the same topics as you. It is perfect for women, I am not sure about men, but I can see where hordes of men are nowhere more expected. Then call, email or visit and learn from them. Whether you gain a thought-provoking conversation or not, you have nothing to lose.

Set goals. I’m not talking about some money and change New Year’s resolution. Figure out what project or goals you want to accomplish, write it down and make a plan of attack. Know your priorities and capabilities and give yourself some wiggle room, but don’t be afraid to dream big and be ambitious.

Lastly, take a new hobby. Try crafting, cooking, lifting weights or anything that interests you. A lot of the time, the simplest ways of being excited to focus your energy on is just what you need to refocus, renew, revise, and feel like life is incredible.

Christmas break is the perfect time to get reorganized and to approach the new semester with a newfound creativity and determination.

LYNDSEY RUBLE NICKOLES is the editor-in-chief of The Lightbulb. She may be contacted at lightbulb@nd.edu.

Twitter: @lyndseyricknicks

Earlier Guidance Needed for Students

M ost college students change their major at least once while they are enrolled in a university. Since the American educational system does not prepare us enough for our future. We learn common subjects that are important, but not enough of the skills that will help us in our profession. When it is time for Americans to enter college, very few know what career field they want to enter. It is acceptable to not have an idea and try several different options, but it would be wise to get ahead and have some ideas before we enter college. The American educational system should allow the option of taking courses at young age dedicated to the pursuit of discovering subjects that specifically encompass our interests.

In other countries, you are exposed very early to subjects that you may be interested in. You then attend a college that is specific to that subject. They do not have general courses required for graduation at universities. This is an important step of allowing students to not waste any time in deciding what profession to major in. A way of obtaining more student interest in school to decrease the dropout rate is high in school.

American schools focus on encouraging knowledge into students instead of allowing them to develop active skills and the motivation to study. These qualities are essential to becoming well-rounded human beings. Knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic are always guaranteed subjects to learn in school, but we are now asked to focus more on preparing children for the world outside of school. Most freshmen going into college have no idea of what they want to study. This is something because there is no standard for students to even be thinking of a career.

Once we enter middle school, we should have different career skills involved. This way, we will be able to keep those skills in mind when entering high school we could then be able to take specific courses that will enhance our skills. A high school student starting to take certain courses in junior high and high school, we will have an understanding of our interests and not worry about the time we want trying to decide to college. College students will then be able to worry about a more worthwhile education.

MEGAN SMITH is a guest writer for the Bison.

She may be contacted at megansm1992harding@gmail.com

---

Classic Can

Purses, Foiled Again

The differences between men and women are nowhere more confounding in the realm of fashion than in to women's handbags. I was sent to the mall on an errand to find a pocketbook for my sister-in-law for Christmas. This is the same woman who once mumbled an uncomplimentary opinion when I (accidentally) picked up a pair of skin- It was high time for me to rediscover myself after that fact, my head to Macy’s in search of the ideal purse.

There is no way I could have been prepared for this disaster. Having a Ph.D. from Chapel Hill, I discovered that no institution of higher learning in the world — no matter how good its basketball team is — can equip a person of my gender to select a designer handbag. Remember in the third Indiana Jones movie where Indy had to choose the end of the film was a life of fairy tales? Remember what happened to the bad guy who chose the wrong grill and suffered an excruciating death? Now understand what it is like to be a woman. As I’ve come to learn, I am deadly serious about their handbags.

I arrived at the pocketbook section at Macy’s. I was about twice the size of most department store handbag departments. A uniformed man with runway flashlights was pointing people toward the Kenneth Cole, while an unaw shamed sign read, “Giani Bernini Section — two blocks ahead.” Every few moments, waves of mall shoppers would pass the bag that I was looking at as a sale with an eagerness that was palpable. “The train for the Ninew isni! We leave in three minutes!” someone on the intercom announced. It occurred to me that this woman was speaking to me in a way that I never would have been able to understand. It was the sort of thing I thought better of it and said I was in the market for a clutch, this being a difficult but manageable task. There is no way I could have been prepared for this disaster. Having a Ph.D. from Chapel Hill, I discovered that no institution of higher learning in the world — no matter how good its basketball team is — can equip a person of my gender to select a designer handbag. Remember in the third Indiana Jones movie where Indy had to choose the end of the film was a life of fairy tales? Remember what happened to the bad guy who chose the wrong grill and suffered an excruciating death? Now understand what it is like to be a woman. As I’ve come to learn, I am deadly serious about their handbags.

I awakened to a horrible truth. Coach bags are not cheap. In fact, for the price of Coach bag, I could rent the best hotels in the world for a month and fly cross-country to Zanzibar in coach, or buy the most expensive perfume for the woman if she could point me to the store. It was no surprise that my bank had been侦查ed last month, but it is frightening to think that we are going to spend that kind of money on a pocketbook. Shikarik, I asked the woman if she could point me to the coach store. I had always heard of people being thrown out of department stores, but I didn’t think it literally happened. You don’t want to meet the woman with the bank. May’s, Fortunately, a woman outside the store had set her Hermes Kelly bag on that ground at just that moment, and it broke in two. She later said that the coach store.

Carly? Heratche? Hafman? I thought better of it and said I was in the market for a clutch, this being a difficult but manageable task. There is no way I could have been prepared for this disaster. Having a Ph.D. from Chapel Hill, I discovered that no institution of higher learning in the world — no matter how good its basketball team is — can equip a person of my gender to select a designer handbag. Remember in the third Indiana Jones movie where Indy had to choose the end of the film was a life of fairy tales? Remember what happened to the bad guy who chose the wrong grill and suffered an excruciating death? Now understand what it is like to be a woman. As I’ve come to learn, I am deadly serious about their handbags.

Carol? Heratche? Hafman? I thought better of it and said I was in the market for a clutch, this being a difficult but manageable task. There is no way I could have been prepared for this disaster. Having a Ph.D. from Chapel Hill, I discovered that no institution of higher learning in the world — no matter how good its basketball team is — can equip a person of my gender to select a designer handbag. Remember in the third Indiana Jones movie where Indy had to choose the end of the film was a life of fairy tales? Remember what happened to the bad guy who chose the wrong grill and suffered an excruciating death? Now understand what it is like to be a woman. As I’ve come to learn, I am deadly serious about their handbags.
Basketball shows signs of promising seasons

by Shane Schock

As a press conference held on Nov. 20, the Lone Star Texarkan Bowl organization selected Harding University out of the Great American Conference to face Texas A&M-Commerce in the Lone Star Conference. The first Lone Star Bowl at Rusk Stadium in Texarkana, Arkansas, has been postponed due to inclement weather. Officials made the decision Thursday morning and are working on rescheduling the game.

The Bulldogs began a 3-2 record the second straight week, which took back-to-back eight wins for the first time in school history.

The team came back against Thanksgiving break and got right back to work, starting their practice schedule Saturday to get back on the ground as they left off against Arkansas Tech. "We finally played how we came out," football coach Ronnie Hodges said. "We looked like we had fresh legs, and we didn't miss a beat from an execution standpoint."

Hodges said going into break, there were very few days that he disposed, and two hope to see players like senior Ty Frielie junior Jason Offer and sophomore Eric Simmons back in action Sunday, healthy and ready to go.

The Bulldogs look to continue their dominance on the ground as they finished third in the NCAA with 366 yards rushing per game. When they do pass the ball, they rank as the best in DII with 22 yards per pass.

To run the ball effectively, the Bulldogs need the front five to not have a good performance, but a dominant one as they take on the Lion team which is among the best in the nation in tackles for loss (10.7) and second in sacks (4.4) game. Junior offensive lineman Mike Thompson said he is ready for a battle. "We have to play our game and grind it out on the ground, which we've shown to be effective at," Thompson said. "They have a very talented D-line, however, I don't believe they've faced an offensive line as athletic as ours."

Definitely, the Bulldogs will have their hands full as the Texas A&M-Commerce Lions will be showing off as they average more than 300 yards a game passing, something Harding has had trouble stopping in previous games.

Harding allowed only 7.1 yards a game, which could lead to the Lions being one-dimensional at the bowl game.

"I think the break was good for us and we will allow us to practice at a more physical pace than the past few games," offensive safety Adrian Williams said. "The message was simple, we are not done yet. We are still playing for our seniors and for our program, so we are going to do our absolute best place," Williams said.

The Bulldogs faced the Lions three times between 1995-2001, posting a record of 1-2.

"This game means a lot for our team, our coaching staff and our school," Williams said. "We are ready for anything they throw at us, and we will counter in dominant fashion."
Marindia

Auburn, on the other hand, finished their previous came around, Jordan in the Iron Bowl, when back-to-back national with Alabama. and that it did. what seemed to be the had deep could return the fond of the other. over.

and Auburn a reputation for not being is an easy team to just roll rankings, but it is also a and Auburn were tied up Then the worst of the everyone knew about it. Bowl with only one loss the country play the No. while Alabama managed three - point victory. The football games of all turn out.

football was played, and They came into the Iron watch the No . one of the most historic despite all the adversity held on for the win. Auburn managed to land shirt freshman to attempt rivalries in all of college going on in the program. Who didn't want to not one, but two punts a 57-yard kick that would November and we really need to work on building a new team chemistry without chemistry without

got 14 digs on the defensive side. Junior setter Taryn Eubank had 31 assists. Daktronics All-Central Region second team. Copeland had 69th double-double with 16 kills and 13 digs. Arnold was also named to the Dakotinos All-Central Region second team. Copeland had 14 digs on the defensive side. Junior setter Taryn Eubank had 31 assists. "We

"I am very pleased on how the season ended," Turner said. "We lost three very important members of our team and we really need to work on building a new team chemistry without them," Turner said. "We need new Our Athletes' Views on Pop Culture questions

Will you be on Santa's "Nice List"?

What is your favorite Christmas tradition?

What would your elf name be?

What is your favorite Christmas movie?

Which reindeer would you be?

I have been extremely nice.

I really hope I have been nice and would be the worst.

I have been pretty nice.

I pooped the lift.

Nice.

Did you watch the "Grinch" (movie)?

I am known on the campus as "Elf.

For next season, according to Turner, the team needs to improve on finishing games strong. Several matches this season ended with the opponent on top due to final point errors by the Lady Bisons. According to Short, it is difficult to transition between seasons because of the addition and loss of players. "One of our weaknesses has always been the final few points of close games," she said. "It is important for the team to continue to work on that in the upcoming season." Short was nostalgic as this was her last season to play for the Lady Bisons. She was extremely grateful to her teammates, friends and coaches.

We lost three very important members of our team and we really need to work on building a new team chemistry without them," Turner said. "We need new rankings, but it is also a and Auburn were tied up Then the worst of the everyone knew about it. Bowl with only one loss the country play the No. while Alabama managed three - point victory. The football games of all turn out.

football was played, and They came into the Iron watch the No . one of the most historic despite all the adversity held on for the win. Auburn managed to land shirt freshman to attempt rivalries in all of college going on in the program. Who didn't want to not one, but two punts a 57-yard kick that would November and we really need to work on building a new team chemistry without

chemistry without

got 14 digs on the defensive side. Junior setter Taryn Eubank had 31 assists. Daktronics All-Central Region second team. Copeland had 69th double-double with 16 kills and 13 digs. Arnold was also named to the Dakotinos All-Central Region second team. Copeland had 14 digs on the defensive side. Junior setter Taryn Eubank had 31 assists. "We

"I am very pleased on how the season ended," Turner said. "We lost three very important members of our team and we really need to work on building a new team chemistry without them," Turner said. "We need new Our Athletes' Views on Pop Culture questions

Will you be on Santa's "Nice List"?

What is your favorite Christmas tradition?

What would your elf name be?

What is your favorite Christmas movie?

Which reindeer would you be?

I have been extremely nice.

I really hope I have been nice and would be the worst.

I have been pretty nice.

I pooped the lift.

Nice.

Did you watch the "Grinch" (movie)?

I am known on the campus as "Elf.

For next season, according to Turner, the team needs to improve on finishing games strong. Several matches this season ended with the opponent on top due to final point errors by the Lady Bisons. According to Short, it is difficult to transition between seasons because of the addition and loss of players. "One of our weaknesses has always been the final few points of close games," she said. "It is important for the team to continue to work on that in the upcoming season." Short was nostalgic as this was her last season to play for the Lady Bisons. She was extremely grateful to her teammates, friends and coaches.

We lost three very important members of our team and we really need to work on building a new team chemistry without them," Turner said. "We need new
In the tri-county area, people are very trusting. They go for females and males. This is a safe city, going for females and males. This is a safe city, walking around don't walk by yourself, and this is a safe city for females and males. This is a safe city, but sometimes we are still going to have the same problems on larger cities. Harding is a very safe environment. It is protected from the inside and Public Safety from the outside. Harding Public Safety needs us, they don't have to call us.
Keep It Real
Post about whatever happens during the day. Keep it spontaneous, whether it’s about a group of people you come across in the library, an art family photograph or just about what’s going on in your daily life.

Stay Connected
My phone is not set to alert me with social media notifications, and I recommend that I don’t know it’s possible to get service in your room, but for the social media in real life is something that it’s important for me to go to class in.

Who To Follow
I follow 207 accounts. But I don’t think there’s any better feed that I could have without any given day. I have followed a number of students in different fields, all of the top of the list.

What Makes A Top-tweet
This tweet is so popular that I can’t eat and wait for that. I think a situation that makes me want to think about the internet outrage with you as a good trend. It gives me hope and there’s a lot going on, I either verify a questionable tweet or can’t. I hope social media should be positive and should just be an easy-to-read-for-your-followers.

Make Fun Of Yourself Instead of Others
I don’t think a tweet should ever ask you off. That’s just bad policy. I don’t think Twitter is the place to say. All of the more I can’t say, but how! If I’m interested to add a little more, you need to count to 5000 and then think about it, even after that.

#Hash tags
If you’re a novice, like me, be careful. Tweeple doesn’t want to know what’s going on in your face or even a tear in your eye.

If
If you don’t think a tweet should ever ask you off. That’s just bad policy. I don’t think Twitter is the place to say. All of the more I can’t say, but how! If I’m interested to add a little more, you need to count to 5000 and then think about it, even after that.

1. Stir-Fry
It’s easy to college’s best friend whenever it’s time to clean out the fridge. Throw whatever muck, proteins and vegetables you have into a pan, dress in your sauce and call it a meal. It’s the college version of a creek pot dinner, because both are in a pot just all for leftovers, stir-fry takes a fraction of the time to cook.

Ingredients:
• Whatever sauce you have (rice, noodles, pasta)
• Any frozen vegetables you bought on a kick, but failed to eat.
• Chicken or any other protein.
• Collection of soy sauce packets you have accumulated for a semester’s worth of trips to Sushi Cafe and Asian Bistro.

Instructions: Cook rice, noodles or any pasta according to the package instructions. Microwave frozen vegetables in a small microwave safe bowl. Heat your stir-fry sauce. Place contents in a single skillet, add the rice and vegetables and soy sauce. Let everything cook together for 5-7 minutes, stirring occasionally.

2. Oatmeal Apple Muffins
These make a perfect go to breakfast, afternoons snack or Christmas gift for your roommates.

Ingredients:
• 2 cups rolled oats (not quick-cook).
• 1/2 cup milk (I used oat milk).
• 1/2 tsp. baking powder.
• 1/2 tsp. salt.
• 2 large eggs, lightly beaten.
• 1 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, melted.
• 3/4 cup sugar.
• 2 tsp. lemon extract.

Instructions: Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease a 12 muffin tin. In a medium bowl, mix the dry ingredients and set aside for instructions. Meanwhile, in a large bowl, mix together the dry ingredients, making well in the centre Stir in the liquid ingredients and the oatmeal mixture until just combined, being careful not to over mix. Fill in chapped apple. Bake for 16-18 minutes.

Tips and recipes to help you clear your fringe of the random leftovers

Served with:

by Jess Boyd

What is sitting in your fridge and pantry before break? What portable items are you frantically trying to eat before break so you don’t have to throw them away? Common leftover items include: rice (rice, noodles, pasta), tomato sauce, peanut butter, apples, baked goods, deli meat, cheese, mustard, bread, soup and chicken.

When in doubt, you can never go wrong with peanut and tomato sauce for dinner. And for a finals study session snack, put peanut butter on everything: bread, apples, celery, carrots, it’s what makes a top-tweet.

Make Fun Of Yourself Instead of Others
I don’t think a tweet should ever ask you off. That’s just bad policy. I don’t think Twitter is the place to say. All of the more I can’t say, but how! If I’m interested to add a little more, you need to count to 5000 and then think about it, even after that.

#Hash tags
If you’re a novice, like me, be careful. Tweeple doesn’t want to know what’s going on in your face or even a tear in your eye.

If
If you don’t think a tweet should ever ask you off. That’s just bad policy. I don’t think Twitter is the place to say. All of the more I can’t say, but how! If I’m interested to add a little more, you need to count to 5000 and then think about it, even after that.

1. Stir-Fry
It’s easy to college’s best friend whenever it’s time to clean out the fridge. Throw whatever muck, proteins and vegetables you have into a pan, dress in your sauce and call it a meal. It’s the college version of a creek pot dinner, because both are in a pot just all for leftovers, stir-fry takes a fraction of the time to cook.

Ingredients:
• Whatever sauce you have (rice, noodles, pasta)
• Any frozen vegetables you bought on a kick, but failed to eat.
• Chicken or any other protein.
• Collection of soy sauce packets you have accumulated for a semester’s worth of trips to Sushi Cafe and Asian Bistro.

Instructions: Cook rice, noodles or any pasta according to the package instructions. Microwave frozen vegetables in a small microwave safe bowl. Heat your stir-fry sauce. Place contents in a single skillet, add the rice and vegetables and soy sauce. Let everything cook together for 5-7 minutes, stirring occasionally.

2. Oatmeal Apple Muffins
These make a perfect go to breakfast, afternoons snack or Christmas gift for your roommates.

Ingredients:
• 2 cups rolled oats (not quick-cook).
• 1/2 cup milk (I used oat milk).
• 1/2 tsp. baking powder.
• 1/2 tsp. salt.
• 2 large eggs, lightly beaten.
• 1 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, melted.
• 3/4 cup sugar.
• 2 tsp. lemon extract.

Instructions: Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease a 12 muffin tin. In a medium bowl, mix the dry ingredients and set aside for instructions. Meanwhile, in a large bowl, mix together the dry ingredients, making well in the centre Stir in the liquid ingredients and the oatmeal mixture until just combined, being careful not to over mix. Fill in chapped apple. Bake for 16-18 minutes.

Tips and recipes to help you clear your fringe of the random leftovers

Served with:

by Jess Boyd

What is sitting in your fridge and pantry before break? What portable items are you frantically trying to eat before break so you don’t have to throw them away? Common leftover items include: rice (rice, noodles, pasta), tomato sauce, peanut butter, apples, baked goods, deli meat, cheese, mustard, bread, soup and chicken.

When in doubt, you can never go wrong with peanut and tomato sauce for dinner. And for a finals study session snack, put peanut butter on everything: bread, apples, celery, carrots, it’s what makes a top-tweet.

Make Fun Of Yourself Instead of Others
I don’t think a tweet should ever ask you off. That’s just bad policy. I don’t think Twitter is the place to say. All of the more I can’t say, but how! If I’m interested to add a little more, you need to count to 5000 and then think about it, even after that.

#Hash tags
If you’re a novice, like me, be careful. Tweeple doesn’t want to know what’s going on in your face or even a tear in your eye.

If
If you don’t think a tweet should ever ask you off. That’s just bad policy. I don’t think Twitter is the place to say. All of the more I can’t say, but how! If I’m interested to add a little more, you need to count to 5000 and then think about it, even after that.

1. Stir-Fry
It’s easy to college’s best friend whenever it’s time to clean out the fridge. Throw whatever muck, proteins and vegetables you have into a pan, dress in your sauce and call it a meal. It’s the college version of a creek pot dinner, because both are in a pot just all for leftovers, stir-fry takes a fraction of the time to cook.

Ingredients:
• Whatever sauce you have (rice, noodles, pasta)
• Any frozen vegetables you bought on a kick, but failed to eat.
• Chicken or any other protein.
• Collection of soy sauce packets you have accumulated for a semester’s worth of trips to Sushi Cafe and Asian Bistro.

Instructions: Cook rice, noodles or any pasta according to the package instructions. Microwave frozen vegetables in a small microwave safe bowl. Heat your stir-fry sauce. Place contents in a single skillet, add the rice and vegetables and soy sauce. Let everything cook together for 5-7 minutes, stirring occasionally.

2. Oatmeal Apple Muffins
These make a perfect go to breakfast, afternoons snack or Christmas gift for your roommates.

Ingredients:
• 2 cups rolled oats (not quick-cook).
• 1/2 cup milk (I used oat milk).
• 1/2 tsp. baking powder.
• 1/2 tsp. salt.
• 2 large eggs, lightly beaten.
• 1 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, melted.
• 3/4 cup sugar.
• 2 tsp. lemon extract.

Instructions: Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease a 12 muffin tin. In a medium bowl, mix the dry ingredients and set aside for instructions. Meanwhile, in a large bowl, mix together the dry ingredients, making well in the centre Stir in the liquid ingredients and the oatmeal mixture until just combined, being careful not to over mix. Fill in chapped apple. Bake for 16-18 minutes.

Tips and recipes to help you clear your fringe of the random leftovers

Served with: