I just looked over your proposed classes for the 1971 seminar in Missions. It looks like you have another excellent program planned.

I was surprised at the decision to drop my class in Campus Evangelism. I can certainly appreciate all the reasons that must have dictated such a decision. I do not believe Joe Schubert is the best qualified man to teach the class on "Campus Ministry." From my viewpoint Joe is as opposed to my approach to campus ministry as are you and Otis Gatewood opposed to each other in your approach to missionary principles and practices. I would suggest someone like Prentice Meador, or more especially Rick Roland at the University of Southern California at Santa Barbara, or Chuck Lucas whose ministry at the University of Florida is the most successful in terms of converts and student evangelism as any work in the nation. I could also recommend Dr. John Wilson, the editor of the Campus Ministry Journal. I, however, can understand the reasons you believe Joe to be the man for this class and will, of course, support your judgment and decision.

I have nothing planned for June 14-18 and will be happy to help with the special lecture series.

SUBJECT: 1971 Seminar in Missions

We are trying to finalize our program for the 1971 teachers and lecturers and their assignments. It was felt that wider participation would be desirable and that you perhaps should not be asked to teach a class and give a series of lectures in the evening at the same time. Wendell and I are of the opinion that your contribution to the Seminar is a motivational one above all others. We feel that it would be best for you to give the series of evening lectures on the subject, "The Gospel to be Preached", and then to take every opportunity possible to speak to our group in chapel or otherwise. It was also suggested that Joe Schubert might be one of the best qualified men to teach the class on Campus Ministry. I believe that you would approve of Joe for the assignment. We're asking Philip Slate of London, England to deliver the other series of lectures on "Communicating the Gospel". Philip hopes to get his doctorate in Religious Communication from Oxford. I hope that you will be happy and can cooperate with us in this new arrangement.
