Capacity Crowd Expected For Youth Forum, Spring Sing

Concentrated efforts have begun for the mid-April weekend when the annual Youth Forum and Spring Sing will drastically increase normal activity on the campus and in the city of Searcy alike.

"A Life That Shines" is the theme of the 23rd Harding University Youth Forum, April 17-18.

Using Paul's epistle to the Philippians, Jeff Walling of Mission Viejo, Calif. will give four talks encouraging young people to truly live a life that shines. The titles of Walling's talks are "A Life That Shines," "The Spirit That Binds," "A Faith That Transforms," "A Heart That Rejoices."

Walling has been preaching for 12 years. His dynamic style has made him a favorite among youth speakers and his current yearly schedule includes lectures all across the country for churches, teen programs and colleges. He has appeared on over 500 lectureships, youth rallies and evangelism seminars and speaks to tens of thousands every year in workshops and campaigns in this and other countries.

In conjunction with Walling's talks, the Youth Forum schedule includes a variety of other meaningful programs. Among other events, several music groups from Harding will perform for the Youth Forum crowd. The groups include "Good News," a mixed double quartet which sings religious songs from traditional hymns to lively spirituals. Also scheduled to perform will be the A Cappella Chorus, the Chorale, the Concert Band and the Time of Day. A non-musical group which will perform is the "Conquerors." This group presents dramatic skits which depict a Biblical or moral concept. Most people find the presentations meaningful and thought provoking.

Registration begins again on Saturday morning at 8:00. The Youth Forum schedule picks up again at 9 a.m. and concludes after the 12:45 p.m. talk by Walling.

At the conclusion of the Youth Forum two performances of Spring Sing are scheduled for the Benson Auditorium and a movie is slated for the Administration Auditorium at 7 and 10 p.m.

Spring Sing coordinator John H. Ryan said that club directors, hosts and hostesses, and technical directors and musical directors have been finalizing rehearsal schedules and other details in preparation for Spring Sing performances set for April 16-18.

"We've assigned rehearsal times for the various auditoriums on campus so that the clubs can practice their shows," Ryan said, "and that means activity will soon pick up from all standpoints."

The shows will be a part of Youth Forum weekend when thousands of visitors will be on campus for the series of lessons by Jeff Walling. Performances will be at 7 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and a matinee at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The coordinating corps includes Ryan; Steve Holder as director of the hosts and hostesses; C. Robin Miller as technical director; and Warren Casey as music director.

Emcees for the shows will be Paul Lockhart of Jasper, Ala.; Julie Smith of Jackson, Tenn.; Terrance Talley of Akron, Ohio; Shelli Miller of Springfield, Mo.; and Jay Walls of Millersport, Ohio.

Tickets are available by mail order. (See coupon on page 6.)

Fire At Campus Cogeneration Plant; Estimated Damage Set At $20,000

A fire at Harding's $2.4 million cogeneration plant Dec. 6 left the campus without electricity for more than an hour and caused an estimated $20,000 worth of damage.

The plant, a gas-fired facility brought on line last summer, sustained minimal damage to the building and no damage to the cogeneration equipment.

"The fire was contained very quickly by the staff and local fire department and there were no injuries of any kind," President Clifton L. Ganus said.

The fire, which also interrupted an intercollegiate basketball game, apparently started in insulation in the southeast corner of the building, above a loading dock door. The operator on duty, after detecting the fire, fought it briefly with a fire extinguisher, then shut the plant down. Although the generators were not damaged, the campus was without power from 8:10 p.m. until 9:25 p.m.

"The specific cause has never been specifically determined," Dr. Ganus said. "It's thought that a possible spark from a welder's torch somehow may have smoldered in the insulation. But whatever the nature of the fire, the most important thing is that the engines were not harmed."

Searcy Fire Chief J. W. Morris said emergency extinguishing equipment at the plant was activated when the fire occurred and that "other than cleanup, the result was minor damage to the structure itself."

Arkansas Power & Light Company, which has a connection just outside the plant, had a 750-Kilowatt backup hooked up to the University by 9:25 p.m. Crews worked through the night and the University's first engine at the plant was turned back on the following afternoon.

When the fire broke out, Harding and Arkansas College had begun an Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball game in the Athletic Complex across the street from the plant. Harding was leading 18-9 with 11:25 left in the first half when the power cutoff left approximately 1,200 spectators who had come for "Parents Night" in a darkened gym. Emergency lighting was activated and the building was evacuated without incident.

(The game was suspended and completed Jan. 24 with the Bisons taking an 83-63 victory.)

In a separate situation, a room in Cathcart women's dormitory was damaged extensively when a resident left hot rollers on her bed shortly after the holiday recess. The furniture and bedding in the room were destroyed, and there was smoke damage on the second and third floors, but the fire was discovered early and was extinguished with conventional fire extinguishers within 30 minutes.

Carr Appointed Vice President

James W. Carr, a 1980 graduate who has been a Regional Director of the American College Testing Program (ACT) since 1976, has been named Vice President for Educational Services and Enrollment Management, effective May 15. Carr will work with the Admissions Office, Financial Aid Office, and other educational services.

The appointment was made jointly by President Clifton L. Ganus Jr. and President-elect David B. Burks. "Dr. Carr will bring a love for Christian education and an expertise in the field that will cause him to be extremely effective in this new responsibility," they said.

Carr has also served as Associate Dean of Admissions and as Director of Student Financial Assistance at Florida State University in Tallahassee. A management major at Harding, he holds the Master of Science and the Ph.D. from Florida State in college and university administration. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Jimmy Carr.

Carr presently serves on the President's Development Council at Harding and as a member of the Board of Trustees of Ohio Valley College in West Virginia. He is on the Board of Directors of COMSAFE, Inc., a Jack Nicklaus-Golden Bear Company, and since 1985 has been Vice President of the FSU Alumni Association. He has been active in civic and community programs in the Tallahassee area.

Ruhl Given Honorary Degree At December Ceremonies

President Clifton L. Ganus Jr. presented the award at Benson Auditorium, on behalf of the Board of Trustees.

"I never expected to receive an honorary degree, and to be recognized by such a great university as Harding is very special," he said.

Ruhl became the founding president of Goodpasture School in 1965, when grades one through six were opened. Today there are 1,180 students enrolled in the 12 grades and the school is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., Ruhl attended David Lipscomb College, graduating in 1959 with a B.A. in speech. He was president of the student body and a member of the varsity tennis team.

Ruhl has preached for Churches of Christ in Linden, Nashville and Madison, Tenn. Mrs. Ruhl is the former Annette Sellars and they have three daughters and three grandchildren.

Harding Graduates Rank High In State Testing

By Amy Blankenship
Bison assistant editor

Educators with undergraduate and graduate degrees from Harding were among those with the highest success rates on the state basic skills test, according to statistics released Dec. 3 by the state Education Department.

Teachers with undergraduate degrees from Harding, Hendrix College at Conway and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock had the lowest failure rate on the Arkansas Educational Skills Assessment Test, with less than one percent failing. All educators in the state are required to pass the test by June 1, 1987 to obtain recertification.

"All three of these schools have high-quality students to begin with," said Dr. Bobby Coker, dean of the School of Education. "As a private university, we get a student to whom values are important, and generally learning and achievement are also important to them."

The three schools with the highest failure rates — Philander Smith College, Arkansas Baptist College and the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff — are predominantly black institutions. This prompted some charges that the test was racially biased, including a lawsuit filed May 29 by the Arkansas Educational Association.

Coker disagreed with these accusations and offered an explanation for the results. "There was a conscious effort on the part of those preparing the test to determine that it wasn't racially biased," he said. "They even brought in individuals to determine that the questions were not racially biased in any way."

Coker felt that the lack of educational opportunities afforded to blacks throughout past years helped explain the test scores at these institutions. He also attributed them to socio-economic factors.

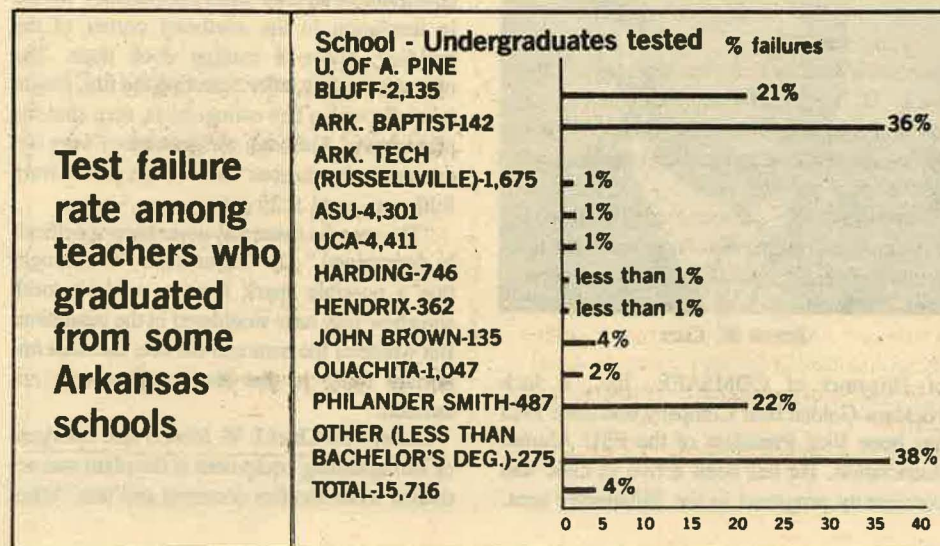

"There is a positive correlation between socio-economic factors and the level of achievement in school," he explained. "Those who come from a low socio-economic status as a general rule, not always, achieve less in school than those who don't... The proportion of blacks of low socio-economic status is higher than whites."

Educators with graduate degrees from

Harding and Arkansas Tech University had the lowest failure rates, with less than one percent, failing. Coker also noted the success of Harding students on the National Teacher Exam.

"Any teacher seeking initial certification must take the NTE in specialty area and professional knowledge," he said. "Our graduates also perform among the best in the state, with less than a one percent failure rate."

Originally, results of the basic skills test were only released to individuals. But Rep. Lloyd George of Danville insisted on listing results of the test according to the institutions from which the teachers graduated.

Tucker Selected By Searcy Chamber To Lead Business Planning Group

The effectiveness of a close working relationship between Searcy's business and industrial leaders and the Harding administration has been realized once again with the appointment of Vice President for Finance Lott R. Tucker as chairman of the Planning and Steering Committee of the Searcy Chamber of Commerce. The select group will develop programs to enhance the city's economic and business climate and its program for attracting new industry to Searcy.

A long time civic leader in Searcy, Tucker is a former president and board member of the Searcy Chamber of Commerce. He also has served as a board member of the State Chamber.

In December, Tucker was one of three finalists for the Daily Citizen White County Community Service Award for 1986.

"The work of the Chamber and this committee is to maintain the vitality and economic stability of the business community," Tucker said. "We will study opportunities to build on the work of those who have led Searcy's industrial expansion in years past."

Specific projects have included the study, update and approval of the official charter and formation of a five-year master plan for the organization. Then, a research study was conducted to determine the attitudes and perceptions of the business and professional persons in the community for their recommendations. The survey was designed and administered by Charles Walker, an Associate Professor of Marketing and Business, and Harding students.

The Harding chapter of Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) produced a newsletter for the Chamber to be circulated to the membership. The first edition, one of three planned for the year, was edited by Marti Hinds, a December graduate, from Portland, Ore.

Lott R. Tucker

Additionally, a Searcy Fact Sheet has been prepared for direct mail use and a Leadership Institute for professional development has been initiated.

"In all of these activities, the people and resources of the University have played a significant role," Tucker said. "We are an integral part of this community and this kind of activity allows us to make our contribution as a good citizen."

Others involved in the program are Chamber President Mike Millar, Constitution; Former President Steve Lightle, Governmental Liaison; Wayne Hartsfield, Goals and Objectives; and E. D. Yancey, Industrial Lands and Parks.

The opportunity for the local Chamber to pursue the current program was developed by Tucker from a $7,500 grant from Southwestern Bell Foundation last fall. The funds were directed for a combined effort by Harding and the business community to investigate economic development and provide support for leadership training for community leaders.

"The work of the chamber is to work for a beneficial climate for individuals and businesses to grow," Tucker said. "It is not a quick-fix type of program but one which requires long-term involvement on the part of a lot of people, working together. We're working to insure the future, not just of Searcy, but of Harding as well."

Strategic Planning Committee Appointed For Study

A Strategic Planning Committee has been appointed by President Clifton L. Ganus to assess needs and establish goals for the University for the next five years.

President-elect David Burks has been named to head the select committee.

"The committee has been chosen to gain input from faculty, staff, alumni, the President's Development Council, Board members and others to form a five-year strategy plan for the University," Ganus said. "The next five-year development and financial plan will be a by-product of this effort."

The concept for the special committee is not a new one, Ganus said. When he became president of Harding in 1965, a similar committee was functioning and has continued to be active throughout his term as president.

The Strategic Planning Committee is to gather information, externally and internally, for the purpose of decision making concerning the future of the University.

"We plan for the committee to approach the activity with a business strategy called the SWOT theory," Burks said. "We want to examine our strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and possible threats to our continued existence."

The committee consists of Dr. Dean Priest, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Ted Altman, Vice President for Student Affairs; Floyd Daniel, Vice President for University Relations; Lott Tucker, Vice President for Finance; Dr. Neale Pryor, Vice President for Academic Affairs; Dr. Bobby Coker, Dean of the School of Education; Dr. Cathleen Shultz, Dean of the School of Nursing; Dr. Jim Henderson, Associate Dean of the School of Business, and Dr. Jimmy Carr, Assistant to the President.

Information for the study will be drawn from "source" people throughout the campus in student affairs, the Development Council, business and registrar's offices, financial aid, athletics, admissions, public relations, the heads of all departments and the Student Association.

During the next six to eight months, labeled the "Needs Assessment Phase," the committee will look at strengths and weaknesses to try and decide how to use resources and personnel for the most effective output.

The first planning committee meeting was Jan. 15. Subsequent meetings are scheduled for April 1, April 17, May 1, May 7 and Aug. 21 at Camp Tahkodah. Burks will present a broad outline of the plan for the next five years to faculty, board alumni and administration.

Third Annual UPLIFT Bible Camp Set June 21-27; Speakers Announced

The third UPLIFT Bible Camp sponsored by Harding's Bible Department is scheduled for June 21 through 27 on the Harding campus.

A complete slate of special speakers and programs is in store for the more than 500 young people expected for the event. As the name indicates, UPLIFT is designed to lift up young people so they may better lift up Christ in their lives.

Kicking off the week of inspiring activities will be performances by "A Cappella," an outstanding singing group from Paris, Tenn. Mike Cope, minister for the College Church of Christ in Searcy, will also help start the program with a keynote talk on Sunday night.

Other keynote speakers for UPLIFT include Jay Utley, Campus Minister for the Edmond Church of Christ in Edmond, Okla. and Buddy Bell, from the University Church of Christ in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Two other keynote speakers will be Jeff Walling of Mission Viejo, Calif. and Ronnie White, minister for the Quail Springs Church of Christ in Oklahoma City.

UPLIFT is a week-long Bible camp for young people on the Harding University campus. Campers attend challenging Bible classes, hear motivating speakers, sing, pray, read scripture and enjoy Christian fellowship with young people from around the country. A daily schedule guides their activities and includes an ample amount of recreation time, all of which is supervised by campus counselors.

The cost for UPLIFT is only $75, which includes the registration fee, 14 meals, and UPLIFT T-shirt and housing. Free activities include swimming, tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball and weightlifting. A nominal fee is charged for bowling and game room activities.

Campers stay in air-conditioned dorms on campus or, if requested, stay in the homes of Christians in the Searcy community. Housing and meal waivers are available to group leaders of groups of 15 or more.

More information is available by writing to UPLIFT, Harding University, Box 939, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

Goal of 1,000 Set For Summer School

Efforts to have 1,000 students in Harding University's summer sessions during the various offering of the 1987 program have intensified with plans for Intersession, two five-week programs and Summer's End session set for May through mid-August.

The mini-course of Intersession, when students may earn up to four hours of credit in the 13-day period of study, has been set for May 11-27.

Five-week sessions will be held June 8-July 10 and July 13-Aug. 14, with students having opportunity to earn seven hours of credit per session during this time.

Summer's End session will take place July 29-Aug. 14, leaving two days for students to study and complete finals for the second five-week session. Four hours of credit may be earned during this session.

"Summer school is an excellent time to take classes in consideration with financial planning and time involved," said Dr. Larry Long, coordinator. "We are glad to have these classes available to assist both currently enrolled students and those who have been out of college for a while in completing or advancing their education."

A variety of workshops will be offered in conjunction with the summer school program. Participants in most of the workshops will earn credit in an appropriate area. Workshop topics range from driver and traffic safety to computers and special travel tours to New England, Africa or South America.

A full schedule of classes may be obtained by writing Harding University, Summer School, Station A, Box 898, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

York Honors Moore

Lew Moore, professor of psychology and director of counseling, was chosen by York College to receive the 1986 Servant of the Family Award, an honor reserved only for those who have excelled in promoting and preserving the concept of the family. He is the fourth such recipient, the others being Dr. Nick Stinnett of Pepperdine University, Mrs. Mary Oler of Dallas and Woody Kirk of York, Neb.

Mike Cravens, chairman of the Division of Human Development at York, presented the award during Family Day ceremonies on the campus.

A 1970 graduate of Harding, Moore received a doctorate in Marriage and Family Counseling from the University of Nebraska. He was named Director of Counseling in 1981. He also is associated with the College Church of Christ Family Life Center in Searcy.

Trio Awarded Grants; Plan Mission Work

Three Harding University students have been awarded grants from the Student Missionary Loan/Grant Fund for Single Women. The ladies have committed to serving in Haiti, Costa Rica and Scotland.

Recipients for 1987 are Mary Ann Jeffries of North Charleroi, Pa., a 1986 nursing graduate who plans to go to Haiti; Melissa Brenneman of Spartanburg, S.C., a senior social work major who will go to Costa Rica; and Janis Appel of Wallingford, Conn., a senior management major who will work in Scotland.

The fund was established by Mr. and Mrs. James S. MacDonald Jr. of Doctors Inlet, Fla., after the graduation of their daughter, Donna Jo McDonald, whose interest in serving others prompted their decision.

"My wife and I have become more aware of the obstacles facing young, single women who want to do a mission work for the Lord to get support," McDonald said in establishing the fund. Conditions under consideration in the trust are 1) Lower than bank interest loans be made available to seniors whose plans call for their entering mission work; 2) Loan/grants be available to single, women graduates who enter a mission work within three months after graduation and also who remain in the work.

The suggestions included emphasis on the fields of nursing or other types of medical assistants, teachers in missionary operated schools and social workers.

Another student, Lynn Alley, received a grant from the fund when she was graduated in 1984. She worked with Dean English in Scotland.

Paul Gardner

Gardner Earns CFRE

Paul Gardner, special development representative for Harding, is one of 174 individuals nationally to receive designation as a Certified Fund Raising Executive from the National Society of Fund Raising Executives (NSFRE).

Certification chairman Robert Pierpont announced the action of the NSFRE Certification Board. NSFRE is an educational organization based in Alexandria, Va., with membership of more than 6,000 professional fund raisers.

Gardner earned certification by successfully completing a four-hour comprehensive examination. Topics included: management, capital campaigns, annual funds, deferred giving, direct mail, special events and grantsmanship.

A 1965 alumnus of Harding, Gardner earned the master's degree from West Virginia in 1966 and the doctorate from Ohio University in 1975. The topic of his doctoral thesis was "A Study of the Attitudes of Harding College Alumni With an Emphasis on Donor and Non-Donor Characteristics."

He joined the University staff in 1968 as director of annual giving. From 1975 to 1984 he served as vice president for institutional advancement at Ohio Valley College. He rejoined the Harding development area in 1984.

Gardner was instrumental in developing the "Phonothons" as fund raising avenues with Harding alumni. He coordinated Harding's first "Phonothons" in 1971, which exceeded its goal of $200,000. In 1974 he coordinated a successful $1 million "Phonothons" effort among Harding alumni and friends. His efforts were recognized by a national first place award from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education in 1975.

St. Louis Academy, Ohio Valley Win Invitational Business Competition

Seven junior colleges and 13 high schools competed recently in the annual Harding University Invitational Business Games, a business simulation competition in which Ohio Valley College and Christian Academy of Greater St. Louis took top honors.

Using a special computer program, teams submitted decisions throughout the fall regarding a simulated business. The teams then came to the Harding campus to turn in their final decisions and make a presentation. Judging was based on overall performance, presentation and on quantitative results.

Ohio Valley College (Parkersburg, W.Va.) won the junior college division, or industry, by taking first in overall performance, first in presentation and first quantitatively in their industry.

Christian Academy of Greater St. Louis was the overall high school winner by taking first in High School Industry I, first in presentation for their industry and first quantitatively.

Other winners in the Junior College Industry were York College (Neb.), second quantitative, and North Arkansas Community College, second presentation.

Other High School Industry I winners were

Mars Hill Bible School (Florence, Ala.), second quantitative and Central Arkansas Christian School (No. Little Rock), second presentation.

High School Industry II winners were: Madison Academy (Huntsville, Ala.), first overall, first presentation, second quantitative and West Memphis (Ark.) Christian School, first quantitative and second presentation.

Nashville (Tenn.) Christian School was first overall, first quantitative and second in presentation in High School III. Boyd-Buchanan School (Chattanooga, Tenn.), was first in presentation and second quantitative in the industry.

Other junior colleges competing were: Garland County (Ark.) Community College, Westark Community College (Ft. Smith, Ark.), American College (Ft. Smith) and Michigan Christian College (Rochester, Mich.).

Other high schools which sent teams were: England (Ark.), Bald Knob (Ark.), Crowley's Ridge Academy (Paragould, Ark.), West Birmingham (Ala.) Christian School, Harrison (Ark.), Jefferson Christian Academy (Birmingham, Ala.), and Living Word Academy (Oklahoma City).

Elderhostel Program Announced

Harding University will sponsor its sixth annual Elderhostel program this summer by offering two sessions June 21-27 and July 5-11, according to Dr. Jimmy Carr, coordinator.

The Elderhostel program is for those 60 years of age and over to enroll in courses strictly for the opportunity to learn. There are no examinations, no grades, and no homework for Elderhostelers, only interest, fun and sharing.

Courses which will be taught during the first session will include "The Ranch and the Cowboy" including a study of ranching in the west with an emphasis on the reality of the harsh environment and hard work rather than the mythical view as presented in contemporary media. Virgil Lawyer, professor of history, will be the instructor. "Portraits of Christ" will be taught by Neale Pryor, professor of Bible. The class concerns the life and teachings of Christ as portrayed in the Gospels of Matthew, Luke and John and will be covered from a Christian perspective.

A hands-on class, "Woodcarving," will provide the opportunity to learn basic skills of the craft. Little or no experience is necessary and three to five projects will be completed during the week. Don England, distinguished professor of chemistry and a member of the National Woodcarver's Association and Ozark Foothills Woodcarvers, will instruct the course.

Lawyer will conduct the course on "The Ranch and the Cowboy" again for the second session. Mike James, instructor of communication, will oversee the class, "You're On Camera." In Harding's television studio, participants will produce, shoot, and star in a production which will be shown during the Elderhostel graduation. The techniques that will be shown will assist video camera users. "Cornucopia of Exciting Experiments" will include a visual and hands-on acquaintance with some of the more interesting basic experiments dealing with heat, light, sound, electricity and fire. William Rushton, professor of biology, will serve as the instructor.

Harding's classes are coordinated through the national Elderhostel Program and can accommodate a maximum of 40 students for each of the 1987 sessions. Participants will be housed in the American Heritage Center with private baths, dining and meeting rooms available.

For more information write to Dr. Carr, Harding University, Station A, Box 1224, Searcy, Ark. 72143. Harding is one of seven universities in Arkansas participating in the Elderhostel summer programs.

Alumni, Friends Invited To Tour Europe; 19-Day Trip Planned April 28 - May 16

An alumni-friends tour to The Netherlands, West Germany, Switzerland, Austria, and Italy has been planned for April 28-May 16 with Dr. and Mrs. Jimmy Carr as hosts. The price for the trip will be $2,050 with departure from Little Rock or Atlanta.

During the trip, a highlight will be five days at Harding's 16th Century villa in Florence, Italy, headquarters for the University's Harding in Florence semester program.

The third such tour developed for Harding alumni and friends of the University, the tour is set for departure April 28 from Atlanta or Little Rock by KLM, Royal Dutch Airlines with three days of sightseeing in Amsterdam. The group will depart by train for a journey down the Rhine River Valley through the Swiss Alps to Lucerne, Switzerland with a day trip to Zurich.

After the two days in Switzerland, the group will have one day each in Innsbruck, Austria; Munich, Germany, and Venice, Italy.

In addition to the time at Harding's villa, participants will complete the tour with visits to Rome, Sorento, San Gimignano, Siena and Pisa.

"We will be visiting at a time when the countries will not be overrun by tourists," Dr. Carr mentioned, "and we will have first class accommodations on Eurail trains. We can assure the participants a delightful experience. We hope many will join us because previous tours have been extremely enjoyable."

The group will leave from Rome to Amsterdam via Alitalia and return to Little Rock or Atlanta by KLM on May 16.

The tour will be limited to 24 persons. A $300 deposit must be made with the application, and the remainder must be received by March 15. The deposit is fully refundable until 45 days prior to departure. Cancellation will be subject to a cancellation charge. A brochure with further details is available upon request.

"The $2,050 price includes air transportation, first class trains, hotels and most food costs," Carr said.

Carr also asked those interested in future tours to make requests for places for Harding-sponsored excursions.

31st Youth Citizenship Seminar Set; National Speakers To Keynote Sessions

The 31st Annual Youth Citizenship Seminar will be hosted by Harding University June 14-19. The seminar will be sponsored by Civitan clubs, Arkansas and Tennessee Farm Bureau, Kiwanis clubs, Lion's clubs and the University's American Studies Program.

Several hundred high school juniors and seniors will spend a week on the Harding campus to learn more about democracy, free enterprise and the American way of life. In past years, the students have come from Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee to attend the seminar.

Dr. Bob Reely, director, said the seminars have a twofold purpose. "The program is designed to inform the young people about our country's heritage and goals and to encourage them to take active roles as citizens and leaders in their communities."

The visiting students will hear speakers including Eldridge Cleaver, former Black Panther activist; Oddvar Berg, former missionary in the Belgian Congo; Col. Joseph E. Hickox, former attache to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow; Charles Plumb, former prisoner of war in Vietnam and June Collier, chief executive officer of National Industries in Montgomery, Ala.

Harding President Clifton Ganus and Dr. Don Diffine, director of the Belden Center for Private Enterprise Education, will also have a part in the program.

On the final day of the seminar, students will be given the opportunity to display their talents or make presentations of what they have learned during the week at a formal banquet.

Homecoming Musical Announced; San Juan and Medders Get Lead Roles

Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I," the Broadway musical which immortalized the late Yul Brynner, has been chosen as the 1987 Homecoming production Oct. 30-31 and principal roles have been selected. Morris R. Ellis will direct the show.

Cast in leading parts are Robert San Juan, a sophomore advertising art major from Shreveport, La., as the King and India Medders, a freshman public relations major from Resaca, Ga., as Anna.

Other major roles selected following auditions are Nathan Yoder, a sophomore elementary education major from Flint, Mich., as Lun; Jana Payne, a sophomore vocal/choral major from Cabot, Ark., as Tuptian; and Leanne Baker, a sophomore music major from Bozeman, Mont., as Lady Thiang.

Dr. Arthur Shearin will be musical director for the performances.

Long-time Harding associates will be familiar with the play, which was a presentation of the art, speech and music departments in 1961 when the roles of Anna and the King were played by Nannie Sanders Wilson and Norman Tubbs, respectively.

India Medders

Robert San Juan

The early assignment of roles was started last year when "Annie" leads were chosen in the spring. The method proved valuable in that the students could learn both the music and lines during the summer.

Showalter Elected To State Board

Russell Showalter, assistant to the vice-president for finance at Harding University, has been elected to the Student Loan Guarantee Foundation of Arkansas Board of Directors for a six-year term.

A member of the 12-member board since 1974, he previously served two terms as president of the foundation.

The Student Loan Guarantee Foundation administers the Guaranteed Student Loan Program in Arkansas. Approximately $34 million in loans were processed for the fiscal year of 1986. Since the establishment of the Foundation in 1976, more than $220 million in student loans have been guaranteed.

"Through the Guaranteed Loan Program a lot of young people have been able to further their educational opportunities," Showalter said. "It is a genuine pleasure to be able to serve and be a part of the work."

A native of White County (Showalter Corners), Showalter joined Harding in 1967 as director of financial aid. In 1976 he served as the Arkansas representative on the National Council of the Association of Financial Aid Administrators in Washington, D.C. In 1979-80 he served as president of the Southwest District of the Association of Financial Aid Administrators, which represented 296 colleges and universities.

Russell Showalter

At the present time he coordinates special projects under Vice President Lott Tucker. He has coordinated a program with the local business community which arranges employment for Harding University students.

Showalter has recently been elected to a sixth term as city councilman for Searcy.

21ST ANNUAL FESTIVAL — Nearly 700 students from 15 choruses at 13 colleges and universities sing in the final concert of the Christian College Choral Festival held on campus Jan. 8-9. Dr. Douglas McEwen, director of choirs at Arizona State University, served as guest clinician for the Festival.

AWH "Cheers" Sweeten Test Week For Students

Final exam week was made a little sweeter, literally, for about 400 Harding University students who were benefactors of "Harding Cheers," a special project organized by the Searcy chapter of Associated Women for Harding.

The fortunate students found at their mailboxes a holiday stenciled box containing fruit, nuts, a gingerbread man, candy cane and homemade cookies and candy, a gift from their parents through arrangement with AWH in the cooperative effort.

"Harding Cheers" was developed as a ways and means project for the Searcy chapter with Mrs. Boyce Arnett serving as general chairman.

The chapter mailed letters to parents of current students on Nov. 19 offering for a fee of $14 what was described as "... a nourishing package to be delivered at the beginning of finals week to serve as an encouragement during the exams," Mrs. Arnett explained. The box had a card that could contain a message from the parents, also.

The letter requested a Dec. 5 deadline. "We hoped we would get 50 responses so that we could recover expenses; and we agreed that 100 responses would give us a feeling of success. We were overwhelmed to receive the 400 orders from all over the United States," she said, "and we regretted having to turn down others that were received after the deadline."

The project, which had proved successful on other campuses, is being considered for expansion to include birthdays, get well wishes and "thinking of you" occasions.

Once the orders started arriving, Mrs. Arnett and Mrs. Jim Citty, the local AWH president, began seeking volunteers. By the time the delivery dates arrived, the AWH house, where the packaging was done, was bustling with activity.

Mrs. Arnett said the packages contained a total of 2,500 chocolate chip cookies, 1,600 brownies, 30 gallons of caramel popcorn, and 30 batches of fudge, in addition to the gingerbread men, fruit and candy canes.

"We utilized the services of many members," Arnett said, "with one volunteer making 12 batches of fudge in one day and another making 80 dozen cookies. We could not have achieved it without this help, and we are especially grateful to Piggly Wiggly East, Wal-Mart and Warehouse Foods for supplying the candy canes."

Notes from parents were numerous, Mrs. Citty told. One parent sent an order for her child and included an addition fee which she asked be given to a foreign student. One said, "I couldn't get to my check book quickly enough." Some even included extra money "because this was such a good idea." One noted, "I don't know how any parent could turn down such an offer."

Student response was enthusiastic. "It was really a big surprise," one said. Another mentioned she had already re-used the box to wrap another package.

The organizers are already making plans for next year.

New Faculty Members Added in Bible, Business

Two new faculty members were added for the spring semester with Ken Miller as an Associate Professor of Religious Education and David Allen as an Assistant Professor of Accounting.

Miller, formerly the education minister for the Sunset Church of Christ in Lubbock, is a graduate of Abilene Christian University and holds the master's from Trinity University in San Antonio and the Doctor of Education from Arizona State University.

He has 14 years of experience in public and Christian school teaching, administration and curriculum development. He is the author of Bible school literature and has developed curriculum for children, teens and adults.

Allen is a 1973 graduate of Harding and a Certified Public Accountant. He has been residing in Conway, where he was also Youth Minister for the Robinson and Center Church of Christ.

Student Marketing Plan Selected As Finalist

A marketing proposal developed by a team of Harding University students has been selected as one of four finalists in the southern region in the 1987 American Marketing Association/Business Week Careers-Marketing Strategy Case Competition.

The Harding team will participate in the region finals at Kennesaw College in Marietta, Ga. Feb. 14.

The participating students are Bonnie Richards of Searcy, Rodney Rodgers of La Palma, Calif., Susan Jill Seal of East Prairie, Mo., Rhonda Umberger of Princeton, W.Va., and Todd Willis of Corning, Ark. The faculty sponsor and advisor is Charles Walker, associate professor of marketing and business.

The topic for the competition was to develop a comprehensive and succinct marketing strategy for Special Olympics International, an organization dedicated to the physical, social and psychological development of mentally retarded people.

"Since the entries were submitted at the national level, we think this is a significant achievement on the part of the students," Walker said. "All of the research and preparation of the proposal was conducted during the fall semester."

Spring Registration Up; Applications Show Increase

Registration for the spring semester closed Jan. 25 with a total of 2,647 students enrolled for classes. The number is up by 23 students over last spring's final count.

Spring registration is traditionally lower than the fall, due in part to December commencement. Last fall's high was 2,767, only four short of the 1985 peak, but 135 seniors were graduated in commencement in December.

Admissions Director Durward McGaha reported that applications for next fall are being received daily, with a 12.2 percent overall increase in applications from the previous year. "We were delighted that we had a total of 65 during one week this month," he said.

An added factor, according to McGaha, is the increased emphasis which has been placed on retention of students already enrolled. "A faculty committee is now addressing that need," he said. "And, of course, the Student Impact orientation program started last fall has already proved to be one of the finest things we've ever done to get new students involved in campus life."

Harding Continues Tradition of Mission Emphasis

By Brad Watson

World evangelism, the practical result of a commitment to the great commission, has long been emphasized at Harding. The result has been that several missions programs and innovations began at Harding.

Few people realize Harding has often set the pattern for missions education, training and involvement. Seemingly, a number of Harding alumni and supporters also are unaware of the degree of missions involvement at Harding, both past and present.

"Missions interest and training have been vital concerns of Harding University for more than 50 years," said Dr. Don Shackelford, director of Harding University in Florence (Italy) and of International Campaigns.

Briefly reviewing those 50 years, Shackelford said, "George Benson came home from the Orient to become president of Harding College. (With his leadership) the first courses offered on the college level in missions were available at Harding.

"The World Mission Workshop...had its beginning on the Harding campus. The 'Visiting Missionary' as a teacher was pioneered by Harding.

"The Mission/Prepare program," Shackelford continued, "had its inception at Harding in 1968. It is designed to be a total approach to worldwide evangelistic training and motivation."

Now, after many years of changes in Christian education and the desires of students, there remains a strong current of world evangelism activity at Harding. Currently, there are no less than six areas of opportunity for involvement in missions outside the regular Bible Department curriculum for a major in Bible or missions.

HOPE, Harding's Outreach Program of Evangelism, offers valuable opportunities to those interested in missions. The program helps train new missionaries, from all fields of study, by preparing and placing interns and apprentices in countries of their choosing around the world. The intern, working under the supervision of active missionaries in the field, gains valuable experience and insight into foreign missions.

The Outreach fellowship is one way Harding students and faculty encourage one another to reach out to a lost world. Activities of the group include weekly meetings for uplifting devotionals and to hear inspiring speakers, the sponsoring of missions films, trips to missions workshops and producing events designed to heighten overall campus awareness and appreciation of world evangelism.

International campaigns each year sends about 100 students around the world to assist local congregations in evangelistic outreach. In the more than 20-year history of the campaigns over 1,000 people have been baptized during the campaigns. Scores of others contacted during campaigns have later become Christians. Motivated and prepared, in part, by their International Campaigns experiences, more than 50 former campaigners have become missionaries.

Other campaign opportunities also abound. Independent groups take campaigns to South America, Africa, France and other parts of Europe. Domestic campaign groups cover the northeast, southeast and northwest areas of the U.S.

The Harding School of Biblical Studies seeks to train effective preachers of the word for all parts of the world. Standards of the school's program require participation in both foreign and domestic campaigns before graduation. A result of this missions emphasis has been that, since the fall of 1976, HSBS graduates have gone out to over 30 states and 10 foreign countries.

Seeking to expand its ability to train missionaries by exposing students directly to mission work, the Harding University Bible Department obtained licenses and equipment in 1986 for a short-wave radio station. This equipment allows students to have first-hand access to missionaries on the field, providing valuable insight, information and encouragement to the student interested in missions.

World evangelism has been a cornerstone for the School of Nursing since its inception. Nursing students are continually encouraged to participate in medical missions. They are taught to use their knowledge as a way of showing Christian compassion and to open doors for teaching the gospel. Each year student nurses have opportunities to travel on medical missions to Africa and Central America.

Dr. Van Tate, director of Mission/Prepare, expressed why world evangelism remains an area of emphasis at Harding. "Our students still face a world where Christianity is a minority religion. The total Christian population is estimated to be about one-fifth of the world population.

"Today's students must be challenged to conquer (cultural, religious, social and language) barriers. They must be trained to effectively communicate the Gospel to the unbelieving masses."

Student Art Chosen For Permanent Collection

Fourteen art students have had work selected for the permanent collection of the Harding Art Department.

"Our permanent collection represents some of the finest work of our students and we are tremendously proud of their accomplishments," Don Robinson, chairman of the department said.

In drawing, pencil renderings were selected from Scott Brukardt of Glendale, Ariz., Robert San Juan of Shreveport, La., and Samantha White of The Woodlands, Texas.

Prints were included from Eric Pipkin of Cabot, Ark., and Lynette Shields of York, Neb., as well as an etching by Robert Hardison of Virginia Beach, Va.

In the category of painting, works were included from Susan Alcock of Palm Beach Garden, Fla., Carroll Bailey of Houston, Texas, Jim Davis of Silvis, Ill., Emiko Ikeda of Tokyo, Japan, Don Oelze of Bedford, Ind., and Rene Young of Portland, Ore.

For the first time, renderings from the interior design area were selected. Works by Debra Akin of Washougal, Wash., and Ann Whitehead of Augusta, Ark., were recognized.

Jewell Fulfills Dreams In Classroom

By Alice Ann Kellar

Like most wives and mothers, Alice Jewell wears several hats. The one she wears as teacher of English on the college level is one she never expected to don.

Because of "terrific role models" her high school teachers provided, plus some turns of fate, she now wears that one proudly and well.

"I had planned to teach English on the junior high level, maybe even Latin at the high school level, but certainly not college level," she remembers. "However, maybe even through the providence of God, I'm here (college level) because I might not have the patience to teach junior high."

The Jewells came to Harding in 1968 from their native Indiana with two small children, Terri and Jeffrey. Fred joined the history faculty, a position he still fills. Now the family includes Jason and Laura. The family has spent one semester with the Harding in Florence program, for what she counts as "...a most wonderful experience."

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate at Indiana University, Alice still dreams of teaching Latin, but so far her assignments have been in English and literature.

In her sophomore literature classes especially, she admits she is a demanding teacher. "I try to see that my students learn what they're supposed to learn in each class," explaining that she operates from the Parable of the Talents standpoint. "If one is a five talent person, I just don't think he should be permitted to slide by using just one talent." That's why one of her greatest joys comes from students who many years after graduation still remember the literary classics of the Western World.

Because she expects the same of herself as she does her students, she maintains an almost unbelievable daily schedule. "I become tired just reading over her calendar," an office partner, Betty Ulrey, muses.

Relating the literary classics to the 20th Century is the goal for which Alice Jewell strives.

For years she has held membership in a neighborhood garden club, serving as an officer and/or flower show chairman. She's heavily involved in the White County Iris Society, with a more than casual interest in iris. In the spring her blooms take honors in shows, and her friends benefit from her efforts, too, for she often brings to work one for each desk in the department.

The family is deeply involved in the Searcy swimming program (Alice recently received certification as a Stroke and Turn Judge), an activity that developed from her determination not to let her children "sit and stare at the television set." As a result, her children have won numerous awards and two have nationally qualifying times. Alice swims regularly in the summer, but her serious commitment is to aerobics, which she practices three times a week year-round.

One talent that has been put on the back burner in recent years is sewing. Formerly she made "everything we wore, including Fred's sport coats," but she confesses she simply doesn't have enough hours for that anymore.

"Her door opens and shuts many times a day, with students coming by for academic or personal counseling," a colleague notices, and she's known for going the extra mile with persons with emotional and psychological problems.

But "the happiest hour of the week," she admits, is in the Cradle Roll class on Sundays at the College Church of Christ. "It's the most exciting, rewarding thing I do, and I've been doing it there for 12 years now," she beams. Holding to her theory, she expects the toddlers to learn, which they do. She gives them tests. "When I ask 'Who made this duck?' and they can say, 'God did,' then it's time for a big celebration."

Alice Jewell wears all her headpieces nobly.

Nationally Popular Speaker To Headline Youth Forum

Jeff Walling has been involved in the preaching of the gospel of Christ for the last 12 years. His dynamic style has made him a favorite among youth speakers and his current yearly schedule includes lectures all across the country for churches, teen programs, and colleges. He has appeared on over 500 lectureships, youth rallies, and evangelism seminars and speaks to tens of thousands every year in workshops and campaigns in this and other countries. Jeff has released several cassette albums for teens and adults and has authored articles for Christian family magazines, "Evangelism" magazine and is a contributing writer for the new publication "Image" magazine.

Walling's unique style is influenced by his educational background. His undergraduate work at the University of California, Irvine was in speech and communications with an emphasis in theater. His ministry was also blessed by the early training received from his father, the late T.J. Walling, who served as a minister for nearly 50 years until his death in 1978.

A native of California, Walling's local experience includes serving as minister of youth for five years with the Newland Street Church of Christ in Garden Grove, Calif. and pulpit minister for the Church of Christ in Anaheim, Calif. Currently Walling and his wife, Cathryn, worship with the Mission Viejo Church of Christ where he serves as the pulpit minister.

Hendrix's Career Committed To 'Making Things Better'

By Tim Bruner

Educational programs continue to pay tribute to former Arkansas State Senator Olen Hendrix of rural Antoine because of Hendrix's lifelong efforts to make good things better.

Since 1964 he has been a member of Harding's Board of Trustees. He currently serves as chairman of the Board's finances and investment committee, vice chairman of the special recognition committee and member of the budget and development committees.

Olen Hendrix Hall, which is located in the center of campus and houses the School of Nursing and the Department of Home Economics, was named in his honor when it was renovated in 1975.

Much of the 24 years Hendrix spent in the Arkansas State Senate was devoted to sponsoring education-related legislation and official support of developmental efforts in behalf of the underprivileged.

His legal initiative resulted in a number of sweeping improvements in providing state funds for outstanding students in higher education and professional schools and for assistance for the mentally ill through his role as chairman of the State Hospital Board.

Today hundreds of Arkansas college-aged students are receiving financial aid Hendrix pushed through the Senate. Professional students now receive grants for out-of-state schools in fields in which Arkansas has no training program. And the improvements he steered through the mental illness department of the State Hospital have gained national attention.

All of which is not too poor a showing for a self-made man from the hills of southwest Arkansas whose formal education ended with "four years in the eighth grade because that was the highest grade in our school district and my dad thought I was too young to quit school any sooner."

Since then Hendrix says he has developed a keen appreciation for the doors of opportunity which education can open.

"I didn't have a good educational background or many options when I got started in life," Hendrix said. "But I had good parents who taught me well the blessings of helping people. And with my hobby — which is making money — and the avenue of Harding University, I'm able to do exactly what I enjoy most — helping others who need that chance, that opportunity, at a pivotal time in their lives."

Though he regrets not having had the opportunity for a higher education in a Christian college setting, Hendrix has devoted his profitable hobby to "helping others find life-changing and life-directing opportunities at Harding University."

While he and his wife Carmen did not technically have that opportunity, he says they took advantage of it through their four children, all of whom attended Harding, and now through their grandchildren, five of whom have attended, with one currently enrolled and others listed as future prospects.

Hendrix has been serving as a bank president since 1950, currently holding that position with the Bank of Delight. He served 24 uninterrupted years in the Arkansas Senate and maintains financial interests in farming, lumber and land holdings. All those ventures have combined to provide him with the capability to perpetuate his hobby.

"I only wish I could have attended Harding University to have had certain qualities to help me better my position in life," he added.

Olen Hendrix is still trying to make good things better.

Idaho Trustee One of Harding's Top Recruiters

By David Crouch

Boise, Idaho to Searcy, Ark. — there is no easy way to get from one to the other. Yet Dallas Harris has made the trip 31 times in the last 17 years.

Harris, a Boise businessman, attended his first Board of Trustees meeting in November, 1970. Since then he has missed only two meetings of the group.

His trips to Searcy did not start in 1970 nor did his interest in Harding. Both began 12 years earlier when he was helping his daughter, Felicia, choose a Christian school for her education.

Felicia chose Harding, and Dallas and Alta Harris became frequent visitors to Searcy. He is not sure just how many times he has made the 2,000 mile trip.

Harris credits Dr. George Benson with getting him more involved in Harding and in Christian education. During Dr. Clifton L. Ganus' tenure as president he was added to the Board.

The soft-spoken Harris has a contagious enthusiasm for Harding that makes him a good student recruiter. Each year he makes sure Harding's Admission Office has all the information it needs on prospective students in the Boise area.

"Our Christian young people need Harding," he explains. "We all need to do our part in helping teenagers to choose a Christian college. Our choice is Harding."

"Three of our four children (Felicia, Millie and Randy) attended Harding. As parents, Alta and I wanted a school where our children could receive a good education, could mature in a Christian environment, and could have the opportunity to find a Christian mate. These are important to us, and we found all of this at Harding."

Students from the Boise area who are attending Harding look forward to Harris' visits to Searcy. He always takes them out to dinner, brings them news from home and listens to their reflections on their activities. Currently six students are enrolled from Boise.

When not on the road between Boise and Searcy Harris manages to stay busy in a variety of civic and business activities. He is president of Producers Lumber Company and chairman of the board of Sawtooth Forest Products of Idaho.

Producers Lumber Company is a family affair. Randy, Felicia and Gary all assist their father in the management of the company.

He helped organize the American Bank of Commerce in Boise, and he now serves as a director of the bank. He also operates a cattle ranch with 1,000 head of cattle.

Harris has held memberships in the Chamber of Commerce, in the Kiwanis Club and on the city's Planning and Zoning Commission. For 25 years he has served as an elder in the El Dorado Church of Christ in Boise.

On Harding's Board Harris serves on the finance and investments, budget, audit and development committees. When queried about being on all the "numbers" committees, the astute businessman smiled and jokingly replied, "Maybe my fellow board members are making a mistake."

Harris is looking forward to many more trips to Searcy. "Harding has a great heritage of service. Dr. Ganus has done a splendid job and I know David Burks will provide that same type of leadership.

"What will be Harding's role in the next decade? I sincerely believe that the service the school can provide will only increase. Harding will continue to grow."

If gold pins were awarded for coming the most miles to attend board meetings, Dallas Harris would have a lapel full of them. Maybe all those miles represent just the tip of the iceberg of his commitment to Harding.

Moore Earns Second NAIA Academic All-America Honor

Harding wide receiver Jack Moore has been named to the Division I Academic All-America football team selected by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for the second straight season.

The announcement was made by Charles Epler, NAIA Director of Communication. Moore was one of 44 athletes recognized in Division I.

A 5-11, 176 lb., wide receiver, Moore earned a 3.78 grade point average while majoring in premedicine/chemistry. He is a native of Huntsville, Ala.

During the 1986 season Moore caught 35 passes for 476 yards and two touchdowns. As a member of the specialty team he was credited with five solo tackles.

"Jack is a tremendous young man," Bison head coach John Prock said. "He's an achiever in the classroom and an outstanding athlete. It's great to see him get this national recognition."

Moore and teammate Brooks Davis also were nominated for the Academic All-America team selected each year by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA). Davis, a sophomore linebacker from Bartlesville, Okla., and Moore were selected to the District 6 team, made up of student-athletes from Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Davis is a management major and has earned a 3.55 GPA.

Jack Moore

"These young men are student-athletes in the finest sense of the term," Prock said. "They are a credit to Harding and our football program."

Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Moore of Huntsville, Ala. and Davis is the son of Mrs. Karen Williams of Bartlesville, Okla.

Bisons Contend For Playoff Berth, Lady Bisons Pull Off Major Upset

At the halfway mark in the Arkansas Intercollegiate conference season Harding basketball teams are making ready for the stretch run.

Coach Jess Bucy's Bisons stand 10-7 in league action and 12-12 overall as they seek to qualify for a berth in the post-season NAIA District 17 playoff.

"We've got a relatively young team this year but we've made remarkable strides since the first of the season," Bucy said. "If we can develop our consistency we've got a solid chance at making the tournament."

Team captain Shannon Hughes of Tyler, Texas has been providing the senior leadership as the Bisons have averaged an even 80 points a game. Hughes is averaging 11.8 points per game while leading the team in assists and steals. He is the team's leading free throw shooter with 57 of 70 for an .814 percentage.

Junior point guard Tim Smallwood of Tulsa, Okla. and two first-year performers, Corey Camper of Brinkley, Ark. and Rolando Garcia of Little Rock, have also contributed some impressive performances.

With the addition of the three-point play this season, the 5-8 Smallwood has added a new dimension to his effectiveness. He is averaging 11.2 ppg. shooting a .521 percentage from the field. From three-point range he has connected on 29 of 55 attempts for a fine .527 percentage.

Camper, a poised 6-4 performer, is leading the Bisons in scoring with a 13.6 average. He also is the team's second leading rebounder with a 5.3 average per game. Garcia, a slender 6-8 performer, has earned himself a starter's position and is averaging 9.3 ppg. He leads the team in rebounding with a 6.3 average and is shooting .582 from the field.

For the Lady Bisons the season has had its up and down moments. A high point for the still-young women's program was an 86-85 victory over nationally ranked University of Arkansas-Monticello Jan. 22.

"Our girls really played top basketball," Lady Bisons coach Phil Watkins said. "Our program and our team has come a long way and the performance against UAM was outstanding."

Junior Teri Loven is setting a strong pace for the Lady Bisons with a 15.6 scoring average. The 5-7 native of Clinton, Ark. also has the season's high game with 31 points against Arkansas Baptist College.

The team's rebounding leader is freshman Stephany Smith of Brookhaven, Miss. Through 15 games she has 135 rebounds for an average of 9 per game. She is scoring 12.7 ppg.

Also averaging in double figures is point guard Shawn Bradford of Bee Branch, Ark. with 10.5 points per game. At the midway point of the campaign the Lady Bisons are 4-10.

NAIA Elects Green To Hall of Fame

Stan Green, director of public relations and sports information director at Harding University, has been elected to the NAIA Hall of Fame in the Meritorious Service category.

Green will be inducted at the NAIA Hillyard Hall of Fame luncheon at the Vista International Hotel in Kansas City, Mo., March 17. The induction ceremony is part of the 50th annual NAIA men's championship basketball tournament.

"This tribute to Stan is in recognition of his support for athletes at Harding, to the NAIA District 17, and to the NAIA in general," said Bonnie Morrow, national staff liaison for the NAIA office. "It is for exemplifying the highest ideals of intercollegiate athletics and fine moral character."

"It is our highest honor."

A 49-year-old native of Waldo, Ark., Green received a bachelor's degree in science in 1959 from the University of Houston. In addition to his administrative duties he also teaches graphic design classes in Harding's art department.

Green has served as NAIA District 17 information director for the past 21 years, as well as serving as secretary to the NAIA District 17 executive committee for the same duration. He is a charter member of the AIC Sports Information Directors Association and has served in every office of the association at least twice.

In 1979, Green was presented the Clarence "Ike" Pearson Award by the NAIA-SIDA as the Sports Information Director of the Year. Green has also served in every office of the national sports information association.

He has won more than 40 NAIA All-American awards for his publications, and has received 12 additional awards for publications from the College Sports Information Directors Association.

Green has served as media coordinator at six NAIA Championship Outdoor Track and Field Championships held in Arkansas, as well as media coordinator for seven NAIA football playoff games, including one national championship.

The NAIA Hall of Fame was formed in 1952 to honor players and coaches and also recognize individuals for greater contributions to the organizations. Since 1952, 665 people have been inducted into the Hall of Fame. There have been 313 athletes, 200 coaches and 152 people elected for meritorious service.

Green is the sixth Harding representative to be recognized by the NAIA Hall of Fame. Track and cross country coach Ted Lloyd was inducted in the coaches category and Jim Crawford (track), Cliff Clark (track), Charles Burt (bowling), and Elwin "Preacher" Roe (baseball) have been recognized in the category for former athletes.

Football Coaching Clinic Set For April 17-18

The second annual Harding Football Coaching Clinic will be held April 17-18 during the Spring Sing weekend and will feature former Bison athletes as speakers.

"Our clinic last year was very well received," said Bison head coach John Prock. "Former players who are now coaching will speak at the different sessions and we hope to have an even better turnout this year. It's open to everyone."

Clinic sessions will begin Friday, April 17 with registration from 8 to 8:30 a.m. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held with demonstrations and a light workout from 3:30 to 5 p.m. On Saturday, meeting will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at noon.

The Black and Gold game, culminating the spring workouts, will be held Saturday, April 18 at 1 p.m.

More information concerning the Coaching Clinic can be obtained from Coach Prock by writing Station A, Box 765, Searcy, Ark. 72143.
