Dear Brother Lemmons:

I have just finished reading your article in the September 1 issue of Christianity Today. "Possibly We Can Get Together" is an excellent article that I believe will open doors for us to do the kind of studying that will have to occur if unity is to prevail. I certainly believe that there are many conscientious and sincere people reading this magazine every week who will see some practical common sense in what you say.

My concerns the last few months have been that all the talk about the deviation from our ranks have camouflaged an even deeper issue. This issue is the failure of all of us as gospel preachers and as local church leaders to study deeply God's word instead of continually reacting to what others say. I feel more strongly than ever before that if we attempt presentation without proclamation of the truth all is lost.

My thanks to you for your proclamation of God's word for today's man, both in and out of the New Testament Church.

Fraternally yours,

John Allen Chalk
Radio Speaker
