Gas prices still under $2

By Zach Burgen

Gas prices have plunged in recent weeks, and many around the country are continuing to enjoy low prices into 2015. According to GasBuddy, an online service group that tracks gas prices, the state average for Arkansas is leveling out at just under $2 per gallon. The cause of the drop in oil prices has much more supply, too little demand. With an increase in production and a boom in shale fracking across the United States, the world market is buzzing over oil. Moreover, the Middle East is at war, and the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries has stopped pumping oil, which is essential in the event of any kind of production.

Now, GasBuddy states it has decreased in price by $1.29 in 2015 in 100 cities, an average of 35 cents. However, the benefits of the lower prices are not being realized by many along the border of the U.S. The area surrounding the oil industry has taken a financial hit because of the drop in price. The reduction in gas prices and the budget deficit can lead to a future decline in the economy. However, the residents of the country have been hit by the lower prices when they have fallen short to many households.

According to a recent report in The New York Times, gas prices have been a life-saver when wages have fallen short to many families. However, the benefits of the lower price are not being realized by many along the border of the U.S. The area surrounding the oil industry has taken a financial hit because of the drop in price. The reduction in gas prices and the budget deficit can lead to a future decline in the economy. According to a report in The New York Times, energy analysts have said that energy prices are going to be lower for the entire year. The decrease in gas prices has been a life-saver when wages have fallen short to many families. However, the benefits of the lower price are not being realized by many along the border of the U.S. The area surrounding the oil industry has taken a financial hit because of the drop in price. The reduction in gas prices and the budget deficit can lead to a future decline in the economy. However, the residents of the country have been hit by the lower prices when they have fallen short to many households.

The decrease in gas prices has been a life-saver when wages have fallen short to many families. However, the benefits of the lower price are not being realized by many along the border of the U.S. The area surrounding the oil industry has taken a financial hit because of the drop in price. The reduction in gas prices and the budget deficit can lead to a future decline in the economy. However, the residents of the country have been hit by the lower prices when they have fallen short to many households.
Faulkner selects Harding faculty, as next president

By Joshua Johnson

On Jan. 18, a senior fac­ulty member of Harding University accepted an offer to serve as President of the University in Montgomery, Ala. Dr. Daniel Ingram declared his intention to retire as the eight president of Faulkner University.

William has worked at Harding for 28 years as a te­ACHER, director of admissions and the first president of the university, a program that leads to offers of research opportunities for scholarships, enforcements of academic curriculums and more.

According to the statements made by President Bruce Hill, said that he was not on the job market, but was nominated for the position while he was. "I just want Mike and the many long­lasting conver­sations we’ve had about the institution, the last two decades, and about the future," said President Hill.

Roehl also said that many of his most cherished memories of his time at Harding have come from interactions with the students.”

"I remember Ayesa, a very bright student from Houston, Texas. I remember that she created a lease behind Harding property, he said. "I knew that my kids would like to drink deep from the wealth of knowledge there is in one of each one."

"If you can ever pull a team, you can jump right away from what's really happened, but it still says that you will remember, "We are all here to change the world. It's exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

Bump's classmate and friend Whitney Killiam said she appreciated the gesture. “I’m so grateful that Harding would agree to open the archive to all of them,” Murphy said.

Bump’s roommate and close friend Whitney Killiam said she appreciated the gesture. “I’m so grateful that Harding would agree to open the archive to all of them,” Murphy said.

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best off er would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.

Students, grads dig archaeology club

By Layton Moore

The vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle, before coming to a stop beside the road. He was transported by helicopter to the hospital where he was not expected to live. He was flown to ICU two days later.

The best offer would be a new rescue mission, said Bump's mom. “We have paid for the victims to be able to pay their respects."

"If I had to describe the reality of the past through archaeology helps us to understand the way we have to think of things, I would say, "We are all here to change the world. It’s exciting and there are many opportunities out there, but it will also make you appreciate what you have."

Dr. Dale Manor discussed his passion for both subjects this semester on Jan. 13, where he spoke of his love for ancient artifacts with club members.
S

E

e r

i

a

e

h

i

i

i

l y

c

i

a l

h

o

s

s

1

a s

h

i

i

r

i

b

i

o

n

i

h

a

o

n

v

i

i

i

e

n

a

n

o

s

i

i

a

e

h

i

r

i

n

i

o

t

i

n

o

u

o

N

O

P

S

O

p

i

s

i

i

s

i

B

a

v

a l

f

l

p

o

o

i

i

v

1

a

l

f

p

o

o

i

i

Viva la flip phone

philip habegger
guest writer

A Twitter account. Some of these things I am no longer about keeping, and honestly I don’t even need to change. But there is one thing I will defend. And that is my flip phone — my beautiful, utilitarian flip phone.

In a world dominated by smartphones, I prefer to surf the internet without SnapChat, Twitter and group texting. To some of you, being loafed seems more than you can bear, and yet, you have been doing it for years and you seem to want it all your life. I have reached an age in a world where having a cell phone is as real as a ruler, that is, more than something we need, and that is completely dominating our culture.

By spending time with the same people and my parents. I would end up or the hard way.

Do I want a dog? Will I commit to a fitness program? Do I want to go somewhere completely new with people who don’t know me at all?

Are the questions running through my head all day, every day.

In my mind, there are two ways life could go after college; the way the hard way or the easy way.

One way may mean going home to Indianapolis and settling in where I have a church home and my parents. I would end up spending time with the same people and just getting away for all of my papers (just kidding — that is harder for me). I do not even have

I am not interested in art, and it is important and rare" said Swift in the Wall Street Journal’s “important, next things to value.”

Even in the midst of this digital age, we are reaching the “vinyl revival.” It is a time in which generations conditioned to pick their favorite tracks and memorize albums are returning to the “vinyl" format.

In the 2014-hyped album, Nielsen reported vinyl sales had increased by 18 percent in 2013. The year that sales reported that vinyl sales had increased by 30 percent in 2013. And in 2014, the statistics show a 2.7 million sales for 2014.

One result, I have decided my old bass guitar for a vintage sound system, including a record player. Since then, I have been

When I was a kid, my dad would quiz me on Beatles’ songs, and I could match lyrics or identify a song within its first few seconds. It made me feel like more

For me, music is emotional. Certain songs and albums evoke memories of dancing around the house with my dad, playing his "Beatles" playlist, or driving to Memphis with friends to see Lynyrd Skynyrd. Because music is personal. Albums are intrinsically emotional.

“Music is art, and it is important and rare.” Swift said in the Wall Street Journal’s “Important, next things to value.”

Even in the midst of this digital age, we are reaching the “vinyl revival.” It is a time in which generations conditioned to pick their favorite tracks and memorize albums are returning to the “vinyl" format.

In the 2014-hyped album, Nielsen reported vinyl sales had increased by 18 percent in 2013. The year that sales reported that vinyl sales had increased by 30 percent in 2013. And in 2014, the statistics show a 2.7 million sales for 2014.

One result, I have decided my old bass guitar for a vintage sound system, including a record player. Since then, I have been...

Andrea Decamp is a guest writer for the Iowan. She may be contacted at cdclark@iowamorning.com.
Nothing in life is really free

By ALEXIS HOSTICKA

I'm not saying you won't be able to go to the store and take a bottle of shampoo or a loaf of bread. If you do, however, you will have to buy one-gray, one-free bottle. But that's still more money you've spent than you need to.

Even things you receive for free, someone had to buy, and I feel like more gifts. The risks you drive on, the surgery that insurance covers, your elementary education, all of this is paid for by someone, somehow.

When President Obama said in his State of the Union address on Jan. 20 that he plans to encourage community college tuition, there was, of course, a lot of talk about how the increasing taxes on upper class Americans would pay for it past a certain point. And job opportunities are limited because more Americans are not going to school in the U.S. as just as educated as you are. It's the same thing with the community college; it could create the same stigma.

Now, don't get me wrong, being more educated is not a bad thing. However, higher education is not a--not exactly.

The hope to hard core their- and education. Scholarship money can do wonders for the ordinary college education. According to The Tribune, students who attend at least part-time, maintain a 2.5 GPA, and are enrolled in a transferable or high-demand program are eligible for the program, which seems like a very broad list of qualifications to get this as money. I'm sure there are already students who work hard, and there are some colleges that are not giving simply for that requirement. If you want to go to college, do not work hard enough to get into college. There are scholarships available based on GPA, not your class, your community service and more. What about the scholarships for GPA's when a student earns a 2.5 GPA, and is ready to put in the extra work to get a free education?

But let's get back to the point that is really a free one. The national debate over the issue of free college is simple. Not logistically.

Clearly, our government has a major cut in what we give before our finances are repaired. The last thing we need is to do add another item to our spending list.

Education is valuable and should be given more money than our government is using to help the poor. Education is more than a freeusion of education. Even things we receive for free, someone had to buy, and I feel like more gifts. The risks you drive on, the surgery that insurance covers, your elementary education, all of this is paid for by someone, somehow.

When President Obama said in his State of the Union address on Jan. 20 that he plans to encourage community college tuition, there was, of course, a lot of talk about how the increasing taxes on upper class Americans would pay for it past a certain point. And job opportunities are limited because more Americans are not going to school in the U.S. as just as educated as you are. It's the same thing with the community college; it could create the same stigma.

Now, don't get me wrong, being more educated is not a bad thing. However, higher education is not a--not exactly.

The hope to hard core their- and education. Scholarship money can do wonders for the ordinary college education. According to The Tribune, students who attend at least part-time, maintain a 2.5 GPA, and are enrolled in a transferable or high-demand program are eligible for the program, which seems like a very broad list of qualifications to get this as money. I'm sure there are already students who work hard, and there are some colleges that are not giving simply for that requirement. If you want to go to college, do not work hard enough to get into college. There are scholarships available based on GPA, not your class, your community service and more. What about the scholarships for GPA's when a student earns a 2.5 GPA, and is ready to put in the extra work to get a free education?

But let's get back to the point that is really a free one. The national debate over the issue of free college is simple. Not logistically.

Clearly, our government has a major cut in what we give before our finances are repaired. The last thing we need is to do add another item to our spending list.

Education is valuable and should be given more money than our government is using to help the poor. Education is more than a freeusion of education. Even things we receive for free, someone had to buy, and I feel like more gifts. The risks you drive on, the surgery that insurance covers, your elementary education, all of this is paid for by someone, somehow.
Super Bowl win this time.

to cheat their way to another New England's every move of sportsmanship.

Goodell give out, and will to their already poor resume of sportsmanship. Remember the first fault by New England.

It is not even the advantage. It is not need: a team looking for a way football was for the kicker I am guessing the twelfth football was for the kicker who would not benefit from a far football. This is what the NFL does not need a man looking for a way to sneak the game to the advantage. It is not for the first half by New England. Remember the "wegy gap" and the slight figure of a cup of Super Bowl opponent's walk into the Frenchmen. You now added the "African game" to their already poor resume of sportsmanship.

What now? What will Commissioner Roger Goodell give out, and it will be enough to really affect their organizations. You can bet the NFL will be paying close attention to New England's every move when they meet the Seattle Seahawks. It seems that the PAT will not be able to take part in this Super Bowl win this time.

The Bisons are working hard to improve as the season continues.

Bisons working hard to improve as the season continues.

Arielle Saunders heading into the record books

Senior Lady Bison closing in on what only three other Hardy players have done.

Bisons working hard to improve as the season continues.

Senior forward Arielle Saunders leads the Lady Bisons in career offensive rebounds, defensive rebounds and block shots. She is on pace to becoming one of only three Hardy athletes to score 1,000 points and record 1,000 rebounds.

Arielle Saunders heading into the record books

Senior Lady Bison closing in on what only three other Hardy players have done.

Bisons working hard to improve as the season continues.

Senior forward Arielle Saunders leads the Lady Bisons in career offensive rebounds, defensive rebounds and block shots. She is on pace to becoming one of only three Hardy athletes to score 1,000 points and record 1,000 rebounds.

Arielle Saunders heading into the record books

Senior Lady Bison closing in on what only three other Hardy players have done.

Bisons working hard to improve as the season continues.

Senior forward Arielle Saunders leads the Lady Bisons in career offensive rebounds, defensive rebounds and block shots. She is on pace to becoming one of only three Hardy athletes to score 1,000 points and record 1,000 rebounds.

Arielle Saunders heading into the record books

Senior Lady Bison closing in on what only three other Hardy players have done.

Bisons working hard to improve as the season continues.
The Lady Bisons continue their winning ways

By Addison Hurt
Student Writer

The Lady Bisons continued their conference winning streak on Saturday, with a win over Southern Nazarene (SNU). In their sixth conference, the women’s basketball team came out with a 69-53 win, pushing that record to an impressive 9-0 in the Great American Conference (GAC). With that perfect record, manager of student media Hannah Brown managed to score two goals in the 10th minute. The win brings the Lady Bisons to 9-0 in the conference and 14-2 overall.

The Lady Bisons did exactly what they needed to do to secure the win. They came out in the first half with a 26-22 lead and continued their winning ways throughout the game.

Sophomore Andi Haney scored a perfect 10 in the Lady Bisons’ 69-53 win.

The Lady Bisons are led by second-year head coach Erin Zolothsber, a three-time Olympian. Zolothsber has served as the head coach and Lorie Four Carpet Courticker week. In 1,900 meter in her first meet of the year at the Birmingham-Southern Indoor Invitational, with a time of 5:50.40.

The Lady Bisons also look to senior runner Taylor Ledin, who was won her first race of the year at the Arkansas State Classic in December, and junior sprinter Corey Baswell, the school record holder in the 60 meter and 60 meter dash, to challenge in their respective events.

Cagle said that despite having so many different people in different events, the cohesion of the team is strong.

“Because we all focus on our events and the way he leads the team.”

The idea of cohesion on each unit exists throughout the program on both the men’s and women’s teams. Bailey said that a lot of this comes from Guppy and the way he leads the team.

There’s definitely a different dynamic here, which comes from having so many different athletes and events, Bailey said.

One of the goals for the team this year is to have to beat our own personal records. “Colman said. “As a whole, I think we’re stronger and faster than our previous seasons.”

Leading the way are seniors, junior Joci Buhler, the Lady Bisons’ discus thrower for her career, who looks to build on a strong 2019 campaign which saw her take home Outdoor All-America honors in the discus, and senior Ryan Coleman, who took third place in the shot put at the 2014 Lone Star Conference Championships.

The Bisons are also looking to senior cooker Taylor Ledin, who was her first race of the year at the Arkansas State Classic in December, and junior sprinter Corey Baswell, the school record holder in the 60 meter and 60 meter dash, to challenge in their respective events.

Cagle said that despite having so many different people in different events, the cohesion of the team is strong.

"Because we all focus on our events and the way he leads the team."

The idea of cohesion on each unit exists throughout the program on both the men’s and women’s teams. Bailey said that a lot of this comes from Guppy and the way he leads the team.

There’s definitely a different dynamic here, which comes from having so many different athletes and events, Bailey said.

One of the goals for the team this year is to have to beat our own personal records. "Colman said. "As a whole, I think we’re stronger and faster than our previous seasons."

Leading the way are seniors, junior Joci Buhler, the Lady Bisons’ discus thrower for her career, who looks to build on a strong 2019 campaign which saw her take home Outdoor All-America honors in the discus, and senior Ryan Coleman, who took third place in the shot put at the 2014 Lone Star Conference Championships.
Sophomore Ben Bauer models his clothing line, Patriot Values, on Jan 21. Patriot Values is a company Bauer started this semester. The name Patriot Values is inspired by Bauer’s love for America, as well as his personal spiritual roots.

Student turns pastime into profit

Sophomore entrepreneur promotes personal clothing brand inspired by patriotism, spiritual convictions

By Katie Diffone

Bauer started this semester. The name Patriot Values is inspired by Bauer’s love for America, as well as his personal spiritual roots.

I’m going to do this, (and wherever it goes, or however it takes off, I’m going to give the glory to God. - Ben Bauer, sophomore

By Madison James

Editor Writer

Senior Adam Dell took two semesters off this past year to pursue his passion for music in Denver, Colo.

"He and his wife do not expect Dell to accept his offer. He and his wife do not expect Dell to accept his offer.

"I think it shows huge potential that somebody so young has already started a small company. It shows a lot of leadership and that’s something that more people should strive for," Weber said.

"He’s not looking for the ultimate profit," Pratt said. "It’s something he enjoys doing."

By Emily Eason

The Bison

Student Writer

Sophomore Ben Bauer models his clothing line, Patriot Values, on Jan 21. Patriot Values is a company Bauer started this semester. The name Patriot Values is inspired by Bauer’s love for America, as well as his personal spiritual roots.

I’m going to do this, (and wherever it goes, or however it takes off, I’m going to give the glory to God. - Ben Bauer, sophomore

"You never about the money, but about the theater and movie showing. - Weberg said.

"Oddly enough, I didn’t think of a way to charge one dollar, now two dollars. This smarty pants business model I dreamed up in the spring, was all over done," Bauer said.

"I’d like to always tell a friend of mine, 'Choose something that you love, something that you love, something that you would even do if you had all the money in the world, and you won’t have to work a day of your life. You really need to be extremely conscious about what you want to do and make sure it’s something you love.'" - Weber

Philip Pratt, an employee at the Rialto for seven years, said that Weber never takes time off of work. Pratt said that Weber will leave for maybe one or two days, long enough to drive up to Colorado through the mountains, then come back ready to get back to work.

"We’re not looking for the ultimate profit," Pratt said. "It’s something he enjoys doing."
Empowering film tells moving story

By Rachel Brackins

"If you’re looking to see a movie that will send you skipping out of the theater with a grin on your face, do go see “Selma.” If you’re okay with being disheartened, heartbroken, challenged and energized, go see “Selma.”"

This movie is not like the melodramatic ones, which attempt to summarize a person’s entire life in two hours. Instead, this is the true story of what happened 50 years ago, and what you see on screen is the get-go.

"Selma’s" success is the result of a great actor portraying Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in the face of the entire movie is too cliché for the screen, but this film is all about the struggle with family, with rage and with courage. The story of Selma starts with its young leader speaking up to say enough is enough. It stars David Oyelowo as the young leader and an impressive cast of supporting actors. "Selma" is a must-see for anyone interested in the Civil Rights Movement. It tells the story of one of the most important moments in American history. It focuses on the events leading up to the Selma March, which was a pivotal moment in the Civil Rights Movement.

The film is directed by Ava DuVernay, who is known for her powerful and thought-provoking films. She has already won several awards for her previous films, including "13th" and "When They See Us." "Selma" is no exception, and it is a powerful reminder of the importance of voting rights and the struggle for equality.

At its heart, "Selma" is a story about the power of unity and the importance of coming together to fight for what is right. The film is a moving tribute to the courage of those who fought for civil rights, and it is a powerful reminder of the importance of standing up for what is right.

"Selma" is a powerful film that will inspire and motivate you to take action. It is a must-see for anyone interested in the Civil Rights Movement, and it is a powerful reminder of the importance of voting rights and the struggle for equality.