4-1-2016

The Bison, April 1, 2016

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.harding.edu/thebison

Recommended Citation
TRUMP APPEARS AT OPEN MIC NIGHT  GOP FRONTOPHER JUST KIND OF SHOWS UP: PERFORMS SPEAKED-WORD POETRY

By Hannah Moore  Student Writer

President David Barton spoke in a surprise appearance of Campus Activity Board’s (CAB) Open Mic Night this past Tuesday, March 29. The GOP frontrunner paired with full security to announce his performances and to perform spoken-word poetry.

Junior CAB employee and Open Mic facilitator Cole Swearengen said he tried to opt police cars and a little phone up beside the Student Community Room.

"Trump kind of just showed up without any warning," Swearengen said. "He kind of seguridad manager approached me and demanded that I stop a spot for him to perform. I let me and Trump said as he began his speech, "This was just low." Trump said he had been building up without warning," Swearengen said.

According to Harding’s senior security manager approached me and demanded that I stop a spot for him to perform. I let me and Trump said as he began his speech, "This was just low." Trump said he had been building up without warning," Swearengen said.

Republican representative Donald Trump came to campus unannounced on Tuesday, March 29 to perform spoken-word poetry at Open Mic Night. Attendees seemed puzzled by his abrupt intrusion. A terrify knowledge was established at the link.harding.edu.

David Barton to speak at ASI

By Jordan Topp  Student Writer

The Department of Public Safety has begun to manually lock vehicles at public parking lots to reduce the amount of break-ins. Additional surveillance cameras have been added to most parking lots.

David Barton to speak at ASI

By Jordan Topp  Student Writer

The Department of Public Safety has begun to manually lock vehicles at public parking lots to reduce the amount of break-ins. Additional surveillance cameras have been added to most parking lots.
Lawn-A-Palooza aims to bring student body together through games, live music and food

By Claire Patton
Student Writer

Campus Activities Board (CAB) will host Lawn-A-Palooza on Saturday, April 11 on the front lawn. The event will include live music, games, food, and more. The event is free to attend and open to the entire Harding community.

"This event is taking place of what the (Lawn-A-Palooza) would be," Light said. "It's a community event, so we're looking for the students who want to come out."

Eight said that Lawn-A-Palooza will have several activities, such as a mini golf course, food trucks and a social media scavenger hunt. All of the proceeds will be donated to the Arkansas National Guard, which raises awareness for veterans' needs. Students can also donate money to the event.

"It's been surprise after surprise with the support coming out of the community," Baker said. "It was unexpected and one of the most generous things I have received throughout this entire ordeal."

Bullock said that he and his family are in the process of purchasing a new home, and he is planning to use the money to buy playground equipment for his five children.

"I hope I can put the money to the best possible use," Bullock said. "I figured getting something that can be a long time would be the best thing to do with it."

HUVA is planning to help Bullock with the transition to a new home, according to Baker.

"We're going to help move and put together his playground for his kids," Cooper said. "Having that come out — that's what we do."

Anyone interested in learning more about HUVA or campus veterans' affairs can contact Cooper at zacho@harding.edu or Fisher at britsh@harding.edu.
Choosing to be a victor

OLIVIA COOK is a guest writer for The Bison. He may be contacted at gwwhite2@harding.edu.

Finding your story

I want to be what I'm older engrossed in a book. I love the feeling of a book in my hand and feeling the images of a story as I read about it. I can get lost in a story and learn from it through the characters' eyes. This is one of my pet peeves in life. Tomato (toe) is the correct American pronunciation. | Staff

Zach Holly
editor-in-chief Kaleb Turner
news editor
David Salley
adviser
Savanna Delfino
features editor
Joshua Hite
opinions editor
Cowell

Caleb Rowan
assistant sports editor
Jamison

Rachel Brockin
business manager
Shane

Phoebe Cunningham
clay editor
Hayley

Michael Claxton
assistant art director
Emily Cunningham
assistant art director
Michelle Crenshaw
head web editor
Connell

Becky Girgenraich
assistant photographer
Drake

Margaret Hite
illustration/graphics editor
Kevin

Savannah Young
assistant web editor
Joseph

Alex Valdes
multimedia editor
Chase Gowan
assistant multimedia editor
Benjamin Kelm
assistant art director
Samantha Claxton
photography adviser
Alexa West
web editor
Amanda Claxton
assistant editor
Amanda Connell
assistant editor
Grace Claxton
copy editor
JOSHUA JOHNSON is the opinion editor for The Bison. He may be contacted at jjohnson@harding.edu; twitter: @joshuajohnson140.

guest writers

Michael Claxton
Galen White
Abigail Pratt
Bethany Smith
Madie McCool
Jenigan Teague
Peyton Nelson
Anna Watkins
Claire Paton
Alex Vengrove
Guest writer

The first thought I had was that this would be the end of life as I knew it. This was the end. This was all over. I had no control. I was in a state of uncertainty, one thing I was sure of was that I was not going to be held by a wheelchair. This was the only fear I have to live. MS has a mind of its own, it is the only one that can control it and I am sure it is impossible to know how someone is going to react to the disease.

I had no choice but to accept that I was not going to have control over my body. As long as I live, I have a disease that will continue to attack my body. I have MS, and I am not the only one. There are many others like me who are living with this disease.

I don’t know the final outcome of my life. I can do anything in the world; I won’t let anything get in my way. This is my story.

This is my story.
Let's talk about dog things

Hi everyone, my name is Kevin the Claxton and I contribute work under the identifying the work as the guest writers' own.哈尔丁大学给我写专栏。

I am sitting in the same spot too if I am sitting in the same spot too. I am just sniffing around owner, which is a good thing, because it drives us back to writing for this guest. Joshua Johnson at jjohnson4@harding.edu.

We are going to talk about naps. I know it is part of our center of their lives. There is pressure to put on a facade. For that reason, I think it's important as a student body to remain open to being vulnerable and genuine. That doesn't mean we're always baring our soul and heart, but it means we are willing to admit struggling and not understanding the situation we are in. When we are humble enough to be genuine, we can be used to make a tangible contribution to our peers' hearts and lives.

I am just overwhelmed as a result. Wow. I am just overwhelmed. The bottom line here is that we are too good to be having fake conversations. We each share genuine. That doesn't mean we're always baring our soul and heart, but it means we are willing to admit struggling and not understanding the situation we are in. When we are humble enough to be genuine, we can be used to make a tangible contribution to our peers' hearts and lives. When he responds, I can tell him some stuff about what I am thinking on my life and truly want me to help. Everyone can be a Luke in their life.

We are going to talk about what people think it is okay to be fake with. Sometimes we want to be genuine, we can be used to make a solid impact in people's lives. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword. We hold ourselves to a higher standard, from most universities, which is a double-edged sword.
Men's tennis stays hot in doubles

Bisons look to build mental toughness in quest for GAC title

By Caleb Rowan

Art, Sports Editor

The men’s tennis team continued its success in doubles play and secured a 7-2 victory over Lindenwood University (LU) on March 29.

The Bisons swept the doubles competition for the second straight season after sophomore Carlos Cacace and freshman Henrik Vieira swept out match points on their way to a 9-7 win.

Trailing 7-1, 6-0, 6-1, LU No. 1 doubles team, Cacace and Vieira won three straight points to get back in action. After winning more match points, a disputed "no call" stoppage allowed the teams to discuss the point. When play resumed, the Bisons duo saved yet another match point and won the next four games to seal the victory.

Vieira said the call was frustrating, but he and Cacace were determined to fight back and win the match.

"(Cacace) was really angry, so I just told him to calm down and get focused again," Vieira said. "He made some really good returns in that game after that, and we did all we had to do to win the game, even though we weren't playing our best."

Vieira, junior Neto Cacace and Brandon Highland, and sophomore Adrian Torianic all won singles matches to clinch the match for the Bisons, after losing five of six singles matches in Southwest Baptist University three days earlier.

According to Cacace, the team has been working on bringing confidence into its doubles play into its singles matches.

"We're beating all the good teams in doubles, even the ranked ones, and we're always outplaying them," Cacace said. "It's single, it's totally mental. We're all good singles players, but some of the guys are not always feeling confident because they haven't played well in the other singles matches."

Cacace said that more positive body language and vocal encouragement would boost the confidence of the players. He said that and some of his teammates try to encourage each other by choosing to play the singles matches.

"Sometimes people play a match and you see your teammate losing and getting down and you obviously start to get down on yourself, but if you see them winning and feel good, it lifts your spirits up," Cacace said. "(Uncoordinated) is one of the things we’ve been working on this year...and we told a couple of our players that are not very loud to be (more vocal)."

Vieira said the team's mental toughness is all that stands between them and a Great American Conference (GAC) championship, which would be Harding's first.

"I think you have to believe in yourself, believe in your skills and play to be able to play, and be comfortable with the uncomfortable," Vieira said. "If everybody plays 100 percent, we can (win conference)."

Results from the Bisons' match against John Brown University on Thursday, March 30, are unavailable as of press time. The Bisons will begin GAC play against Southeastern Oklahoma State University on April 3, April 7, and April 14 at the Harding Tennis courts.

Rhodes-Reeves Fieldhouse to add more names

"Two ‘R’ names not enough, more expected by 2016-17 school year"

By David Salley

The Rhodes-Reeves Fieldhouse will not be expanding in size alone next year, but in name as well.

The name "Reeves" was added to the former Rhodes Fieldhouse at the beginning of the 2013-14 school year due to the generous donation from Chairman of the Board Roy Reaves which funded the new practice facility. The name change was so widely accepted that the Harding Athletic Department decided it two names were good, three or more would be even better.

"It’s really just common sense," said senior Andrew McCutchen, who missed out on the Rhodes-Reeves fieldhouse due to injury.

"We’re looking to add more names to allow people to come out and support the school in their own way."

While many have speculated what names will be added to the official title, our source said that just about any "R" name will do.

"Ryan, Rudy, Buck, Ron, Ronald...you get the idea," the source said. "Buck is especially good because of the biblical connection. We also really like Rocky, even though that’s a first name. What was that guy’s last name from ‘Rudy? Ranchette’?"

"Yeah, I think we are looking into that," Vieira said.

The addition of new names to the Rhodes-Reeves Fieldhouse, although widely praised as a brilliant marketing ploy, is not without its restrictions.

"Everyone says that more positive things will happen when we don’t add new names," Vieira said. "I mean, the second letter in the last name from ‘Rudy? Ranchette’?"

"I just don’t see why they can’t put a couple on there somewhere," Vieira said. "But that’s really no downside.

"You don’t want anyone to see about what names will be added to the official title, our source said.

"We’re going to make the best first five out of a hat, and after that we will get together and discuss what other names we would like to add. It’s difficult for money, the school to allocate and I don’t think that was the whole thing."

Early names of names to be added include, but are not limited to, Robuck, the last name of Harding sophomore basketball player Joseph Robuck, Recheski, the second word in the name of the popular Snyder Mi Recheski—which was one of the candidates for a slip on the building and Rossette, the last name of Boswell’s athletic director, Gary Rosette—appears runner-up amongst possibilities.

"Salleys, Ragins, Reaves, Rocketts, Rodericks would be on the shortlist to be added to the R.R. Fieldhouse list to be unveiled on April Fool’s Day."
Lady Bisons victory in first GAC match

By Amanda Floyd
Head Photographer
By Clint Rowan
Assist. Sports Editor

The Lady Bisons split their weekend with a win over Eastern Kentucky on Saturday, March 26, but a loss to Southeastern Oklahoma State University (SNU) on Sunday, March 27. The Lady Bisons improved their record to 25-13 overall and 10-1 in the Great American Conference (GAC).

The Lady Bisons started the weekend with a win over EKU, 7-3, on Saturday, March 26. The Lady Bisons began the game strong, scoring four runs in the top of the first inning to take the lead. The Lady Bisons continued to bat and score throughout the game, winning 11-2. After the game, the Lady Bisons' pitching coach, Ashley Johnson, was named the Great American Conference Pitcher of the Week.

On Sunday, March 27, the Lady Bisons faced SNU, and fell to the Lady Blues, 17-9. The Lady Bisons were still able to clinch the conference title as Butler, Faulkner and Smyser each won their matches, bringing the Lady Bisons to a 10-1 GAC record.

"Our matches have been very good so far, and I think we have a chance to compete for the conference championship," Redding said. "It will be tough, it will be hard, but we will be able to do it."

"I think the positive mindset is working so far, and I'm really encouraged by how the team has come together," Redding said. "We are looking to the next match, conference this year, and I'm hoping to improve our level of play to get a national ranking sometime in the near future."

The Lady Bisons are now 25-13 overall and 10-1 in the GAC, making them the conference leaders. They will next face East Central on Saturday, March 26, with a score of 7-5 in game one and the same for game two.

Softball down East Central, falls to Arkansas Tech

Maddie McGuire
Student Writer

The Lady Bisons started their weekend against East Central University (ECU) on Saturday, March 26. The Lady Bisons won 21-13 and 10-1 in the Great American Conference (GAC).

The Lady Bisons started their weekend with a win over ECU, 21-13, on Saturday, March 26. They scored three runs in the first inning, giving them an early lead. Freshman pitcher Alex Williamson stayed with the game, giving up six hits and two runs scored in five innings. The Lady Bisons returned to the field on Sunday, March 27, against Southeastern Oklahoma State University (SNU), and fell to the Lady Blues, 17-9. The Lady Bisons were still able to clinch the conference title, as Butler, Faulkner and Smyser each won their matches, bringing the Lady Bisons to a 10-1 GAC record.

"Our matches have been very good so far, and I think we have a chance to compete for the conference championship," Redding said. "It will be tough, it will be hard, but we will be able to do it."

"I think the positive mindset is working so far, and I'm really encouraged by how the team has come together," Redding said. "We are looking to the next match, conference this year, and I'm hoping to improve our level of play to get a national ranking sometime in the near future."

The Lady Bisons are now 25-13 overall and 10-1 in the GAC, making them the conference leaders. They will next face East Central on Saturday, March 26, with a score of 7-5 in game one and the same for game two.

Softball down East Central, falls to Arkansas Tech

Maddie McGuire
Student Writer

The Lady Bisons started their weekend against East Central University (ECU) on Saturday, March 26. The Lady Bisons won 21-13 and 10-1 in the Great American Conference (GAC).

The Lady Bisons started their weekend with a win over ECU, 21-13, on Saturday, March 26. They scored three runs in the first inning, giving them an early lead. Freshman pitcher Alex Williamson stayed with the game, giving up six hits and two runs scored in five innings. The Lady Bisons returned to the field on Sunday, March 27, against Southeastern Oklahoma State University (SNU), and fell to the Lady Blues, 17-9. The Lady Bisons were still able to clinch the conference title, as Butler, Faulkner and Smyser each won their matches, bringing the Lady Bisons to a 10-1 GAC record.

"Our matches have been very good so far, and I think we have a chance to compete for the conference championship," Redding said. "It will be tough, it will be hard, but we will be able to do it."

"I think the positive mindset is working so far, and I'm really encouraged by how the team has come together," Redding said. "We are looking to the next match, conference this year, and I'm hoping to improve our level of play to get a national ranking sometime in the near future."

The Lady Bisons are now 25-13 overall and 10-1 in the GAC, making them the conference leaders. They will next face East Central on Saturday, March 26, with a score of 7-5 in game one and the same for game two.
Dr. Jack Shock, professor of the topic and meet with students, and a research project called Extramural Research by students will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

According to Shock, the students
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.

Uncle Bud
will present a research project
at the University conference in
Las Vegas on March 18.
When you book with us, you are investing in your community!

The First Ladies Garden is open for business!

The First Ladies Garden has expanded again with the addition of four new fountains, two more clock towers and 24 new benches. The second and third First Ladies Gardens were dedicated on Tuesday, March 29.

By Zach Hailey

Editor-in-Chief

Women for Harding is proud to announce the newest addition to the First Ladies Garden. Four new fountains, two new wall sculptures and 24 benches have been placed on top of the remains of Pryor Hall. The dedication was held on Tuesday, March 29, at the University of Arkansas, with the president of parent and alumni relations,低碳, need to be rebalanced afterward.

According to Howell, the idea for the additions came after the Pryor Hall demolition, Ladies Garden expanded again.

Great obscure Little Rock eats

By Alex Winsgrope

Shutter the Light

Every time I make the trek to Little Rock on a boring Sunday afternoon, I tend to eat at one of the typical restaurants and never take the time to find somewhere unique to go. I thought I would explore many other places to eat in Little Rock, other than the first Ladies Garden, Chef’s, and any other well-known spots.

Here are 10 places you should try just to see what unique cuisine the city has to offer.

The Best Cafe – $5

St. Louis

Some of this “The Hippie Shack” because of its counter feel. This restaurant is open for lunch and dinner, and all of its ingredients are grown locally by farmers, giving it a more fresh taste.

Don’t Eat Place – $8 – $10

Joe’s Eat Place – $12

Unlike your normal small business, this Mexican restaurant is more casual and offers comfort foods such as burritos, tacos, and more.

It is easy to find in the center of downtown.

Muggie’s Cafe – $8

This unique restaurant has a unique feel.

Buffalo Grill – $15

Located in a fried chicken, burger, and sandwich restaurant, offering burgers, gyros, and the like.

Muggie’s Cafe – $15

This restaurant has a uniqua feel.

———

Tips to succeed in your internship

By Abigail Pratt

Student Writer

Internship season is well under way. It doesn’t matter if you are majoring in English, public relations, or marketing, most students are encouraged to have at least one internship before they graduate. The task of obtaining an internship can be daunting. It’s majoring in English, public relations, or marketing, most students are encouraged to have at least one internship before they graduate. The task of obtaining an internship can be daunting. It’s

Tips to succeed in your internship

By Abigail Pratt

Student Writer

Internship season is well under way. It doesn’t matter if you are majoring in English, public relations, or marketing, most students are encouraged to have at least one internship before they graduate. The task of obtaining an internship can be daunting. It’s understandable — in reality, it’s a lot more involved. Working through directories looking for a result of job offers only really apply and they do not fall into place without much work required from that website, but without any actual promise of a actual job. Most of us have been there. But plenty of opportunities have made it to graduation with internships under their belts and they are here to help us as well.

Senior Public Relations ma-

ner, Morgan Carter is currently interning in Little Rock for a company called Ghidotti Comuni-

The First Ladies Garden has expanded again with the addition of four new fountains, two more clock towers and 24 new benches. The second and third First Ladies Gardens were dedicated on Tuesday, March 29.

By Zach Hailey

Editor-in-Chief

Women for Harding is proud to announce the newest addition to the First Ladies Garden. Four new fountains, two new wall sculptures and 24 benches have been placed on top of the remains of Pryor Hall. The dedication was held on Tuesday, March 29, at the University of Arkansas, with the president of parent and alumni relations, Lisa McDowell, need to be rebalanced afterward.

According to Howell, the idea for the additions came after the Pryor Hall demolition, Ladies Garden expanded again.

Great obscure Little Rock eats

By Alex Winsgrope

Shutter the Light

Every time I make the trek to Little Rock on a boring Sunday afternoon, I tend to eat at one of the typical restaurants and never take the time to find somewhere unique to go. I thought I would explore many other places to eat in Little Rock, other than the first Ladies Garden, Chef’s, and any other well-known spots.

Here are 10 places you should try just to see what unique cuisine the city has to offer.

The Best Cafe – $5

St. Louis

Some of this “The Hippie Shack” because of its counter feel. This restaurant is open for lunch and dinner, and all of its ingredients are grown locally by farmers, giving it a more fresh taste.

Don’t Eat Place – $8 – $10

Joe’s Eat Place – $12

Unlike your normal small business, this Mexican restaurant is more casual and offers comfort foods such as burritos, tacos, and more.

It is easy to find in the center of downtown.

Muggie’s Cafe – $8

This unique restaurant has a unique feel.

Buffalo Grill – $15

Located in a fried chicken, burger, and sandwich restaurant, offering burgers, gyros, and the like.

Muggie’s Cafe – $15

This restaurant has a uniqua feel.

———

Tips to succeed in your internship

By Abigail Pratt

Student Writer

Internship season is well under way. It doesn’t matter if you are majoring in English, public relations, or marketing, most students are encouraged to have at least one internship before they graduate. The task of obtaining an internship can be daunting. It’s understandable — in reality, it’s a lot more involved. Working through directories looking for a result of job offers only really apply and they do not fall into place without much work required from that website, but without any actual promise of a actual job. Most of us have been there. But plenty of opportunities have made it to graduation with internships under their belts and they are here to help us as well.

Senior Public Relations ma-

ner, Morgan Carter is currently interning in Little Rock for a company called Ghidotti Comuni-

The First Ladies Garden has expanded again with the addition of four new fountains, two more clock towers and 24 new benches. The second and third First Ladies Gardens were dedicated on Tuesday, March 29.

By Zach Hailey

Editor-in-Chief

Women for Harding is proud to announce the newest addition to the First Ladies Garden. Four new fountains, two new wall sculptures and 24 benches have been placed on top of the remains of Pryor Hall. The dedication was held on Tuesday, March 29, at the University of Arkansas, with the president of parent and alumni relations, Lisa McDowell, need to be rebalanced afterward.

According to Howell, the idea for the additions came after the Pryor Hall demolition, Ladies Garden expanded again.

Great obscure Little Rock eats

By Alex Winsgrope

Shutter the Light

Every time I make the trek to Little Rock on a boring Sunday afternoon, I tend to eat at one of the typical restaurants and never take the time to find somewhere unique to go. I thought I would explore many other places to eat in Little Rock, other than the first Ladies Garden, Chef’s, and any other well-known spots.

Here are 10 places you should try just to see what unique cuisine the city has to offer.

The Best Cafe – $5

St. Louis

Some of this “The Hippie Shack” because of its counter feel. This restaurant is open for lunch and dinner, and all of its ingredients are grown locally by farmers, giving it a more fresh taste.

Don’t Eat Place – $8 – $10

Joe’s Eat Place – $12

Unlike your normal small business, this Mexican restaurant is more casual and offers comfort foods such as burritos, tacos, and more.

It is easy to find in the center of downtown.

Muggie’s Cafe – $8

This unique restaurant has a unique feel.

Buffalo Grill – $15

Located in a fried chicken, burger, and sandwich restaurant, offering burgers, gyros, and the like.

Muggie’s Cafe – $15

This restaurant has a uniqua feel.

———

Tips to succeed in your internship

By Abigail Pratt

Student Writer

Internship season is well under way. It doesn’t matter if you are majoring in English, public relations, or marketing, most students are encouraged to have at least one internship before they graduate. The task of obtaining an internship can be daunting. It’s understandable — in reality, it’s a lot more involved. Working through directories looking for a result of job offers only really apply and they do not fall into place without much work required from that website, but without any actual promise of a actual job. Most of us have been there. But plenty of opportunities have made it to graduation with internships under their belts and they are here to help us as well.

Senior Public Relations ma-

ner, Morgan Carter is currently interning in Little Rock for a company called Ghidotti Comuni-

The First Ladies Garden has expanded again with the addition of four new fountains, two more clock towers and 24 new benches. The second and third First Ladies Gardens were dedicated on Tuesday, March 29.

By Zach Hailey

Editor-in-Chief

Women for Harding is proud to announce the newest addition to the First Ladies Garden. Four new fountains, two new wall sculptures and 24 benches have been placed on top of the remains of Pryor Hall. The dedication was held on Tuesday, March 29, at the University of Arkansas, with the president of parent and alumni relations, Lisa McDowell, need to be rebalanced afterward.

According to Howell, the idea for the additions came after the Pryor Hall demolition, Ladies Garden expanded again.