In a quest for success, students arrived on campus with stardust in their pockets and aspirations on their sleeves.

Goals and dreams glazed the eyes of both new and old students in hopes of establishing themselves within the social, academic and spiritual realms of Harding life.

No matter how structured life's plans seemed, some students struggled to direct their footsteps and hearts toward a specific target. All the while Harding faculty, administrators, staff and peers were there trying to help guide those students closer to the path of righteousness.

Freshman Matt Murrain said Harding was a great place to grow spiritually.

"Harding gives you many opportunities to grow closer to God," Murrain said. "You go to chapel every day, which helps boost your energy righteously."

Lott Tucker Jr.

Senior Vice President
1927-2004

Lott Tucker Jr., 76, senior vice president, died of complications from a stroke March 7. Tucker joined the Harding business office staff after his graduation in 1951 and was named vice president for finance in 1970.

He served as senior vice president from 1996 until the time of his death.

"We lost a giant in Christian education over the weekend," President David Burks said in chapel March 8. "He's been a key administrator during three presidential periods."

Tucker worked under Harding presidents George Benson, Clifton Ganus and Burks.

In addition to his work at Harding, Tucker served the community of Searcy by filling a seat on the Searcy Municipal Planning Commission for 36 years.

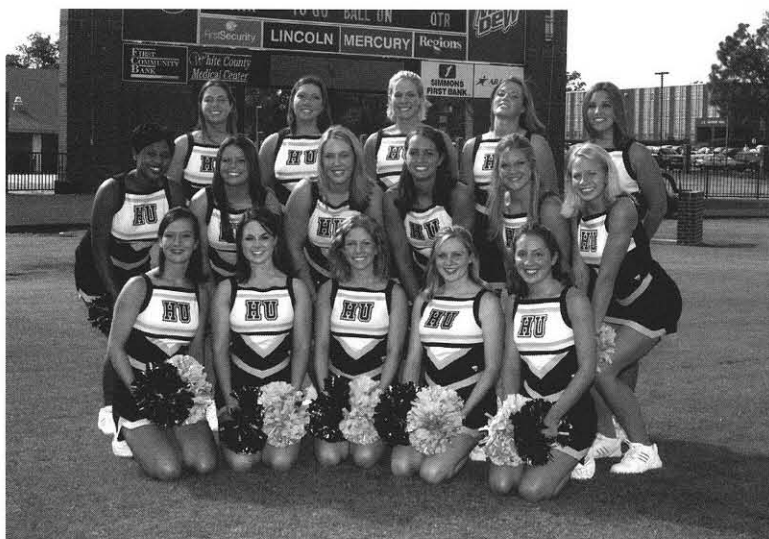

He also served three terms on the Searcy Chamber of Commerce board and was president in 1970.

"He's probably done more to build relations with the city and county than any other individual," Burks said.

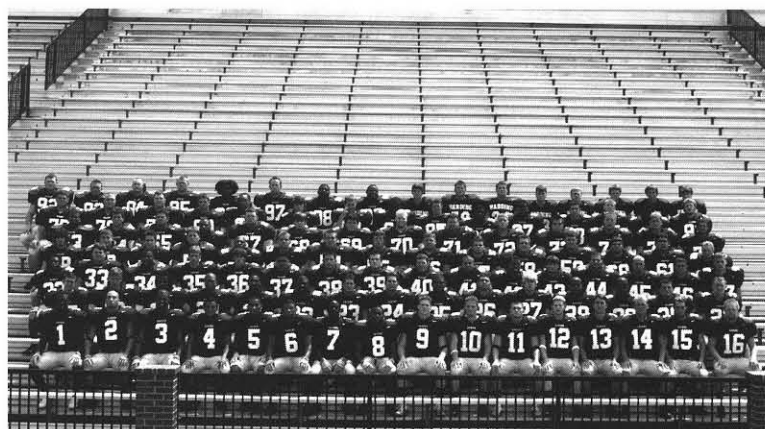

Tucker was survived by his mother, Dora Lang Tucker; his wife, Mae Anne Songer Tucker, whom he married in 1951; two sons, Stephen, a Little Rock physician, and David, an educator in Portland, Ore.; and six grandchildren.

■ Established. This word held different meanings for different people. To sophomore Jeffrey Jones, established meant “something has begun.” Another school year has ended; however, new relationships have begun. Most importantly, relationships began between God and His children.

Whether just beginning their walk with God or continuing another year of Christianity, most students consistently established spiritual aspects of their lives.

“This year I have put a lot of emphasis on forming a more personal relationship with God,” senior Aaron Clark said.

“Through prayer and reading my Bible more, I have been able to see a change.”

Clark said established meant “set in place and not easily moved.” Hopefully, this year helped establish a faith among Harding’s students that will not be easily moved.

closing comments

Stepping toward a new life, Harding students continued to establish themselves and their faith. "I have been learning to trust God more," junior Sara Fultz said. "I have been trying not to worry and let God take control of my situations instead of doing it myself." (Photo by Russell Keck)

Members of Theatron pray together after a fall rehearsal. Prayer served as an important part of students' lives, contributing to an established Christian foundation.

editor's notes

■ Established. Stumbling across this word in June of 2003, this word was just another word. Honestly, it sounded old and emotionless.

However, while praying about a theme for the 2004 Petit Jean, the word “established” slowly took more precedence in my life. God eventually opened my ears and eyes to this word. Constantly trying to establish a faith in His children, God’s firm and proven love never fails.

The 2004 Petit Jean staff established new guidelines for the publication of Harding’s yearbook, including additional pages, more white space and fewer pictures. However, we remained steadfast on one goal: to prove and record God’s established love for us through His work at Harding.

So, as you flipped through the 324 pages of what we hope is journalistic excellence, we pray you found more than journalistic integrity; we pray you also found Christian integrity.

If you are reading this in April of 2004, I pray that this year at this heavenly place we call Harding has meant something to you. I pray you have established one more piece of your life’s puzzle.

If you are reading this in April of 2054, I pray your life has been firmly established in God’s mercy.
