

Introduction:

Modern day Mexico city houses the history of the Mayan, Toltec, and Aztec civilizations. The Aztec civilization has helped make Mexico City the historical and economical landmark that it is today. With this study we specifically consider the impact of the ancient Aztec economy, agriculture, and social class structure and the economy of current day Mexico City.

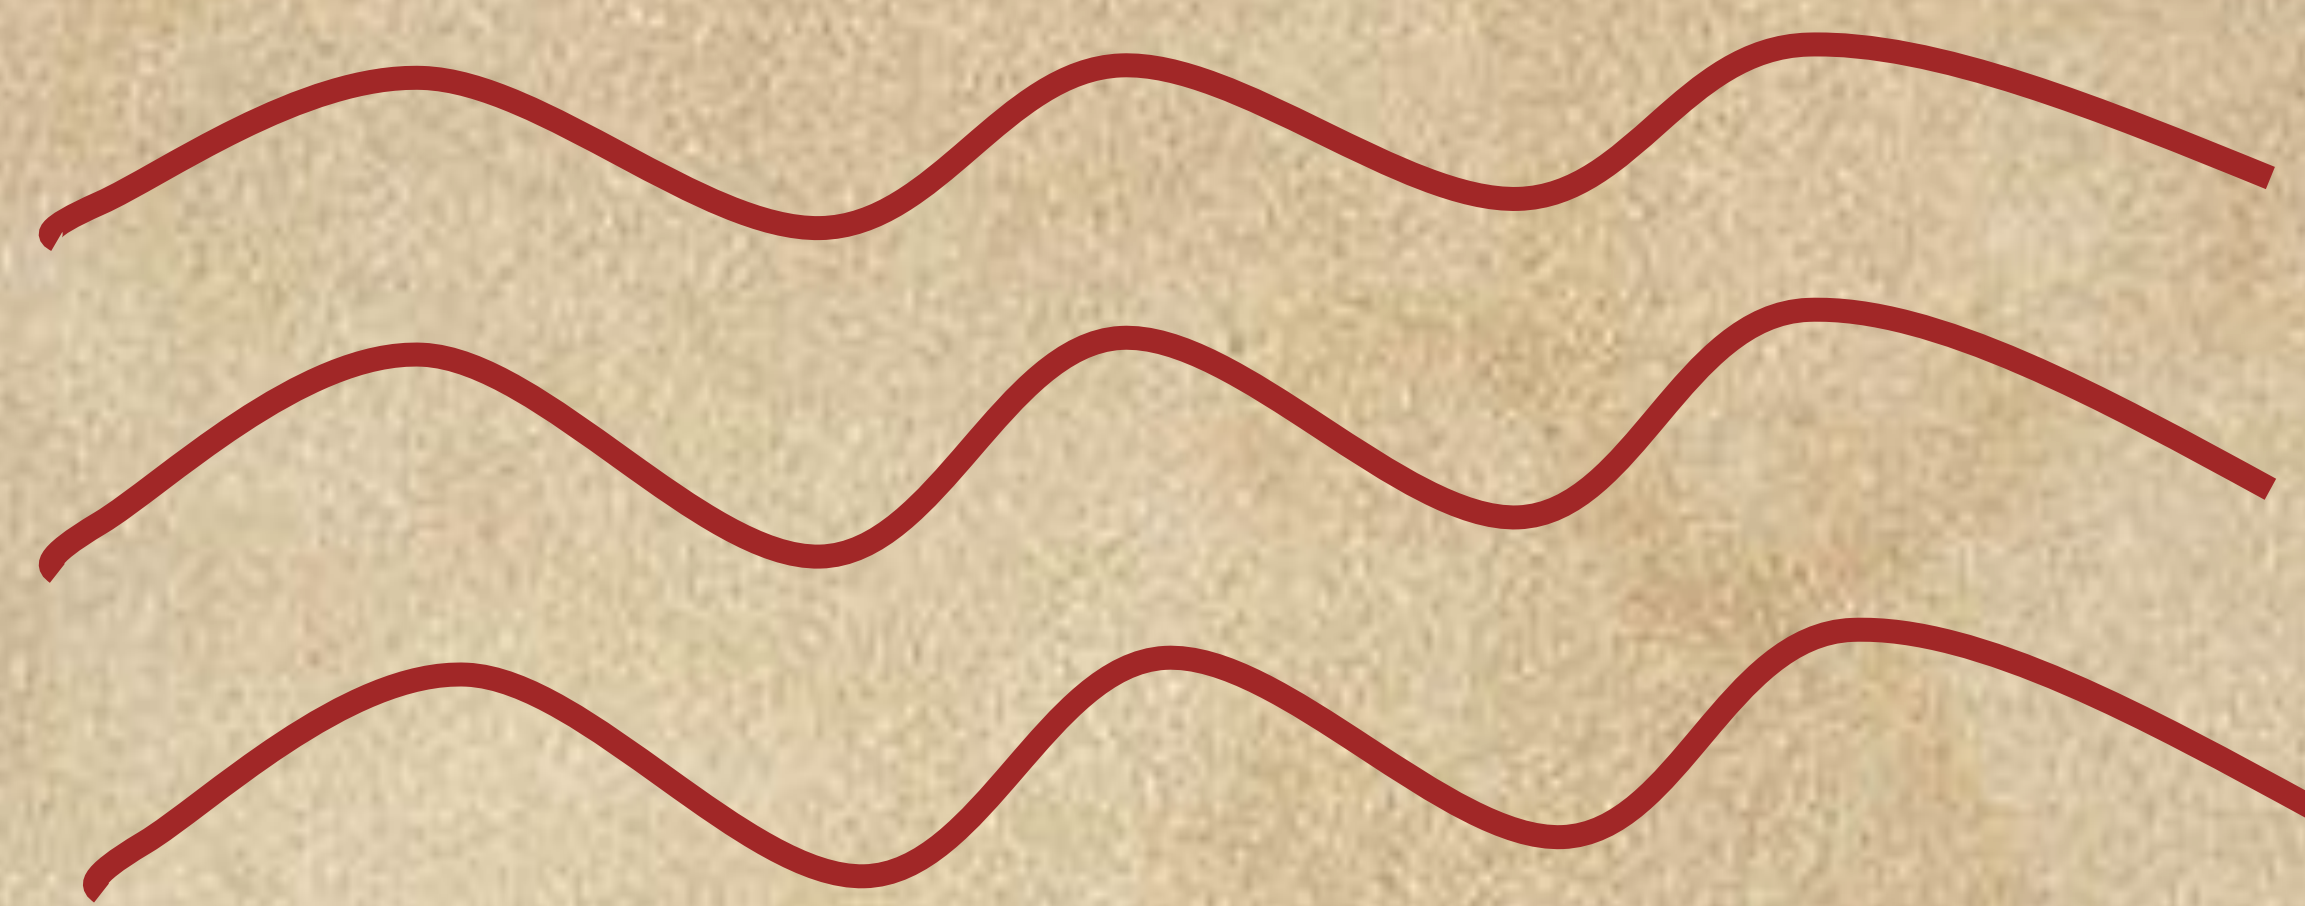

Methodology:

The research included investigating and analyzing documents, books, letters, and economic trends.

Predecessors to Progress:

A Cultural Exposition of Ancient Aztec Influence on the Economy of Modern-Day Mexico City.

Scholar: Mariel Arias-Guerrero Mentor:Michelle Coizman

The Aztec Economy, Agriculture, and Social Class structure plays a significant role in Modern Day Mexico City.