Arkansas marches for ‘right to live well’

JOSHUA JOHNSON
editor-in-chief

February is a tough month to be a college student. Christmas Break feels like a distant memory, and Spring Break is just beyond reach. The students of the University of Arkansas are doing what they can to shake up the semester. On Saturday, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m., CAB will reach into the Top 40 list from 2008 to bring Jesse McCartney to the Administration Auditorium.

"To his credit, McCartney knows exactly what his audience wants. I think we should stand up for ourselves in terms of rights and our place in society, and respectful protest is a valid way to create change," Mimms said.

According to junior Luke Helms, the CAB crew are doing what they can to shake up the semester. On Saturday, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m., McCartney will be performing in the Administration Auditorium on Feb. 18 at 8 p.m. McCartney is an option, even calling him her "long lost love." McCartney as an option, even calling him her "long lost love."

"I don't think they have to conflict, because within the March For Life, you have many women that are seeking the same rights as the women at the Women's March," Helms said. "The main difference lay with the people at the March For Life saying, 'We want to extend these same rights to the people inside the mother's womb. They deserve to be heard.'"
In a set in time of preconversion for the Catholic Church of the 1960s, "Douglas A. Parable" tells the story of a convert. The naming of St. Nicholas Catholic School accounts a popular phenomenon prior of having inappropriate relations with a young altar boy.

The play explores how the acquisition of that inappropriate relations play out and how people behave after that accusation has been made, the says. There are only four cast members in the production. The numbers include senior theatre major Adam Leasure as Father Flynn, senior theatre major Peggy Turpin as Sister Aloysius, senior theatre major Hannah Whitman as Sister James, and freshman Shelby Beasley as Mrs. Miller. The production was written by Tennessee Williams and is part of the school's curriculum. The play is about the importance of the relationship between faith and doubt. The audience is challenged to evaluate and discuss how individuals handle these issues. The play is performed on various dates and times throughout the spring semester. The school is open to the public and tickets can be purchased at the box office.

Do you know the Mullet Man?

I recently paid for a haircut in almost four years.

I think it is time you have actually paid my hair cut for the past four years. No, I am not a sport that is “traded” in the big leagues. I’m a “niche” cut, usually someone who used this disturbing collection of adjectives to describe me to the right, left, and center. I was actually a mullet.

As the mower has relieved me of four years of hair on my head, I am proposing a plan to correct this injustice. I recently sat in the hair stylists chair and a hair stylist began cutting my hair. Then I thought, what if I could develop a mullet? I, the mullet man, could now have a mullet.

We have come to an agreement. I will provide the stylist with the mullet plan, which is as follows: I will provide the stylist with a list of names of people who have mullets. The stylist will then be required to provide me with a list of items that I will need to purchase in order to maintain my mullet.

I will then be required to maintain my mullet for a period of time. The period of time will be determined by the stylist. I will then be required to wear my mullet for a period of time that is determined by the stylist.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet chains for my mullet.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet jokes that I can tell.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet songs that I can listen to.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet movies that I can watch.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet books that I can read.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet websites that I can visit.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet apps that I can download.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet products that I can purchase.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet services that I can use.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet events that I can attend.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet vacations that I can take.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet travel destinations that I can visit.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet jobs that I can apply for.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet scholarships that I can apply for.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet colleges that I can attend.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet universities that I can attend.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet libraries that I can visit.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet museums that I can visit.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet historical sites that I can visit.

I will then be required to provide the stylist with a list of people who are willing to provide me with a list of mullet parks that I can visit.

The stage is set

It's here. Super Bowl 51. It is the biggest sporting event of the year, and the powerhouse New England Patriots will take on the Atlanta Falcons in a game with the top offense in the NFL (29.5 points per game) against the best defense in the league (17.2 points per game). This is the NFL-record seventh Super Bowl appearance for the Falcons. The Falcons are the Falcons in the Super Bowl for only the second time in franchise history, the first coming in 1998 when they played against the Denver Broncos 26-34 in their quarterback Matt Ryan, who will likely win the Logan MVP and NFC leading offense hope to bring the first championship to Falcons since 1995 when the Browns was the World Series.

Ryan, the Falcons, opened as the three-point favorites after this past season saw a right breakdown on the Pittsburgh Steelers and that led to the biggest regular season upset. It's safe to give them the edge over the intestines Falcons when you consider the Brady-Belson Edelman and LaGarrette Blount who have done this before. But don't be surprised if the Patriots' top scoring defense is exposed by this team in a season after offense the Falcons. They have the talent to outscore this exploser all season.

If you like to cheer for the underdog, you can even consider the Falcons on your team and you love to see a lot of points scored, this is your team. The Falcons offense scored in the league is passing yards (6,172) and was first in points per game (41.3). Their defense was in the league to their NFC South opponents and the Saints.

The Falcons' offense was record in the league and passing yards per game (253.5), and 1st in points per game (29.5). Their defense was virtually unstoppable all season, their defense couldn't be stopped.

When it comes to the New England Patriots, you either love them or hate them, but you have to respect their effort and ability to not make the conference championship game each of the last seven years. The Falcons defeated the Seattle Seahawks 34-28. It's true, the circumstances is always safe but the circumstances in the NFC South are a different story. In this game, we have to respect the Falcons.

As much as I hate to do it, I will have to choose an underdog against a team that is in the Hall of Fame. The Patriots have been to 16 Super Bowls, and the Falcons have been to only one, in 1998.

On Friday, Feb. 3, 16 former Harding athletes and coaches will be inducted into the Harding Athletics Hall of Fame. The event will be held at the Rhodes-Reaves Field House on Jan. 26. The induction ceremony will take place in the Heritage Center Founders Room at 6:30 p.m.

11th Hall of Fame class to be inducted

AMANDA FLOYD / The BISON

Senior third baseman Amanda Bardon makes a throw to first base in practice on Jan. 29. The Lady Bisons softball team was picked to finish third in the GAC, and its first game is a doubleheader on Saturday, Feb. 4 against Missouri S&T.

EMILY WHEELESS / The BISON

Amanda Goode, assistant athletic director, reflects on the time these people spent at Harding and their contribution to athletics.

"We have been lucky enough to follow at least half of those coaches from the time they starred here at Harding until the time they graduated," Goode said. "I love coming back into the Heritage Center Founders Room. It is a lot of fun to remember all of the coaches and the athletes that have been able to celebrate their achievements with them as we go into the Hall of Fame.

The induction ceremony will take place on Friday, Feb. 3 at 6:30 p.m. in the Heritage Center Founders Room. Tickets are $10.
Youthful baseball team looks to be 'uncommon'

RAISANNE MASON

This year’s Harding baseball team bristles 12 freshmen, not including those that will be redshirting. Several of these new additions will be making their debuts at home, Feb. 4 against Delta State University.

This many freshmen is uncommon, according to head coach Patrick McGaha, who has 11-seasons and has never had such a young team.

“It’s fun in a lot of ways,” McGaha said. “There’s a lot of energy, a lot of excitement and I look forward to viewing these guys come through the program in the next couple years.”

McGaha added that his older players have done a really good job of showing the freshmen the how’s and whys of the game and how to go about improving.

Sophomore outfielder Jack Thomas agreed that this team is dedicated to getting better each day.

“We have a culture where everybody works,” Thomas said. “You look around, and Brooks (Pinckard) is always watching video, and Chris (Taylor) and Grant (Guest) are always lifting, and (Zack) Healey is always getting extra reps in. Everybody has bought into this standard.”

Thomas catcher, Josh Fullerman, spoke of the importance of putting in the work.

“If he’s harder if I was going up there by myself every day, but going up there, being with those guys and having them in the room with me it makes it better,” Fullerman said.

Age is not the only uncommon characteristic of the team. The players all strive to be what they call “uncommon men.”

“We really want to be uncommon in our churches and be uncommon in their churches and be leaders,” Houge said. “We want them to be uncommon employees and employers, to do things differently than the majority of people do.”

According to Thomas, striving to be uncommon trans¬forms the baseball field.

“This is going to be a ridiculously attentive to detail, to walk through each day with extreme amounts of passion, extreme amounts of joy, being happy to do what you do,” Thomas said.

“We have so much talent on the team that it has been great to see it come together,” Haney said. “We still have things to work on, but I’m excited to see where that goes.”

"When we first married, we moved to a little town in Maine, Massachusetts; population 5,000. It was the very center of a small community. I felt like that was an incredible community of mission. That’s followed us wherever we go. Whenever we are a member congregation to a new over 6,000 student body... Do...The community of mission stop here and I hope, I (hope) take it from there to wherever they are."

In her time as first lady, Ann McLarty, known for her genuine blessing and love, has been able to encourage the know the amazing people that make Harding University unique, and she looks forward to that for the year ahead.

Once the movie started, I couldn't help but keep my eyes glued to the screen. It was like a roller coaster ride, one that I could barely follow, and yet, even so, it was totally immersive. One specific scene from the movie will stick with me for a long time. It was the moment when Katherine Johnson (played by Halle Berry) asks P. Henson, 'isn't it all the same?' The question was simple, yet profound. When she asked, it was as if a light bulb went off in her head, and I could tell that she was on the brink of making a major discovery. That scene taught me that innovation and progress are often found in the least expected places. It's a lesson that I carry with me every day.

I've been thinking a lot about the movie and its themes since it first hit the theaters. It's a wonderful reminder of the importance of diversity and the power of teamwork. I think that's something that we can all take away from this film. It's a powerful message that we need to share with the world. And that's why I'm so excited to announce that Netflix has acquired the rights to the movie. I think it's a great move, and I can't wait to see how it will be received by audiences around the world.
