Dear brother Marshall:

Preachers Homiletic Commentary is an old set now out of date. It is, however, a well known, used book set that may be found in almost any large Religious Used Book House. I would suggest that you either write such a place or on your visits into various cities where there are large Book Houses that you ask for this set. It is a set of Commentaries on both the Old and New Testaments. I recently disposed of a full set myself. They are rather inexpensive and should not be very difficult to find.

Sincerely yours,

John Allen Chalk

Dear Brethren in Christ:

I am trying to get in touch with Bro. John Allen Chalk, so perhaps you can see that he receives this letter.

Dear Bro. Chalk:

When going over your sermon outline in Bill Flatt's book, I found in "The First Christian Converts" this reference: "In order to remission of sins (Mt. 26:28) Whitelaw: Preachers Homelitic Commentary .p 45.

Now sir: what I want to know is could you tell me where you obtained the Whitelaw: Preachers Homelitic Commentary and if it is still in print and where I might obtain a copy or ~~expis~~ copies whichever it might be.?

I would appreciate this information as I would like to have the book to add to my knowledge.

Sincerely yours, in His Service:

Marshall Norman
