Speculation, Nostalgia Surround Time Capsule Planting

By Andrea Mannen

Gathering memorabilia to be placed in the time capsule which commemorated Harding's change to university status prompted one alumnus to remark thoughtfully, "I just wish we could look into the future and see the faces when the capsule is opened in 2024 A. D."

If foreseeing the future has held somewhat of a fascination for men through the ages, the obsession with the past is also present in most of us, to some extent.

Perhaps that is why we do things like planting time capsules—so that a little of us, our lifestyle and our time will be preserved for progeny, history buffs or curiosity seekers who happen upon the treasure and want to dig up some roots (of the historical variety).

Part of the romance of it all is the uncertainty: will we still be here? will the Lord come between now and then? will there be gasoline? will anyone remember where the capsule was buried?

Assuming that the world continues in a similar state of being and the Harding University campus is in existence on her 100th birthday as a four-year institution, the capsule will likely be a focal point. Just as Camelot had its sword in the stone, Harding now has its capsule in concrete.

President Clifton Ganus Jr. and Vice President for Finance Lott Tucker lower the time capsule into the protective box, which will hold it for the next 45 years. The box was placed in a five foot hole near the Olen Hendrix Building and encased in concrete.

It should be worth coming to campus, no matter what the distance, to see how to break through five-and-one-half yards of solid concrete (which weighs more than 20,000 pounds) to reach the encased plywood box containing the prize.

The capsule is a three-and-one-half foot tube, 12 inches in diameter, made of polyvinyl chloride. Metallic gold paint and a Harding University sticker, placed on the side of the cylinder, make it unmistakably authentic.

Many of the 1000 plus present at the University Day signing on August 27 could be around for the opening of the capsule, 45 years from now. They might bring their children, grandchildren and even great-grandchildren.

The capsule planting ceremony on October 4 was informal, with students, faculty and guests and a concrete mixer gathering at the designated spot, just south of the Olen Hendrix building and diagonally west of the library. A plaque is soon to be placed at the site.

Before sealing the ends of the tube, Harding President Clifton Ganus packed the selected items, treated for preservation, inside.

When the centennial celebration of Harding takes place, the unplugging of the time capsule will reveal pictures and news of the day to recall what Harding was like "back then."

In addition to the signatures of students, faculty members and friends of the university, the capsule contains pictures of those present at University Day, an aerial view of the campus, one of Dr. Joseph E. Pryor's bow ties, a 50th anniversary medallion, the 1979 general catalog, the Harding University proclamation, a 1979 Petit Jean yearbook, documents donated by Edwina Pace (secretary to the president), a lock of hair from Dr. Jimmy Carr,

The August 28 edition of the Searcy Daily Citizen, a 50th anniversary tabloid, a 1979 almanac, August and September alumni Bulletins, the 1978 Little Black Book, a Bisons' bumper sticker, policies and procedures brochure, a Harding University bookmarker, the pamphlet entitled "Harding Graduate School of Religion—A Profile," the 1979 lectureship program, "The Harding Spectrum" brochure, "The School of Business" brochure, the football press guide for 1979, a Bible donated by the Bookstore, a 1979 student Handbook, and polaroid snapshots taken immediately before the capsule was sealed.

Mark your calendars. We'll see you in 2024.

Second 13-in-1 Workshop Set

A second 13-in-1 workshop, the first of which attracted 5,600 visitors to the Harding campus in 1978, has been announced for August 4-7, 1980 with 13 separate seminars to be held simultaneously.

The individual workshops will be conducted on the university campus and at Downtown, Cloverdale, College and West Side church buildings.

Dr. Jerry Jones, director, said that approximately 100 persons will teach classes during the three full days of the schedule.

Several special events will also be included. Jo Beam of Evansville, Ind., will conduct 8 a.m. devotionals Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Participants will assemble for a period of singing prior to the night lectures with Wayne Kilpatrick of Birmingham, Gary Beauchamp of Dallas and Batsell Barrett Baxter of Nashville, Tenn., as featured speakers.

The individual seminars and the chairman for each include the following: Christian Home, Jack Thomas; Biblical Studies, Will Ed Warren; Singles, Allan Isom; Christian Evidences, Tom Eddins; Christian

Homecoming Theme Notes University Name Change

"Harding University—A Dream Come True," the 1979 Homecoming theme, will be carried out in many activities planned for November 8-10.

"The theme was chosen because it related to a song in the musical and it emphasizes the historical step to university status, recently made by the school," said Dr. Jimmy Carr, assistant to the president and coordinator of the Homecoming committee. Carr explained that in "The Sound of Music," this year's fall musical, the line "til you find your dream" appears in the song "Climb Every Mountain."

The Harding presentation of the musical will be staged November 8-10 at 8:15 p.m. in the Main Auditorium.

Seniors Vicky Durrington of Wichita, Kan., and Bob Perkins of Rochester, N. Y., are cast in the leading roles.

On Thursday night an all-school pep rally will be held, where the 1979 Homecoming queen will be chosen to reign over weekend events.

Alumni may recognize some resemblances in the royalty, since two of the nominees had sisters selected as Homecoming queens in recent years. Terri Franks, a business education major from Lake Charles, La., is a sophomore. Her sister, Carol Franks Frank (BA '76), who is married to former Bison center James Frank (BA '77), was the Homecoming queen in 1975.

Rhonda Wallace Dickey, a senior social science major from Star City, Adding beauty to this year's Homecoming will be queen nominees, from left, Terri Franks of Lake Charles, La., Rhonda Wallace Dickey of Star City, Ark., and Nora Pierce of Hixson, Tenn. The queen will be crowned at a pep rally on November 8 and reign over the festivities throughout the Homecoming weekend.

Business Seminar Set

The eighth annual Management Seminar for businessmen will be held February 15 and 16 at Harding, according to Dr. David Burks, seminar coordinator.

The event is sponsored by the Harding School of Business and the American Studies Program.

Friday's events will include registration at 5 p.m., a dinner at 7 p.m. in the Heritage Cafeteria, followed by a meeting.

On Saturday, Dr. Charles Hughes, director of the Center for Values Research in Dallas, Texas, will address the group. Hughes is a consultant and seminar leader specializing in improving employee relations and productivity.

For information on the Management Seminar or for reservations, contact Dr. Burks at Harding University, Box 753, Searcy, Ark., or call 501-268-6161, extension 240.

Construction Underway On Academy Building

Construction is underway on the $1.25 million Harding Academy building that will house both the elementary and high school.

The 47,000 square foot facility, expected to be completed for the 1980 term, will be located on the Old Kensett Highway, directly east of the University's Alumni Field.

Ed Higginbotham, Academy superintendent, told of the plans for the building, which will contain 14 high school classrooms and six elementary classrooms plus an auditorium, library for each division, offices, dressing rooms and a physical education-intramural facility.

"The building is being constructed to meet the needs of the present enrollment of 425 students with provisions made to expand as enrollment increases," Higginbotham said. The auditorium seating capacity will be 360, designed to be expanded to a 600 seating capacity. The stage will be more than twice the size of the present stage area, he said.

The home economics department will occupy 1,900 square feet with four kitchens. Two rooms will be designated as business education areas and special classrooms will be equipped for chemistry, physics, art, math, music, and speech and drama.

The physical education-intramural room will have a regulation size basketball court with two small cross courts. The varsity basketball teams will continue to use Rhodes Memorial Field House on the University campus.

Higginbotham said the building will be 351 feet in length and classroom sizes will range from 900 to 930 square feet for elementary rooms and from 750 to 1,912 square feet in the high school section.

Future plans call for the demolition of the present Academy building and the erection of an academic building to house the business division, Center for Private Enterprise Education and the computer center of the university.

Ark., is the sister of 1976 Queen Madonna Wallace Smith (BS '77), wife of former quarterback Jeff Smith (BA '77). Rhonda is married to Keith Dickey, who plays safety for the Bisons.

The remaining nominee, Nora Pierce, is a senior secretarial science major from Hixson, Tenn., and is the fiancée of former Bison standout Joe David Smith (BA '78).

Friday events will include the following: the Black and Gold Banquet at 5:30 p.m. in the Heritage Cafeteria. Harold Hazelip, dean of the Harding Graduate School of Religion in Memphis will be the speaker, and Bob Helsten of the Harding Bible Department will serve as master of ceremonies. The annual chili supper will be held 4:15-6 p.m. on the front campus lawn for the student body and those not attending the banquet.

Saturday's events will begin with a complimentary continental breakfast in the Student Center lobby from 7:30-9 a.m.

Alumni Chapel will begin at 9:30 in the Heritage Auditorium.

The parade, sponsored by the Student Association will begin at 11 a.m. Several area bands and a variety of colorful floats will entertain around the campus, through downtown Searcy, and stop at Alumni Field.

Pregame activities, beginning at 1:40 p.m. will feature the Bison Band under the direction of Dr. Eddie Baggett. The Band will also perform for halftime and the presentation of the queen and her court.

The class of 1929 will celebrate their golden anniversary and will be honored guests throughout the weekend. According to alumni director David Crouch, eight out of the thirty-four class members have made plans to come from their respective homes in Florida, Alabama, Colorado, Tennessee and Arkansas.

The class of 1954 will also be recognized, along with other classes ending in four or nine.

Lynn is from Memphis, Brown from Nashville and Fulenwider from Childress, Texas. The other chairman are from Searcy.

"Our first 13-in-1 provided a great spiritual feast for entire families," Jones said.

Further details, costs and a brochure will be available soon. Interested persons may write the Harding University Bible Department for further information.

The world's largest pizza, produced last year by the Harding Chorale and the Pizza Hut, became a new harpsichord for Harding's music department when Cliff Ganus III, left, and Jeff Hopper of the music faculty purchased a harpsichord kit with proceeds from the $3 per square pizza. Assembling the keyboard instrument required more than 300 hours.

Harpsichord Assembled For Music Department

Through the efforts of many persons, not the least of whom are Cliff Ganus III and Jeff Hopper, Harding's music department now boasts ownership of a harpsichord.

The project was financed from the sale of the world's largest pizza, assembled last year from an event spearheaded by Ganus and the Chorale.

Ganus and Hopper, both members of the music faculty, purchased a kit and spent an estimated 300 hours painstakingly putting the pieces in place. Their efforts allowed the keyboard instrument, a forerunner of the piano, to be obtained at considerably less than the $6 thousand price charged for a ready-made product.

Neither will claim much credit for the feat, although both admit it was a rewarding and enjoyable task. Neither anticipated the amount of time that would be required to finish it.

The harpsichord was a household instrument during the Baroque period of the 17th and 19th Centuries. It lost popularity, Hopper summarizes, because it was not loud enough. The addition will insure authenticity in performance of music from the period.

The pair worked on the project in the Recording Studio, where it will be housed, and presented it to the department at a special meeting September 11.

Shackelford Named Head Of International Campaigns

Dr. Don Shackelford, associate professor of Bible, has been appointed by the elders of the College Church of Christ in Searcy to serve as director of International Campaigns, an evangelistic effort sponsored by the congregation.

Shackelford, who also serves as director of Harding's Mission-Prepare program, will fulfill organizational duties for campaigns which have been arranged for the past 21 years by Dr. W. Joe Hacker of West Monroe, La. Because of new responsibilities, Hacker asked to be replaced.

In making the appointment, the elders expressed appreciation to Hacker for his faithful and dedicated work in organizing International Campaigns since 1967. During the time, campaign groups have shared the gospel of Christ with persons on three continents.

Shackelford has worked as a coordinator of mission work for the past eight years. He also served 11 years overseas in mission work in Italy and Sicily.

Each year 100 to 125 students work in overseas campaigns during the summer. Plans are being made for the 1980 efforts in Germany, Holland, England, Scotland, Wales, Austria, Brazil and Australia. Dr. Kenneth Davis, Jr., L. V. Pfeifer and Jack McKinney of the university faculty will serve as coordinators for the groups.

Time of Day Musical Trio Relates Story of Harding

With a repertoire of contemporary songs, several musical instruments and the story of Harding University, the Time of Day trio will perform this year for thousands of teen-agers all over the nation.

The two veterans of the group, Mitch Hamric and Jon Woodroof, welcomed freshman David Wiggins this fall.

Wiggins, a freshman from Memphis, is an accounting major. He plays guitar, bass, harmonica, tambourine, mandolin, drums and banjo.

Hamric, a physical therapy major is in his second year with the TOD. The senior, who hails from Huntsville, Ala., plays guitar, bass and tambourine.

A junior public relations major from Searcy, Woodroof performs on the guitar, bass, harmonica and tambourine. He is also a second year musician.

To schedule the group for a concert or other function, contact the Admissions Office, Harding University, Searcy, Ark., 72143, or call 268-6161, extension 407.

Students, 2000 Guests Hear Amway Founder

By Tommy Jackson
Searcy Citizen Managing Editor

It was a welcome a politician would have loved.

Richard DeVos, president and co-founder of the Amway Corporation, spoke to the American Studies Lecture Series October 15 on the Harding University campus, and to say his reception was enthusiastic would be an understatement.

A crowd of more than 2,000 turned out in the Athletic-Physical Education Center and afforded the 53-year-old Michigan native a rousing ovation that lasted approximately five minutes when he came into the arena.

DeVos' company, which was founded only 20 years ago in Ada, Mich., manufactures more than 200 products and employs upwards of a half-million persons in the United States and foreign countries.

A large number of Amway personnel, from not only the Central Arkansas area but from surrounding states as well, came out of their seats to shake the hand of DeVos, pose for pictures, and obtain an autograph.

Once Harding president Dr. Clifton L. Ganus asked the crowd to return to its seats, he jokingly remarked that DeVos would speak "four hours," to which the crowd responded with its third standing ovation of the still young evening.

DeVos' address was directed mainly to the students in the audience, and the problems youth is faced with today trying to decide how to do certain things and "which way to go."

Amway President and Co-founder Richard DeVos (center) waves to a large crowd that turned out October 15 to hear his address for the American Studies Lecture Series. Harding President Clifton Ganus Jr., left, awarded DeVos with the school's Distinguished American Citizen Award. Harding Vice President for Finance Lott Tucker, right, was also on the platform.

The author and award-winning lecturer said that often, young persons are turned off with success, but noted it was up to each individual to decide how much success is "right for him." "Material things are the essence of life," he noted, and said "that success is not in itself sinful, and poverty is no virtue."

The heart of his lecture was centered on the four stages of corporations, governmental bodies, churches, schools, etc.

The first (and clearly most important according to DeVos) is the Building stage—the stage of creation. DeVos illustrated this stage with God's creation of the world; the founders of Harding creating an institution of higher learning that emphasizes Christian principles, and the Pilgrims building America. "This is the exciting stage," he noted.

The second stage is Manage—"After you build, you have to manage." This is the stage where troubles start, inferred the speaker. "Once you build, you have to manage." People stop being builders because they're so busy managing. Referring to the ever-growing governmental bureaucracy, DeVos said, "Everybody is so busy running the country, they don't have time to build it. They think there is a limit on the growth of nations. Everything develops into a management mold in this stage," he continued. He listed the Department of Energy as a case in point of a bureaucratic agency trapped in the management mold. "They're (Department of Energy) not finding any new solutions, but simply 'managing' what we have. Deciding who will get what piece of the pot."

The third stage is Defend (where the U. S. is now, he noted). This comes after you spend too much time in management. Now you have to justify your non-growth. We blame government regulations, he noted, and said the government subscribes to the theory that, "if you build a better mousetrap, we'll build a bigger mouse."

The fourth stage is Blame—"We're not there yet, but are partially," he said and cautioned to look for more of this stage in a presidential year. This is the stage where you defend, specifically by blame placing. This stage leads to deterioration that this nation cannot survive.

"It's up to the young people to decide to build a better more productive nation, he said, adding that he looked forward to the year 2000 when the young will have solved problems of hunger, poverty, disease, etc., calling them all solvable problems.

The hunger problem is the number one challenge facing the world, he said, but noted there is a solution. "I don't believe a God that can create us is unable to feed us."

"Be a builder," he said in conclusion. "Work toward solutions, solve problems that are yours to solve."

Prior to his address, DeVos was presented with Harding's Distinguished American Citizen Award from Dr. Ganus.

Economics Team Begins Competition

The Harding University economics team traveled to Dallas October 5-6 to enter competition in the Mid-South Regional "Students for Free Enterprise" competition with 13 other colleges and universities.

Harding has won the contest three times previously in the five-year history of the competition.

Team members include Jake Jensen of Milwaukee, Wis., Ted Thompson of Norfolk, Va., Walt Buce of Bartlesville, Okla.; Phyllis Higgins of Memphis; Susan Collins of Atlanta and Sally Florence of Worthington, Ohio. Dr. Don Diffine, director of the Center for Private Enterprise Education, is sponsor.

In the competition, which will end April 21, the students will "Promote free enterprise in as many ways as possible and involve as many people as possible," Dr. Diffine said.

Co-sponsored by National Leadership Methods, an Austin, Texas-based management training organization, and Southwestern Life Insurance Company, the program theme is "Creative Capitalism." Goals are to offer solutions to problems confronting the American economic system, and participating institutions are challenged through formal intercollegiate competition to design and implement free enterprise programs suited for their particular campuses and committees.

Harding's team will work from the University's Center for Private Enterprise Education, a library of private enterprise literature and audio-visual materials. In April the competing institutions will meet in Dallas to present their reports to community business leaders, who will serve as judges.

ON THE COVER—Pledge week, held October 9-12, was a wild and crazy time on the campus. Theta Psi pledge Jana Lisle, a freshman from Dayton, Ohio pauses on the Auditorium steps, waiting further instructions.

Forensics Students Win Sweepstakes

Harding's forensics squad won first place in sweepstakes at a speech tournament at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Mo., in the opening competition of the year.

The team of Jeff Hobbs of Fayetteville and Bob Chandler of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., won first place in debate. The team of Philip Gould of Searcy and Dal Narramore of Winfield, Texas, placed second and Anita Eagan of Mt. Vernon, Texas and Greg York of Louisville, Ky., placed fourth.

Chandler, a senior, was also awarded the first place speaker trophy and Hobbs, a senior, was named second place speaker in debate.

York received first in oratorical speaking and second in extemporaneous speaking. Gould placed fourth in informative speaking.

Freshmen John Miller of Memphis and Rhea Enloe of Doniphan, Mo., were also included on the team.

New Books Include Chapters by Muncy

Two books which will include chapters by Dr. Raymond Muncy, chairman of the Department of History, have been released, and a third is currently at the press for release early in 1980.

Muncy wrote the first chapter entitled "Pre-territorial Arkansas" for a college history textbook The History of Arkansas: Historical Report of the Secretary of State, Arkansas. The work, made possible by Act 680 of the 71st General Assembly of Arkansas, will be used for teaching Arkansas history. There is no other textbook on the college level available.

France and North America: Utopias and Utopians, edited by Mathe Allain, includes chapter six, "Women in Utopia," by Muncy.

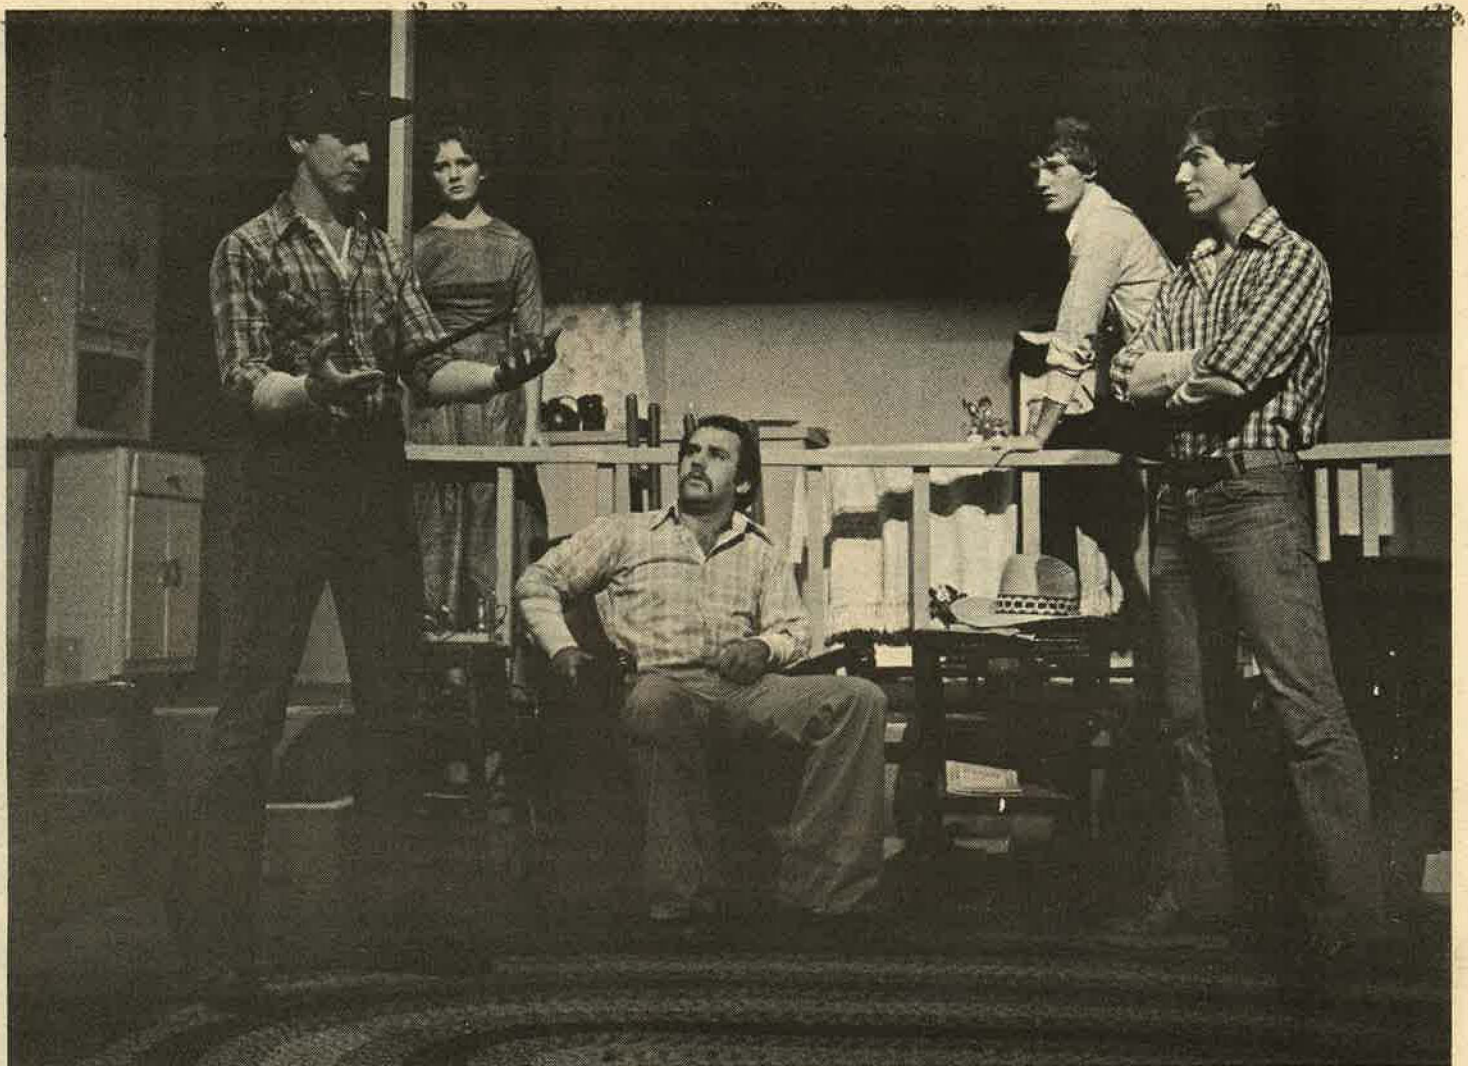

Currently at Indiana University Press and scheduled for publication is Alternate Lifestyles. Muncy wrote the second chapter, "The Shakers, an Experiment in Celibacy." The work is edited by Jon Wagner.

In addition, Muncy, author of a history of Searcy written during the Bicentennial year, recently reviewed Dewey Graham's Regional Imaginations for the Journal of Mississippi History.

HARDING UNIVERSITY

'Rainmaker' Entered in Theatre Festival

"The Rainmaker," a romantic comedy by N. Richard Nash, has been selected as Harding's entry in the American College Theatre Festival of the American Theatre Association.

The play, under the direction of Morris Ellis, will be performed in competition at the American College Theatre Festival at Little Rock at 8 p.m. October 24.

The American College Theatre Festival is presented by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Alliance for Arts Education and is sponsored by the Amoco Corporation.

Cast in the play are Kim Swink of Little Rock as Lizzie; Dale McCoy of Vicksburg, Miss., as H. C.; Ward Bartlett of Pontiac, Mich., as Noah; Joe Aaron of Searcy as Jimmy; Gary McClanahan of Ardmore, Okla., as the Sheriff; Steve Holder of Searcy as File and Robin Cannon of Lae, New Guinea, as Starbuck.

Ellis, who is also set designer, will be assisted by Ellen Walker of Searcy as assistant director and Karl Wendt of Shreveport as stage manager.

Technical crewheads are Keith Smith, set; David Bedgood, props; Susan Moore, costume and makeup; Pat Austin, sound and lights; Scott Cody, house, and Jennifer Hobbs, publicity.

The three-act play takes place in a western state on a summer day in a time of drought, perhaps in the 1930's.

ACT Test Dates Set

The American College Test (ACT) will be given at Harding on the national testing dates in 1979-80.

The ACT is a requirement for admission to Harding for high school graduates and transfer students with fewer than 14 semester hours of credit.

In 1979 the day and registration deadline is: December 8 (register by November 9). The three dates in 1980 are: February 16 (register by January 18), April 12 (register by March 14) and June 14 (register by May 16).

For more information, contact your high school counselor or the Harding University Testing Office.

The recently formed National Council of Associated Women for Harding, which assembled for a meeting on the university campus September 14-15, are, front row, Mrs. Johnice Hearn of Harrison, Ark.; Mrs. Mary Jolly of Cabot, Ark.; Mrs. Gary Chamblee of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Kay Reiboldt of Shreveport, La.; second row, Mrs. Barbara Cooper of Germantown, Tenn.; Mrs. Ann Dixon of Mountain Home, Ark.; Mrs. Kay Sunderland of Conway, Ark.; Mrs. Claudia Petty of Benton, Ark., and Jimmy Carr, AWH liaison officer; back row, Mrs. Louise Ganus of Searcy and Mrs. Dee Kernodle of Jonesboro, Ark.

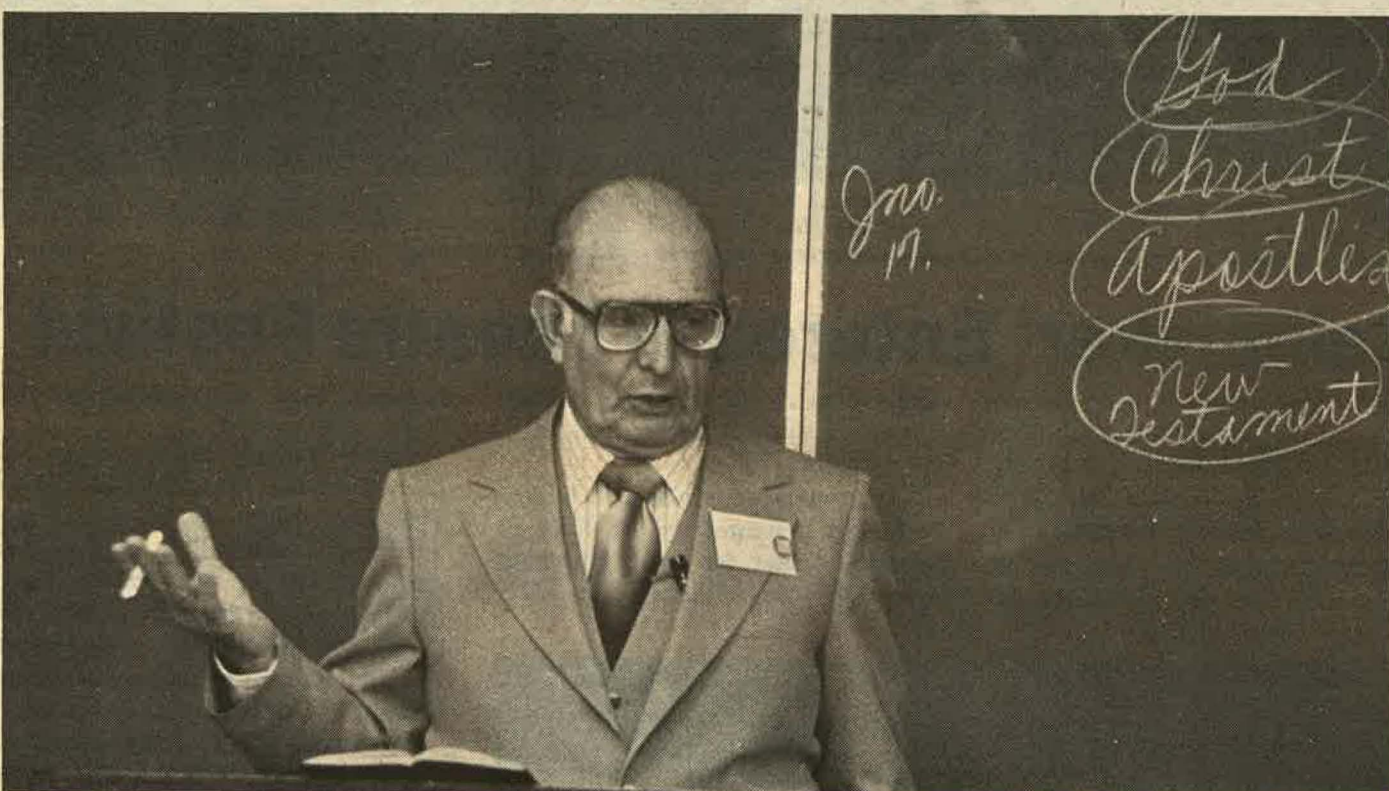

AWH has 1000 members, who are either members of the 23 AWH chapters in states or members at large. The group supports Harding by sponsoring special fund-raising projects and telling their communities about Harding. For more information on AWH, contact Dr. Jimmy Carr at Harding University, Box 1224, Searcy, Ark., or phone 268-6161 extension 462.

A pleasant time of fellowship is enjoyed by Ed Sanders of Searcy and Smith Garrison of Washington D.C. at the Preachers' and Elders' Dinner.

Doug Kostowski of Miami, Fla., provides ideas on "Do You Know Where You're Going To?"

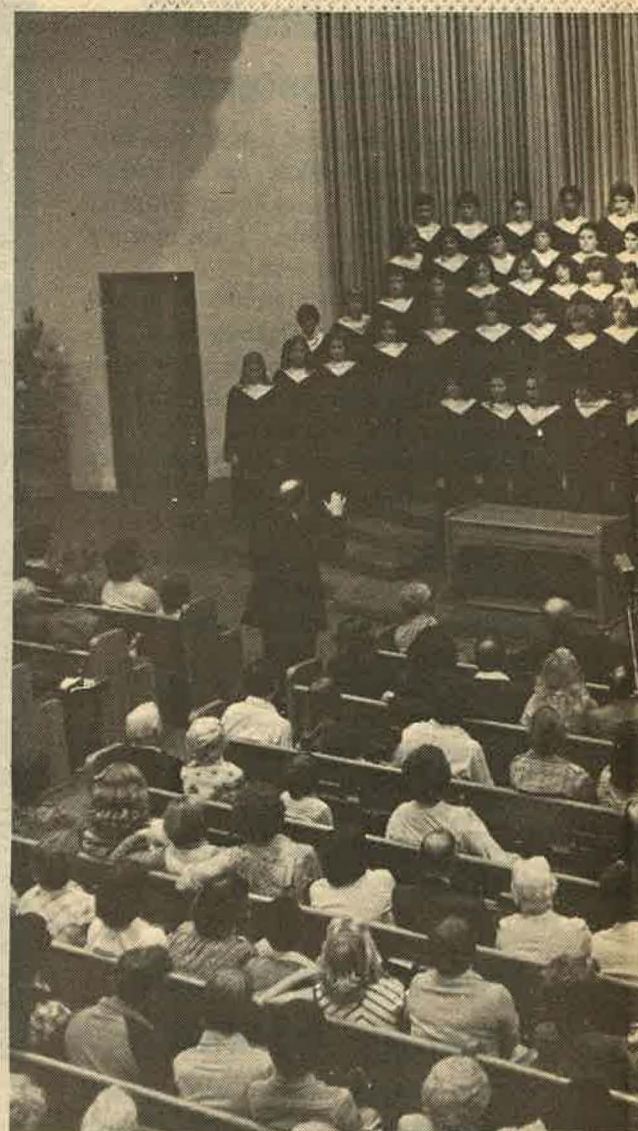

Norman Gipson, minister of the Bear Valley Church of Christ in Denver, Colo., conducts a class entitled "Studies in the Gospel of John."

For a Friday afternoon session, Jimmy Adcox, minister from Jonesboro, Ark., speaks on "I Am Debtor."

Held by Mrs. Dick Johnson, 10-month-old Aaron Heid, son of John [BA '75] and Nita Stalley [BA '75] Heid, models proper attire for the barbecue.

Campus Host Lectureship, F

The 56th Annual Bible Lectureship and Family Weekend brought more than 800 visitors to the campus October 2-6 for a concentrated time of spiritual enrichment and family emphasis.

"Let the Earth Hear His Voice," the theme for the week, was the keynote speech delivered by Charles Coffey of Florence, Ala. The idea was repeated throughout the lectureship in the song "To God Be the Glory."

Other evening lectures included Charles Hodge of Ft. Worth, Texas, Richard Rogers of Lubbock, Texas and Ira North of Madison, Tenn.

Prior to the night sessions, programs of hymns and spiritual songs were performed by the Harding Academy Chorus, the Harding Chorale and the A Cappella Chorus.

Performing their first show of the year in campus, the Belle program of contemporary music. The group of 12 entertainers by Dr. Kenneth Davis, performs a program of spiritual hymns and the Lectureship October 2-5.

ts 800 for Bible Family Weekend

Following the Lectureship, Family Weekend offered a packed schedule of activity. Parents and family members were entertained by the Time of Day trio, the Belles and Beaux, and the Campus Singers. Visitors were guests of the university for a free noon barbecue in both Heritage and Pattie Cobb cafeterias.

At a special "Cometoegether" time, President Clifton Ganus welcomed the families and recognized those who had traveled the longest distance and the parents with the most children in school.

An added attraction to this year's weekend was the presentation of "The Rainmaker," Harding's entry in the American College Theatre Festival.

Harding's joust with the Arkansas Tech Wonder Boys followed by a lily pool devotional concluded the week.

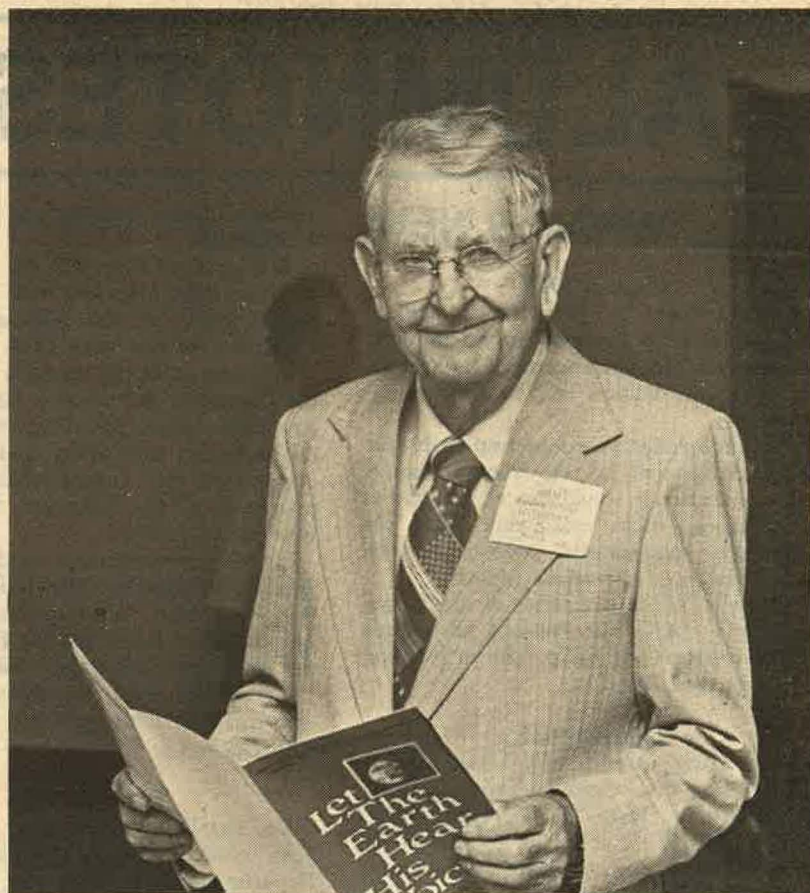

and Beaux delight the Family Weekend audience with a varied performed after President Clifton Ganus addressed the visitors.

Especially for the women, Joyce Hardin of Lubbock Christian College speaks on "Women With a Mission."

Richard Rogers of Lubbock, Texas, outlines "God's Plan for the Lost" to the audience.

Joe Ruggles, 81-year-old preacher and elder from Jasper, Texas, looks over the lectureship program. Ruggles attended every hour of the program.

Mrs. Troy Cannon and Mrs. Dean Priest examine the wares at the Crafty Corner, sponsored by the Associated Women for Harding.

Family and friends enjoy the traditional Harding barbecue served in both cafeterias on campus. The complimentary meal was an event of Family Weekend, which followed the Bible Lectureship, on October 5-6.

Alumna Speaks for Fall Lecture Series

Speaking September 30. on the Harding campus to more than 70 students and teachers in the American Studies program, business management expert Rosemary Pledger said, "Ethical codes alone will not improve business conduct. It will take character in the individual."

Miss Pledger, dean of the school of Professional Studies at the University of Houston at Clear Lake City, offered suggestions on ethical business practices in her speech, "How Values and Ethics Determine the Role and Scope of the Organization."

She challenged the future business leaders, saying, "Whatever is believed or valued at the top of the organization is the way the firm will believe. I hope that your value systems will be able to lead future organizations in the way they should be led."

The 52-year-old native of Bee Branch related common dilemmas faced by those in the business world, including honesty in communications, relation with superiors regarding wrongdoings, employing marginally qualified minorities in order to meet affirmative action policies, padding expense accounts and lubrication of contracts.

Miss Pledger warned the students that they will face problems created by value conflicts for which there may be no completely satisfactory solution. "But don't use this condition to rationalize unethical behavior on your part," she cautioned. "Don't deceive yourself into thinking you can hide unethical action."

In taking action in management, the 1947 Harding graduate told the group, "Fair dealing with customers is essential. Leadership and moral fiber must come from the top," stated the trim woman. "Test decisions against what is right rather than what is expedient."

As a final criteria used to make ethical decisions she told the students to ask, "Would I want my family, friends and employers to see this decision and its consequences on national television?"

Miss Pledger, author and seminar lecturer, was the first woman elected as president of the National Academy of management. She has taught at Texas Tech University, Lubbock Christian College, Oklahoma Christian College and Northeast Louisiana University. She earned her doctorate degree from Texas Tech University, where she was the first recipient of the doctoral degree in business.

Bison Basketball Squad Returns Four Starters

New faces combined with an experienced group of returning lettermen mean the Harding University Bisons will be striving to move up the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball ladder this year.

Coach Jess Bucy will have seven lettermen returning, including four starters from last year's 12-17 team.

Despite the loss of NAIA All-America honorable mention Stan Eckwood, the Bisons will have some talented newcomers available to take up the slack.

Providing the experienced nucleus for the Bisons will be junior guard Tim Flatt (15 ppg.), a 6-0 two-year letterman from Memphis; Kenny Moorner (8.9 ppg.), a 6-3 senior guard from Bald Knob, Ark.; 6-5 junior Ricky Treadway (8.8 ppg.) of North Little Rock; 6-5 senior Bruce Binkley (7.7 ppg.) of Tulsa, Okla.; junior 6-0 guard Bruce Baldwin of Jacksonville, Ill., and sophomore Alan Pearson of Amory, Miss.

Guard Bruce Lowe of Collinsville, Okla., and center Phil Carter of

Bruce Binkley

Florissant, Mo., will be coming back from knee surgery and their status is still uncertain. Both players are senior lettermen.

The new faces will include 6-7 Keith Terrell of St. Gabriel, La., a transfer from Crowder Junior College (Mo.), and 6-0 freshman Hubie Smith, who averaged 20 points per game for Harding Academy of Memphis.

Terrell is counted on to provide the inside rebounding strength and his 9.0 average per game at Crowder indicates he can do it.

An unexpected addition to the Bison squad will be 6-7 senior James Winston of Memphis. Winston was a two-year starter for the Bisons ('74-76) before dropping out of school. He re-enrolled last year and established his eligibility for the upcoming season.

At the start of the spring semester,

Kenny Moorner

6-6 Charles Gardner of Searcy, a transfer from North Texas State University, is expected to be eligible and should make a significant contribution to the scoring.

Rounding out the squad are sophomores Jim Salings (6-8) of Oakville, Mo., and David Presley (6-5) of Harrison, Ark.

Serving as assistant coaches are Wilt Martin and Butch Gardner.

Defensive Unit Impressive Despite Injuries

After reeling off two victories to open the season, a rash of injuries have hampered the Harding footballers, and at the midway point of the campaign, the Bisons are 2-3.

"You'd think we we're trying to apply for membership in the Red Cross or something," said head coach John Prock. "We lost a lot of our experienced players to injuries, and the flu bug has been a real problem, too."

Despite injuries to key personnel, the Bisons have played outstanding defense and have yet to allow a touchdown by rushing. Leading the Bison contingent is senior nose guard Robert Goldstein of Norcross, Ga., and linebacker Kerry Thompson of Murray, Ky.

Offensively, the Bisons have been having their problems. "We have not been able to line up the same backfield two weeks in a row," Prock said. "Right now we've got to develop some kind of consistency to move the football."

Senior wide receiver Tim Perry of Rand, W. Va., continues to lead the Bison offense with 11 catches for 216 yards and two touchdowns.

Quarterback David Jones of Ardmore, Okla., is the total offensive leader on the Bison squad with 270 yards. He has completed 16 passes for 297 yards and a touchdown.

A pleasant surprise has been the performance of freshman tailback Pat Brown. The 210 pounder has rushed for 117 yards on 62 carries. Carl Dickson of Clinton, Okla., is the leading Bison groundgainer with 192 yards on 61 carries.

Harding will play host to Ouachita Baptist University on Saturday at the 1979 Homecoming, November 8-10.

Eckwood Waived By Trail Blazers

The Portland Trail Blazers put former Harding All-American Stan Eckwood on waivers October 8.

The 6-4 Eckwood of Brinkley, Ark., was a ninth round pick in the National Basketball Association draft.

Eckwood defied odds against a late-found draftee by surviving rookie camp, the Los Angeles Summer League and the preseason cuts.

Bison coach Jess Bucy indicated that Portland was carrying six guards in the preseason camp, an unusually high number on a squad of 11.

"Stan is pro caliber," Bucy said. "He made believers of them in Portland and I hope he gets a chance to prove what he can do."

Carter Lambert

Nationally Ranked Harriers Fare Well At Notre Dame Meet

After being ranked seventh nationally, the Harding cross country team is proving that its ranking was no fluke.

Led by senior Carter Lambert, the harriers posted an eighth place finish at the prestigious Notre Dame Invitational. Lambert placed thirteenth in the meet which included 208 runners.

Also of Harding, Richard Teixeira placed 36th while John Sills was one second behind in 37th place.

Lambert, of Pearl, Miss., paced the Bisons to a second place finish in the Southwest Missouri Invitational at Springfield, Mo. Placing sixth among 89 runners, Lambert was 1:30 off the winning time of 30:13.

Teixeira finished in 11th place with Sills coming in 12th and John McAlister in 15th.

The defending champion, Harding hosts the district meet November 2. The NAIA National Championships are scheduled for November 17 in Kenosha, Wis.

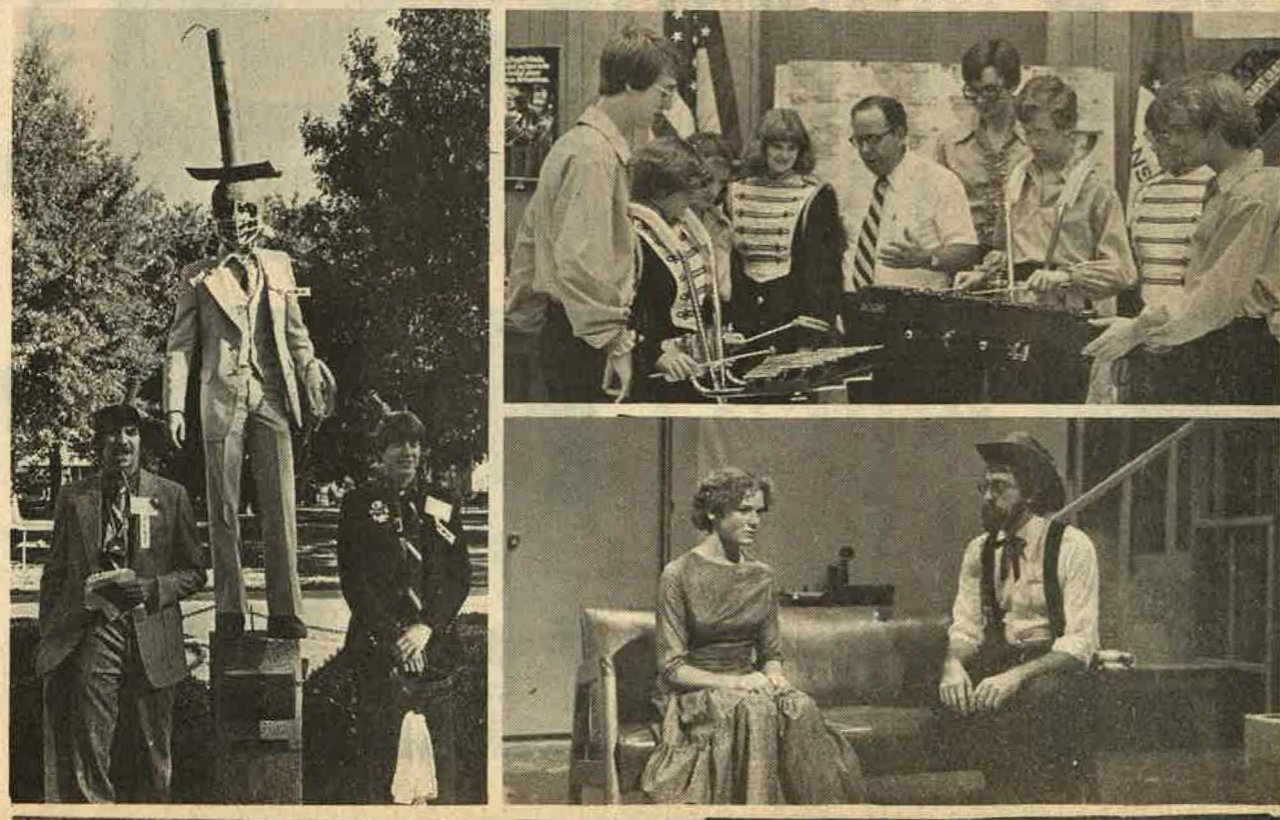

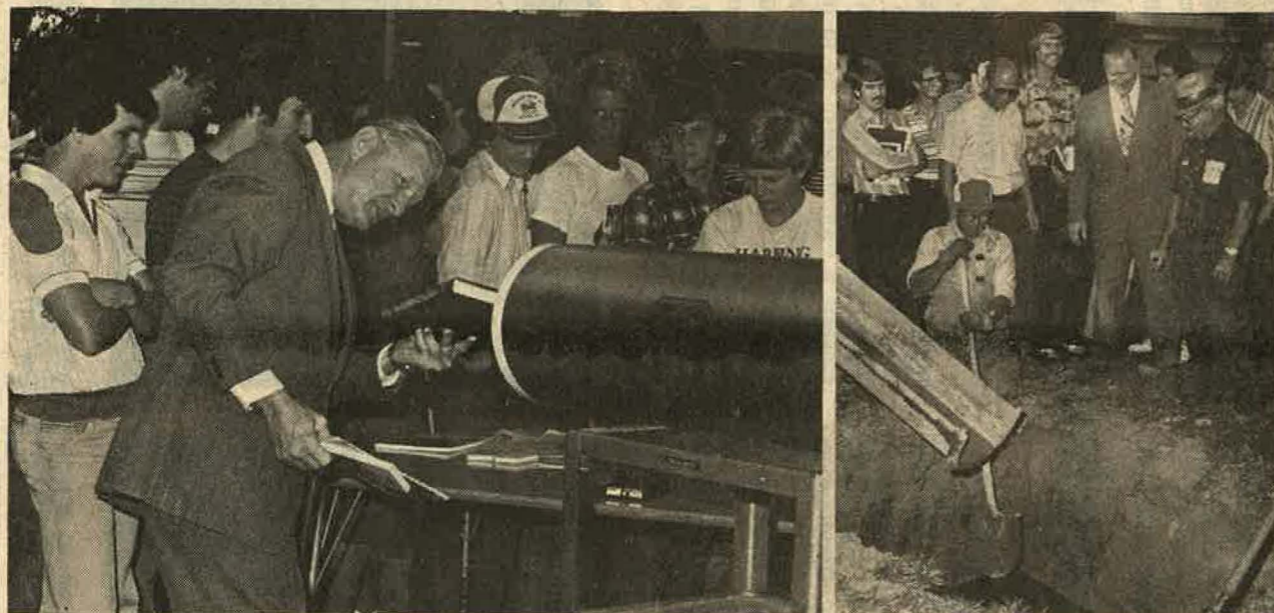

Freshman tight end Durwood Dry (85) puts the Bisons ahead of Henderson State 13-12 as he scores his first collegiate touchdown. The Bisons went on to upset the number-one team in the conference 23-12 as they advanced their record to 3-3 and 1-1 in conference play to put them in third place. It was the first time the Bisons had defeated the Reddies on the Henderson turf in the history of the 20-year series.
