Dear Bob:

I appreciate so much the review of Cone's Black Theology and Black Power. At this point our Book Review service is temporarily suspended, but I hope to have it running again within the next few weeks. Don't forget us in your future reading. I appreciate so much your approach to the serious work like this review.

The Collegese church in Cookeville, Tennessee is looking for a preacher. It is adjacent to the Tennessee Tech Campus and would be a place where you could have an effective ministry. Mr. David Maddux, of Maddux Hardware, is the man you could contact. He is one of the elders of that congregation. At this point, that is the only church I know of that would present the kind of challenge you would be interested in.

I will keep my eyes open and let you know of anything further that comes to my attention.

Fraternally yours,

John Allen Chalk

Dear John:

You will find enclosed a review of Cone's Black Theology and Black Power.

For various reasons, one of which is my desire to find an opportunity for more effective expression of the ministry of the Word, I have resigned from the faculty of Alabama A & M.

There are few openings in Christian colleges, especially for me. I have wondered if there is a church somewhere in which I might effectively witness? Any clues to needs or openings you know of will be appreciated.

Fraternally,

Bob Ross
