Dear Dick:

You were extremely thoughtful to take the time and write your recent letter, and I want you to know that it was very thoroughly appreciated. Things have never seemed better here at the church. Our work is progressing on all fronts, and for the first summer of my tenure we are having no slump in attendance, contributions, etc.

I am convinced that the work will be in a place that a change can be made without any let-up in September of next year. I am also convinced that this is the right decision after having several opportunities to weigh it, view it from varying perspectives, and finally even face the possibility of being rejected because I couldn't come when the Herald of Truth people wanted me to come; but all has worked out well, apparently. I am giving the work here my very best as I will give that work my very best, knowing that whatever is in God's plan will result.

Thanks again for your very thoughtful letter.

Fraternally yours,

John Allen Chalk
