Dear John Allen:

Thank you so very much for your agreement to serve as a panelist at the next Advisory Development Council meeting.

Enclosed is an agenda of the meeting which will partially explain your role. Each panelist will make 10 to 12 minutes of remarks. There will be a brief time for questions after the three panelists speak. Since you already have plenty of ideas along the line which you have been assigned, I will not elaborate a great deal about what you say.

Integrity does demand that I say our business is not to hold on to these students. As you have realized, holding on to a college student is like burying a talent in a napkin in the ground. It is self-defeating. Emphasize that our job is to invest these students. In one word, nurture. Any attitude less than open, honest, and frank will not relate to an academic community since that is what an academic community such as The University of Texas is.

I am holding your two tickets to the Texas Tech football game until I receive your confirmation that you can use them. Thank you again so very much for your willingness to serve in this tremendous way.

Your brother,

David Malone
