Dear Philip:

I can't begin to express my appreciation for your help in getting to know something of the English situation better. You have been of invaluable service, and I look forward to more dialogue between us as the need arises.

Enclosed you will find the three clippings you sent me. They do give me more insight into what is being thought among the people of your area. I am receiving British Weekly and find it extremely helpful on these same lines. I hope, as the situation allows, to take quotations from the Weekly.

Just today I have received Monica Furlong's With Love to the Church. Thank you so much for sending it. Under separate cover I am sending you a copy of my Praying Christ. This is a small expression of my appreciation for your willingness to help make our Herald of Truth the most effective possible.

Please listen to the programs, if possible, with special interest. Feel free to make any suggestions whatsoever. I will look forward to any help you and others can offer.

Fraternally yours,

John Allen Chalk
